New Probe

U.S. To Try Space Shot-Look At Mars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States dropped plans Thursday for another probe of Venus and decided instead to try a spacecraft look at Mars.

The major shift in the inter-planetary research program results from the unexpected success of the first Venus launch, Mariner 2.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that, in the light of the mass of data obtained by Mariner 2, it had decided against another Venus launch planned for March 1964.

Instead a somewhat similar craft will be sent to Mars in November or December 1964, and there will be later Venus missions with an improved type of Mariner spacecraft.

Although officials weren't commenting, one factor in the change of plans may have been the probe which the Soviet Union announced last Nov. 1 that they launched toward Mars.

The Soviet scientists said their 1,965-pound craft carried equipment to photograph the surface of Mars from a distance of 600 to 6,800 miles next June 25, and relay the data to earth.

The forthcoming Mariner craft for the Mars probe will be about the same size and shape as Mariner 2—12 feet long, weighing 447 pounds—but will carry somewhat different scientific equipment.

NASA said that some type of visual experiment is under consideration.

By 1966 a more advanced version of Mariner, called Voyager, will be used to attempt to eject instrumented capsules for possible landings on Mars and Venus.

NASA plans a final report on Mariner's Venus data at a news conference in mid-February.

British Palace Damaged By Fire

LONDON (AP) — Fire blazed through the roof of Kensington Palace on Thursday and brought Princess Margaret out on the street — eagerly snapping photographs. She lives there.

Flames gushed some 30 feet in to the air from the palace roof. A 100-strong force of fire fighters rushed to the scene, smashed holes in the roof and poured in water.

It took less than an hour to bring the blaze under control. Princess Margaret, in headscarf and topcoat, stood almost unnoticed among the crowd of spectators and trained her camera at the firemen.

The fire broke out in roof rafters near a new apartment being prepared for the princess and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Rusk, Kuznetsov Face Problems In Calm Discussion

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Russia's Vasily V .Kuznetsov joined Thursday in expressing hope that "we are entering a period in which some outstanding problems might be solved," a U.S. spokesman said.

This statement, by State Department press officer Joseph W. Reap, was not repeated by the Soviet deputy foreign minister himself after nearly four hours with Rusk and other U.S. officials.

Kuznetsov described his second day of Washington discussions as "interesting" and "useful" and said they covered "some important international problems." He declined to go beyond that.

Interest Indicated

After the Russian's meeting with President Kennedy Wednesday and with State Department leaders Thursday U.S. informants were inclined to think there was some indication that the Soviets are interested in reaching a disarmament agreement particularly a ban on nuclear testing.

Kuznetsov talked with the U.S. disarmament chief, William C. Foster, for about an hour following an hour's informal discussion with Rusk and a 1½-hour social lunch given by the secretary of state.

Reap said there was no business transacted at the State Department talks, a general reference was made to disarmament but none to Cuba, and no systematic discussion of any East-West issues was undertaken.

Period Of Understanding

"References were made to the hope that we are entering a period in which some outstanding problems might be solved. Both sides expressed the hope that this was the case," the State Department spokesman added.

Attending the luncheon were about a dozen American and Russian officials. Kuznetsov was accompanied by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. The Americans included U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, East-West affairs specialist Llewellyn Thompson and Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state in charge of U.N. affairs.

Kuznetsov, here on a 2½-day visit on U.S. invitation, is to head back for Moscow Friday. He has been in New York representing Russia in the recently concluded negotiations for a Cuban crisis settlement.

The point in having him see high U.S. officials, American informants said, is to sound out the current Soviet position on various subjects, give him U.S. views which he can convey to the Kremlin and in general keep open the discussion pipeline between Washington and Moscow.

Khrushchev Makes Surprise Polish Visit

By GENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Premier Khrushchev broke a train journey to East Berlin for secluded talks Thursday night with Polish leaders as the Soviet government newspaper warned that a Berlin crisis more dangerous than the one over Cuba may be coming.

Ever since it became known that Khrushchev would attend the sixth East German Communist party congress next week speculation has mounted that the Soviet leader would make it the scene for a new effort to settle the Berlin problem.

His stopover here, his first visit to the Polish capital since 1959, was viewed as a preliminary to a possible East-bloc summit in East Berlin.

Talk of such a summit increased when it was reported the Polish party leader, Wladyslaw Gomulka may attend. That it will not be a complete summit was indicated, however, when Antonin Novotny, the Czechoslovak party chief, arrived in Moscow on Thursday en route to Indonesia, Cambodia, North Viet Nam and Burma for a series of Southeast Asian visits.

Khrushchev is expected to remain here until the weekend.

The Soviet leader's decision to stop in Warsaw apparently caught Polish government officials by surprise. There were no flags or banners out for him, and only a few hours before his arrival the official Polish press agency said it had no details of his visit.

Khrushchev arrived at a shabby suburban station.

French Spy Is Sentenced

PARIS (AP) — Sami Schenasi, 29, who admitted supplying information to the Soviet Union while working for the U.S. armed forces in France, was sentenced to two years prison Thursday for espionage.

Schenasi, a Frenchman of Egyptian origin, was also fined $240. He was arrested after offering his services as a spy to the French government. When asked for his previous experience he told of giving information to Soviet agents for money.

The information included types of fuels sent to American bases and names of certain commanders. Schenasi's attorney's maintained he was more of a fraud than a spy.

Telephone Co. Steps Up Fight Against Fraud

NEW YORK (AP) — The telephone company is stepping up its fight to wipe out fraud and thievery costing it millions of dollars a year in revenue.

Apparently, says American Telephone & Telegraph Co. lots of people think that cheating the phone company is a sort of social game.

"People think that nickels and dimes are insignificant because they're dealing with a big company but those nickels and dimes add up to dollars quickly," says Francis J. Moses, general security coordinator for the Bell System's 66 million telephones.

"Our aim is to let people know that just as if they rob a bank, they are going to get caught and be tried," he adds.

What forms does this fraud and thievery take?

Recently a man in Ohio who felt he had been unjustly denied unemployment compensation benefits decided to do something about it.

He carried his appeal to state officials and lawmakers — mostly by long distance telephone calls to Columbus. But he charged the calls to the Unemployment Compensation Bureau.

This is known as toll fraud.

In the last six months half a dozen operations in the East and Midwest have been wiped out. In each case the principals received prison sentences. Their business was breaking into pay phone coin boxes.

Moses, a 6-foot, 200-pound former Villanova University football player who looks the part of a security agent, estimated Bell System losses of cash stolen from its million pay phones, and damage to the instruments, at nearly $5 million a year. Five years ago the loss wasn't much above $750,000.

And, phone companies lose a larger, unestimated amount from such fraud as when a person charges his call to the number of another customer. This is called a third number charges.

GILLINGHAM, England (AP)—Four robbers rammed an armored car with a truck Thursday and escaped with an $84,000 payroll.

Job Picture Up Slightly In December

Improvement Not As Good As Had Been Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's job picture improved a bit in December but not enough to get excited about—which pretty much sums up all of 1962.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that employment declined by 420,000, to 67,561,000, about what was seasonally expected due to cold weather. Unemployment rose slightly by 16,000, to 3,817,000—less than the 100,000 rise normally expected in December.

The figures brought the nation's idle rate down to 5.6 per cent of the work force, compared with 5.8 in November, 5.5 in October and 6 per cent in December 1961.

A panel of experts who compile the monthly job statistics put out the figures at a news conference under a new system designed to divorce the jobs facts from any political interpretation. This procedure had been recommended by a study group.

Harold Goldstein, the Labor Department's assistant labor statistics commissioner who heads the new reporting panel, said the December job figures reflected practically no change, other than seasonal from the November data. But he and the panel made it clear the general job situation isn't improving substantially, either.

A comparison of the December figures with those for the same month a year earlier showed that the labor force was up about 1 million, employment up by nearly 1.3 million, while unemployment was down by some 275,000.

Love Allowance New Japanese Fringe Benefit

TOKYO (AP)—To travel allowances, housing allowances, food allowances and other amenities contrived to make life easier, something new has been added: The love allowance.

To the 130 employes of the Kyomeisha Musical Instrument Co., in the central Japan city of Ina, the system developed by Muniyuki Kitahara, 31, the company president, works like this:

A male and female worker are attracted to each other and want to go steady.

They so inform Kitahara, who officially announces them to be in love.

Then, for the duration of their courtship each receives a "love allowance" of 500 yen ($1.38) a month.

So far one couple has been united in wedlock following this procedure and four couples are engaged. If an engaged couple decides to call it off, there's no penalty.

"The whole idea is to promote productive efficiency and harmony—and it certainly does," he said.

Previously, the company had been racked by a series of personnel problems, mostly caused by personal jealousies.

"Now," said Kitahara, "We're more like one big family."

Kitahara said he arrived at the 500 yen a monthly figure because that's about what it costs for one person to see two movies a month with a snack after each.

Tshombe Pledges Support To UN

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — Freed from U. N. house arrest, President Moise Tshombe made a peace pilgrimage deep into southern Katanga on Thursday and was cheered by his people. He appeared to be taking the first reluctant step to meet U. N. demands for unity in the Congo.

But thunderclouds of uncertainty still hung over northern Katanga. An AP dispatch from Kolwezi, where Tshombe had set up headquarters for a time, said a die-hard core of his backers were set to blow up vital copper plants and a power dam there if the United Nations advanced.

Diplomatic Upheavel

On the diplomatic front, the central Congo government in Leopoldville ordered the British and Belgian consuls to get out of Elisabethville — the British said within 24 hours. Leopoldville ousted them because of their "political positions," an apparent reference to their mediation efforts between Tshombe and the United Nations.

Tshombe emerged from his U.N.-encircled presidential palace in Elisabethville shortly before dawn with the permission of his captors. He set out in a black, American sedan on a long drive to the south several miles ahead of a U.N. armored column.

The U.N. column was assigned to open up the clogged road and rail supply lines from Northern Rhodesia to Elisabethville, the Katangan capital where food is running low.

Orders No Resistance

The column reached the Rhodesian border without a shot being fired after Tshombe moved ahead, declaring to his tattered troops along the road: "I tell you not to oppose the United Nations because I do not want the people to be massacred."

Tshombe's release came as a surprise. U.N. Secretary-General U Thant ordered his detention after Tshombe had threatened to blow up the installations at Kolwezi if the United Nation troops advanced on the town. Thant demanded free movement into Kolwezi as well as everywhere else in the secessionist province.

Brazil Faces New Political Controversy

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—President Joao Goulart's landslide referendum victory for full executive powers was blooming Thursday into a major political controversy. It had the earmarks of the political crises of the past year.

The president — hamstrung by a parliamentary system that stripped him of full power—won a heavy margin in a plebiscite last Sunday to restore Brazil's traditional presidential system. Under terms of the plebiscite law, however, Goulart would have to wait 90 days, at most, after the new Congress convenes Jan. 31 to reshape the new presidency.

Controversy was blowing up over efforts of some political leaders to give Goulart the full executive powers immediately, or soon after the lame-duck Congress meets next Tuesday.

Refreshed and obviously happy, Goulart, 44, returned to the hinterland capital, Brasilia, Wednesday and announced he planned to adhere to the plebiscite law. Nevertheless, Goulart privately was reported anxious to start swinging the kind of whip he feels is needed to get pet reform programs moving.

Reach Agreement On Use Of Flags

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Panama announced Thursday that agreement has been reached on the use of the flag of Panama and on the functioning of foreign consuls in the Canal Zone.

A communique issued by the State Department summarized the results of six months of discussions in Panama between Gov. Robert J. Flemming and Ambassador Joseph S. Farlan, the U.S. envoy to Panama.

Private organizations and persons in the zone are free to display flags at will over their places of residence or business, the communique said.

Leaders Wait Message Of President

Both Houses Recess Until Monday Morning

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress settled down gingerly Thursday for what many members predict will be a long session, running probably until October.

The Senate and House met briefly, after Wednesday's opening ceremonies, and then adjourned to await President Kennedy's annual State of the Union Message.

Kennedy will deliver the message at a joint session of the two chambers Monday noon. It is expected to include a general outline of the legislative proposals he will submit in the next few weeks.

Budget On Thursday

The White House announced the President will send his budget to Congress on Thursday, Jan. 17, and his economic message on Monday, Jan. 21.

Speaker of the House John W. McCormack of Massachusetts told a news conference that the 39-vote margin by which the administration won its fight to prevent the rules committee from returning to Southern Democratic and Republican control was "certainly a favorable sign."

McCormack said the 235-196 vote was a half-dozen votes more than he had expected.

Greater Unity

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, assistant Democratic floor leader said "more than 50 per cent of the Southerners were with us" and the vote shows "the party is becoming more unified."

In the Senate Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson banged his gavel and a clerk who had journeyed over from the House announced:

"The House of Representatives informs the Senate that a quorum is present and that John McCormack, a representative of Massachusetts, has been elected speaker."

This was not exactly flash news to the Senate but it was required by custom. Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, issued a statement that he will propose an updating of what he called "a horse and buggy operation" of congressional machinery.

Moss said the last time Congress reformed its procedures was in 1946.

No Change Wanted

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., issued a statement that things should be left the way they are. Criticizing efforts to revise the Senate and House rules, Thurmond said the present rules provide for orderly deliberation and procedure.

Senate Republican leaders called a conference for Monday morning to select a new campaign chairman for 1964 and discuss proposed changes in Senate rules.

Most Republicans expect Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky will be named to the chairmanship post being vacated by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Goldwater is barred from serving another term because he is up for re-election next year.

Cardinal Cushing Raised Million Dollars For Cuban Ransom

BOSTON (AP) — The Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston revealed Thursday he raised $1 million to help liberate prisoners from Cuba.

Richard Cardinal Cushing released a statement late Thursday identifying himself as solely responsible for the collection of the $1 million.

He said he finally identified himself as the often rumored "mysterious donor" because of pressure from news sources.

"It is appropriate and fitting," the statement said, "for a Catholic prelate of the United States to have a part in the liberation of the 'Cuban fighters' who love their country and the faith of their fathers."

Cardinal Cushing said he received a telegram Dec. 28, 1962, from the Cuban Families Committee inviting him to attend a reception given by President Kennedy for the Cuban freedom fighters who had been liberated and were in Miami, Fla.

"Prior to that time," Cardinal Cushing's statement said, "I was identified with the original committee that was to collect the multimillion ransom price for these prisoners. This committee never formally functioned and to my knowledge it collected no funds.

"Then I became one of the sponsors of, and advisers to, the Cuban Families Committee consisting of relatives of those taken prisoner at the time of the abortive invasion in April 1961 of their native land at the Bay of Pigs," the statement continued.

"Quietly I contacted a host of benefactors who in recent years have helped me to collect a million dollars or more each year during the past five years" for various Catholic relief purposes, the statement said.

"Those identified with the liberation of the Cuban prisoners," the statement said, "were well aware of my activities in behalf of the Church and social justice in Latin America.

"When, therefore, it was necessary to collect $2.9 million in addition to the millions of dollars worth of food and medicines a few days before Christmas for the release of these prisoners I again assumed an active part in the collecting of that fund.

"I immediately pledged the sum of $1 million to be collected by me prior to the end of January," the cardinal's statement continued.

"Like many others I wanted the prisoners home with their loved ones before Christmas Day."

The cardinal said he "wanted no publicity about this pledge because I was only a voice appealing for those who could not appeal for themselves. The donors responded in the spirit of Christmas, with the understanding that their money would be returned if the ransom sum could not be raised.

"I worked night and day in the same spirit and through person to person contacts I have fulfilled my pledge."

Tshombe Pledges Support To UN

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — Freed from U. N. house arrest, President Moise Tshombe made a peace pilgrimage deep into southern Katanga on Thursday and was cheered by his people. He appeared to be taking the first reluctant step to meet U. N. demands for unity in the Congo.

But thunderclouds of uncertainty still hung over northern Katanga. An AP dispatch from Kolwezi, where Tshombe had set up headquarters for a time, said a die-hard core of his backers were set to blow up vital copper plants and a power dam there if the United Nations advanced.

Diplomatic Upheavel

On the diplomatic front, the central Congo government in Leopoldville ordered the British and Belgian consuls to get out of Elisabethville — the British said within 24 hours. Leopoldville ousted them because of their "political positions," an apparent reference to their mediation efforts between Tshombe and the United Nations.

Tshombe emerged from his U.N.-encircled presidential palace in Elisabethville shortly before dawn with the permission of his captors. He set out in a black, American sedan on a long drive to the south several miles ahead of a U.N. armored column.

The U.N. column was assigned to open up the clogged road and rail supply lines from Northern Rhodesia to Elisabethville, the Katangan capital where food is running low.

Orders No Resistance

The column reached the Rhodesian border without a shot being fired after Tshombe moved ahead, declaring to his tattered troops along the road: "I tell you not to oppose the United Nations because I do not want the people to be massacred."

Tshombe's release came as a surprise. U.N. Secretary-General U Thant ordered his detention after Tshombe had threatened to blow up the installations at Kolwezi if the United Nation troops advanced on the town. Thant demanded free movement into Kolwezi as well as everywhere else in the secessionist province.

Brazil Faces New Political Controversy

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—President Joao Goulart's landslide referendum victory for full executive powers was blooming Thursday into a major political controversy. It had the earmarks of the political crises of the past year.

The president — hamstrung by a parliamentary system that stripped him of full power—won a heavy margin in a plebiscite last Sunday to restore Brazil's traditional presidential system. Under terms of the plebiscite law, however, Goulart would have to wait 90 days, at most, after the new Congress convenes Jan. 31 to reshape the new presidency.

Controversy was blowing up over efforts of some political leaders to give Goulart the full executive powers immediately, or soon after the lame-duck Congress meets next Tuesday.

Refreshed and obviously happy, Goulart, 44, returned to the hinterland capital, Brasilia, Wednesday and announced he planned to adhere to the plebiscite law. Nevertheless, Goulart privately was reported anxious to start swinging the kind of whip he feels is needed to get pet reform programs moving.

Reach Agreement On Use Of Flags

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Panama announced Thursday that agreement has been reached on the use of the flag of Panama and on the functioning of foreign consuls in the Canal Zone.

A communique issued by the State Department summarized the results of six months of discussions in Panama between Gov. Robert J. Flemming and Ambassador Joseph S. Farlan, the U.S. envoy to Panama.

Private organizations and persons in the zone are free to display flags at will over their places of residence or business, the communique said.

Leaders Wait Message Of President

Both Houses Recess Until Monday Morning

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress settled down gingerly Thursday for what many members predict will be a long session, running probably until October.

The Senate and House met briefly, after Wednesday's opening ceremonies, and then adjourned to await President Kennedy's annual State of the Union Message.

Kennedy will deliver the message at a joint session of the two chambers Monday noon. It is expected to include a general outline of the legislative proposals he will submit in the next few weeks.

Budget On Thursday

The White House announced the President will send his budget to Congress on Thursday, Jan. 17, and his economic message on Monday, Jan. 21.

Speaker of the House John W. McCormack of Massachusetts told a news conference that the 39-vote margin by which the administration won its fight to prevent the rules committee from returning to Southern Democratic and Republican control was "certainly a favorable sign."

McCormack said the 235-196 vote was a half-dozen votes more than he had expected.

Greater Unity

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, assistant Democratic floor leader said "more than 50 per cent of the Southerners were with us" and the vote shows "the party is becoming more unified."

In the Senate Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson banged his gavel and a clerk who had journeyed over from the House announced:

"The House of Representatives informs the Senate that a quorum is present and that John McCormack, a representative of Massachusetts, has been elected speaker."

This was not exactly flash news to the Senate but it was required by custom. Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, issued a statement that he will propose an updating of what he called "a horse and buggy operation" of congressional machinery.

Moss said the last time Congress reformed its procedures was in 1946.

No Change Wanted

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., issued a statement that things should be left the way they are. Criticizing efforts to revise the Senate and House rules, Thurmond said the present rules provide for orderly deliberation and procedure.

Senate Republican leaders called a conference for Monday morning to select a new campaign chairman for 1964 and discuss proposed changes in Senate rules.

Most Republicans expect Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky will be named to the chairmanship post being vacated by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Goldwater is barred from serving another term because he is up for re-election next year.

Cardinal Cushing Raised Million Dollars For Cuban Ransom

BOSTON (AP) — The Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston revealed Thursday he raised $1 million to help liberate prisoners from Cuba.

Richard Cardinal Cushing released a statement late Thursday identifying himself as solely responsible for the collection of the $1 million.

He said he finally identified himself as the often rumored "mysterious donor" because of pressure from news sources.

"It is appropriate and fitting," the statement said, "for a Catholic prelate of the United States to have a part in the liberation of the 'Cuban fighters' who love their country and the faith of their fathers."

Cardinal Cushing said he received a telegram Dec. 28, 1962, from the Cuban Families Committee inviting him to attend a reception given by President Kennedy for the Cuban freedom fighters who had been liberated and were in Miami, Fla.

"Prior to that time," Cardinal Cushing's statement said, "I was identified with the original committee that was to collect the multimillion ransom price for these prisoners. This committee never formally functioned and to my knowledge it collected no funds.

"Then I became one of the sponsors of, and advisers to, the Cuban Families Committee consisting of relatives of those taken prisoner at the time of the abortive invasion in April 1961 of their native land at the Bay of Pigs," the statement continued.

"Quietly I contacted a host of benefactors who in recent years have helped me to collect a million dollars or more each year during the past five years" for various Catholic relief purposes, the statement said.

"Those identified with the liberation of the Cuban prisoners," the statement said, "were well aware of my activities in behalf of the Church and social justice in Latin America.

"When, therefore, it was necessary to collect $2.9 million in addition to the millions of dollars worth of food and medicines a few days before Christmas for the release of these prisoners I again assumed an active part in the collecting of that fund.

"I immediately pledged the sum of $1 million to be collected by me prior to the end of January," the cardinal's statement continued.

"Like many others I wanted the prisoners home with their loved ones before Christmas Day."

The cardinal said he "wanted no publicity about this pledge because I was only a voice appealing for those who could not appeal for themselves. The donors responded in the spirit of Christmas, with the understanding that their money would be returned if the ransom sum could not be raised.

"I worked night and day in the same spirit and through person to person contacts I have fulfilled my pledge."

Red Cross Prepares Final Air Shipment To Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — The final air shipment of ransom goods will be made to Havana Friday, a Red Cross official announced Thursday.

"Under present plans, all future shipments of such supplies will be sent to Cuba by sea," the spokesman said.

Friday's flight will be the 15th since the airlift was set up to ferry supplies used to buy the freedom of the Bay of Pigs invaders. It will carry 15,000 pounds of medical and pharmaceutical supplies and foodstuffs.

The next shipment to Havana will be transported aboard the cargo ship SS Shirley Lykes, which is slated to carry about 7,000 tons of supplies.

Approximately 6,000 tons of goods are to be loaded aboard the vessel at Baltimore, Md., where it docked Thursday, the Red Cross said. Another 1,000 tons will be put aboard at Port Everglades, Fla., early next week and then the ship will head for Cuba.

Friday's flight will bring to more than 338,000 pounds the total amount of supplies airlifted to Cuba. Officials estimated it will require at least two more shiploads of supplies before the promised goods are delivered.

The overall cost of the ransom —including labor and transportation—will exceed $70 million, they said.

23 Per Cent Loss In Citrus Crop Due To Freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department reported Thursday that the Dec. 11-14 freeze in Florida severely damaged the 1962-63 citrus crop.

It said the orange crop dropped 23 per cent below production estimates last month because of the Florida cold snap. Estimated production also now is 17 per cent below the 1961-62 record crop, but total U.S. orange production is only expected to be 6 per cent below the 1956-60 average.

The department said all other types of citrus fruit also felt the effects of the Florida freeze.

It estimated prospective 1962-63 citrus production at 114,795,000 boxes of oranges, 34,700,000 boxes of grapefruit, and 14,000,000 boxes of lemons.

This compares with 1961-62 production of 138,095,000 boxes of oranges, 42,910,000 boxes of grapefruit, and 16,740,000 boxes of lemons.

Railroads See A Ray Of Hope Out Of Financial Difficulty

EDITOR'S Note: The famed "Iron Horse," once the backbone of U.S. transportation, has become a self-described sickly giant. Nevertheless, the railroads now profess to see a ray of light in the financial overcast. The following story tells why.

By JOHN HERBERS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite growing financial problems, America's railroads appear to be winning a labor-management struggle which they hope will bring dividends in the future.

The railroads have chalked up preliminary victories over the opposition of organized labor in three important areas:

—Through a series of rulings by the courts and presidential emergency boards, they are slowly gaining the right to lay off workers they say are no longer needed because of automation, consolidations and abandonment of service.

— The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has approved the first of a series of requests for major rail mergers and is expected to go along with others.

—The railroads' pooling of their resources against strikes, begun in 1959, is paying off and was recently upheld in a court decision.

The railroads say all three steps are necessary for their survival in a rapidly changing society. More than 20 railroad unions formally opposing these steps say the railroads are better off than they will admit and are being short sighted in seeking to reduce operations.

"Strike Insurance" Upheld

Last month, the U.S. District Court in New York upheld the "strike insurance" plan adopted in 1959 by the American Association of Railroads. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen challenged its legality following a strike against the Long Island Railroad in 1960. The Long Island was able to survive a 26-day shut down because it collected more than $1 million in strike insurance benefits.

Last fall, the Chicago and Northwestern used strike insurance to ride out a 30-day shut down called by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

Railroad trainmen charged that the strike insurance plan amounted to a pooling of resources by the railroads for multiparty bargaining in violation of the Railway Labor Act.

But the district court said the insurance pool was no more a violation of the law then the well-established right of unions to help each other during a strike.

The strike insurance covers only expenses and must be met daily in order to avoid bankruptcy during a strike. It does not cover loss of profits.

ICC Approved Takeover

In another decision involving the carriers, was the recently approved takeover of control of the ailing Baltimore & Ohio by the Chesapeake & Ohio. There has been speculation that this was the first step toward larger mergers that will result in three main railroads for the Northeastern United States. This includes the proposed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central.

In addition, an ICC examiner has recommended merger of the Seaboard and Atlantic Coast Line, and the full commission has approved acquisition of the Central of Georgia by the Southern Railway. No merger request has been denied in the past few months.

The Railway Labor Executives Association, composed of most of the railroad unions, has opposed every merger request before the commission. It has pointed out that in the past nine years railroad employment has been cut almost in half.

Back Necessary Discharges

Presidential emergency boards which have studied the employment situation have recognized that rail layoffs work a hardship on workers, particularly at a time of high national unemployment. But they have consistently recommended that railroad be permitted to discharge workers who are no longer needed, provided they are given ample notice and substantial severance pay.

The largest proposed layoff — the "feather-bedding" dispute involving operating personnel — is now pending before the Supreme Court on appeal from the Circuit Court in Chicago. The lower court held that railroads should be allowed to put new work rules into effect which would result in the immediate discharge of several thousand firemen.

Telegraphers on at least three railroads have lost their attempt to win a work rule whereby no position could be abolished without union approval. But they did win better salaries, working conditions and severance pay as the result of the Chicago & Northwestern strike. The same type of agreements are expected throughout the industry.

The most recent presidential board report, involving Southern Pacific and railway clerks, recommended that employes discharged because of automation be permitted to share in the savings to the railroads so long as they are unable to find new jobs. This proposal is still under negotiation.

The party praised Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for his "peace policy" in the Cuban crisis. By contrast, the party said, the policies of the Chinese Communists are "erroneous and dangerous."

Empire State Bldg. Fire Flares Anew

NEW YORK (AP)—A smoldering fire flared anew Thursday in in the Empire State Building, but was extinguished with little damage. The fire department posted a 24-hour guard inside the world's tallest building.

The fire started Tuesday night in water pipe insulation within a conduit shaft that rises to the 85th floor of the 102-story skyscraper. It damaged nine floors and forced evacuation of the building before it was brought under control. Authorities blamed a carelessly discarded cigarette for the blaze.

Apparently sparks from the original fire still remained in the insulation of the building's water pipes, and continued to smolder for another 24 hours. Firemen

Chiang Wants To Invade Mainland

State Department Is Disturbed By Repeated Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nationalist China's recent landings of guerrilla forces on the Chinese mainland and reports it will invade this spring brought some cautionary advice from the State Department on Wednesday.

Press officer Lincoln White reminded the Nationalist government it has agreed not to use force to solve its dispute with the Communist regime and to consult with the United States before any possible attempt to return to the mainland.

Newsmen questioned White about Tokyo reports that Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek is considering a do-or-die invasion, and about the landings reportedly being made to set up bases.

White said U.S. policy goes back to a communique issued by Chiang and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Taipei on Oct. 23, 1958. This was during Red China's artillery offensive against Nationalist offshore islands.

The communique reaffirmed the defensive nature of the U.S.-Chinese Nationalist security treaty and called for consultations and not the use of force.

White said there have been no consultations with the United States on the guerrilla operations.

Jackie To Hear JFK's Message

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy plans to go to Capitol Hill Monday to hear the President deliver his State of the Union address before a joint session of Congress.

The First Lady also will accompany the President to a fund raising gala to be held by the Democrats on Jan. 18 in the huge National Guard Armory.

Divided Stamp Is Not Valid

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Post Office Department Wednesday returned a letter to a sender who pasted one four-cent stamp and one-fourth of another four-cent stamp on the envelope.

A note on the envelope said: "I didn't have a one-cent stamp so I cut a four-cent stamp into four pieces."

The Post Office said the split stamp did not equal a one-cent stamp.

Congressman Worries About Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress had barely opened a new session Wednesday when one of its members started worrying about when it is going to adjourn.

Among the first bills introduced in the new session was one by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., calling for adjournment no later than the last day of July.

That is already a provision of the 1946 Reorganization Act, but the act also waives that deadline in case of a war emergency. The Korean War emergency declared in 1950 is still legally in effect and Congress has remained in session into September and October in recent years. It ran on to Oct. 13 last year.

Curtis' bill calls for an end to the Korean emergency and enforcement of the July 31 adjournment date.

India Rules Possession Undeclared Gold Illegal

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Indian government ruled Wednesday that possession of undeclared gold is illegal. There are minor exceptions for some things such as ornaments.

An announcement broadcast by Finance Minister Morarji Desai said each family has one month to declare its gold.

Desai said his main purpose was to strike at conditions that make India a gold smugglers' paradise. He estimated last August the value of gold smuggled into India annually was $52 to $63 million. Unofficial estimates put it at three times that.

Secondly, he said, the measure aims to remove India's traditional weakness for gold; for thousands of years it has played a vital part in religious and family ceremonies.

Desai said his third target was to flush out the wealth concealed in privately owned gold bars—worth an estimated $3.38 billion on the world markets. These bars, he said, were worth $8.6 billion at the prices prevailing in India last August when the calculations were made.

Foreclosures Reach High Point In '62

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreclosures on residences and small businesses probably reached a 23-year high in 1962, the Home Loan Bank Board reported Wednesday.

This is cause for concern, but not alarm, said the Federal Housing Administration, which has nearly two-thirds of its $1-billion guarantee reserve fund tied up in property on which citizens are either unable or unwilling to keep up mortgage payments.

The bank board's December digest of nonfarm foreclosures estimates 86,000 householders and businessmen lost their property last year. If the final figures bear out this forecast the total will represent more than an 8 per cent increase over 1961 and show the highest number of foreclosures since 1939.

For the first nine months of last year, foreclosures numbered 64,399 or 19 per cent above the total for the same period in 1961.

The bank board noted that although the number of foreclosures has more than tripled since 1950, the annual rate of forced closeouts for each 1,000 mortgaged homes has risen from 1.72 to less than 4.

A spokesman for the FHA said there are indications the rate of defaults on mortgage payments is leveling off.

Despite the upswing of foreclosures since Congress eased mortgage financing terms in 1960, federal reports show the situation would have to get a lot worse to reach the records set in the years of the great depression in the early 1930s.

In 1933 alone, 252,400 Americans lost their homes or nonfarm property.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Four of ♠

Declarer resorted to an end play to establish an unusual finessing situation for himself in today's hand.

After North raised South's opening one-heart bid to two, East entered the proceedings with a take-out double. He could have simply overcalled with two spades but, holding support in the other suits as well, he wished to offer inducement to his partner to compete on any distributional values. South redoubled and West bid two spades. East's raise to three spades paved the way for a possible save but, when South went on to four hearts, West declined to take the sacrifice.

Failure to bid four spades must be charged to his account as a craven act, for partner has bid up to three entirely on his own steam. West might have had five spades and nothing more. It will be observed that, as declarer, West would have lost one trick in each suit for a very inexpensive 100-point setback.

West opened the four of spades and, after East won the trick with the ace, he shifted to the queen of diamonds. Declarer ducked, but won the continuation with the ace of diamonds. The ace of hearts was cashed and then the seven was led over to North's queen so that South could trump a diamond with the eight of hearts. The deuce of trumps, which had been carefully preserved by the declarer, was now played to the dummy's six, and the last diamond was ruffed away as West followed with the king.

South cashed the king of spades throwing a club from the dummy and, with the side suits stripped away, he was ready to tackle clubs. The normal procedure would be to lead a low club and put in the ten from dummy in the hope that this would force out the ace—in other words, to take a finesse against West for the jack. But inasmuch as West had already shown up with the king of diamonds, declarer decided to play East for both the ace and jack of clubs.

When a small club was led from the closed hand, the king was played from the dummy putting East in with the ace. The latter was obliged to return a club in order to avoid presenting the declarer with a ruff and sluff. South merely permitted the club lead to ride to North's ten, thus restricting his losses to one trick in each of the three side suits.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♡	Double
Redouble	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠

Declarer resorted to an end play to establish an unusual finessing situation for himself in today's hand.

After North raised South's opening one-heart bid to two, East entered the proceedings with a take-out double. He could have simply overcalled with two spades but, holding support in the other suits as well, he wished to offer inducement to his partner to compete on any distributional values. South redoubled and West bid two spades. East's raise to three spades paved the way for a possible save but, when South went on to four hearts, West declined to take the sacrifice.

Failure to bid four spades must be charged to his account as a craven act, for partner has bid up to three entirely on his own steam. West might have had five spades and nothing more. It will be observed that, as declarer, West would have lost one trick in each suit for a very inexpensive 100-point setback.

West opened the four of spades and, after East won the trick with the ace, he shifted to the queen of diamonds. Declarer ducked, but won the continuation with the ace of diamonds. The ace of hearts was cashed and then the seven was led over to North's queen so that South could trump a diamond with the eight of hearts. The deuce of trumps, which had been carefully preserved by the declarer, was now played to the dummy's six, and the last diamond was ruffed away as West followed with the king.

South cashed the king of spades throwing a club from the dummy and, with the side suits stripped away, he was ready to tackle clubs. The normal procedure would be to lead a low club and put in the ten from dummy in the hope that this would force out the ace—in other words, to take a finesse against West for the jack. But inasmuch as West had already shown up with the king of diamonds, declarer decided to play East for both the ace and jack of clubs.

When a small club was led from the closed hand, the king was played from the dummy putting East in with the ace. The latter was obliged to return a club in order to avoid presenting the declarer with a ruff and sluff. South merely permitted the club lead to ride to North's ten, thus restricting his losses to one trick in each of the three side suits.

Realize why certain groups of foods are good for you, and include them in your diet every day

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Seven Charm Conditioners

It is far easier to look your best when you feel your best. That requires eating every day at least one of the beauty-full, health-full, foods from each of the "Basic Seven Groups." I'll thoroughly define them so you will better appreciate the importance of the guaranteed - for - vitality foods in your daily diet:

1. Leafy green and yellow vegetables, such as carrots, spinach, peas, beans, broccoli, lettuce and other salad greens, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, green peppers, celery. These foods provide vitamin A which you need for vigor, and for resistance to infection.

2. Citrus fruit and raw vegetables, such as oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, raw cabbage, tomato juice, cantaloupe, strawberries. Their vitamin C keeps your teeth sound and your gums in healthy condition.

3. Potatoes, other vegetables and fruits, such as beans (both navy and lima), avocados, bananas, dates, peaches, raisins. These provide minerals . . . vitamin C, as well.

4. Milk and all its derivatives—cheese, evaporated milk, ice cream — are sources of calcium, which prevents brittle nails, lifeless hair, and loss of vitality. Milk also contains riboflavin, one of the necessary B vitamins.

5. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs, dried peas and beans, nuts. These are the protein foods that help build firm muscles. Meats, especially liver and kidney, give you iron. So do eggs, along with vitamins A and D. You also get A and D vitamins in fish.

6. Whole grain or enriched bread and cereals . . . rice and baked goods, too. Here again is that complex vitamin B, so important for proper working of your nervous system, for a healthy appetite, and good digestion.

7. Fats, such as butter and margarine. Your minimum is three teaspoons a day, even if you are reducing, for you need the vitamins, and you also need fat. It helps to keep the skin soft and supple, also aids digestion, and gives you a feeling of satisfaction — so you won't "piece" between meals.

Realize why certain groups of foods are good for you, and include them in your diet every day

Secrets Of Charm

Seven Charm Conditioners

It is far easier to look your best when you feel your best. That requires eating every day at least one of the beauty-full, health-full, foods from each of the "Basic Seven Groups." I'll thoroughly define them so you will better appreciate the importance of the guaranteed - for - vitality foods in your daily diet:

1. Leafy green and yellow vegetables, such as carrots, spinach, peas, beans, broccoli, lettuce and other salad greens, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, green peppers, celery. These foods provide vitamin A which you need for vigor, and for resistance to infection.

2. Citrus fruit and raw vegetables, such as oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, raw cabbage, tomato juice, cantaloupe, strawberries. Their vitamin C keeps your teeth sound and your gums in healthy condition.

3. Potatoes, other vegetables and fruits, such as beans (both navy and lima), avocados, bananas, dates, peaches, raisins. These provide minerals . . . vitamin C, as well.

4. Milk and all its derivatives—cheese, evaporated milk, ice cream — are sources of calcium, which prevents brittle nails, lifeless hair, and loss of vitality. Milk also contains riboflavin, one of the necessary B vitamins.

5. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs, dried peas and beans, nuts. These are the protein foods that help build firm muscles. Meats, especially liver and kidney, give you iron. So do eggs, along with vitamins A and D. You also get A and D vitamins in fish.

6. Whole grain or enriched bread and cereals . . . rice and baked goods, too. Here again is that complex vitamin B, so important for proper working of your nervous system, for a healthy appetite, and good digestion.

7. Fats, such as butter and margarine. Your minimum is three teaspoons a day, even if you are reducing, for you need the vitamins, and you also need fat. It helps to keep the skin soft and supple, also aids digestion, and gives you a feeling of satisfaction — so you won't "piece" between meals.

Seven-Year-Old Boy Dies In Eastern Shore Fire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fires in the state Thursday killed a 7-year-old boy on the Eastern Shore and roused students from their sleep at the University of Maryland.

The boy, Albert Johnson, died when a fire swept through a row of shanties in Graysonville, about four miles east of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

He was found dead by volunteer firemen about 40 minutes after the fire started. Five families were driven from adjacent dwellings by the fire.

At the University of Maryland campus in College Park, a fire was confined to the first-floor lounge of a men's dormitory. The fire broke out early in the morning and 125 students were evacuated from the building in their nightclothes.

No one was hurt, but a university spokesman estimated damage to the lounge at $10,600. Concrete walls kept the fire from spreading to the living areas of the dormitory, he said.

In Hagerstown, fire department investigators estimated damage caused by Wednesday's furniture store fire at about $1 million.

The cause of the blaze, which completely destroyed the store and damaged three adjacent buildings, was still undetermined. But arson experts continued an inspection of the ruins Thursday.

It took more than 100 firemen nearly three hours to bring the six-alarm fire under control.

The Graysonville fire was in a section near the town's sea food packing houses. The dead boy's mother was at work in one of the packing plants at the time.

MARYLAND NEWS BRIEFS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes support is being sought for a proposed law that would permit inmates of Maryland prisons to work at outside jobs during the day and return to their cells at night.

Curran said he believes employers and labor unions would support the program, and has asked Gov. Tawes to do so.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore's medical examiner examined Thursday the skeleton of a baby found in the attic of a house in Glen Burnie.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A U.S. District Court judge has refused to dismiss a complaint against a Montgomery County housing developer accused of not selling a house to a Negro elementary school principal.

A ruling Wednesday by Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen prohibits the developer from selling a property in the Georgetown Hill area of Montgomery County pending the outcome of a $30,000 suit.

Roland E. Barnes, principal of the Travilah Elementary School, filed the suit against the contractor and asked the court to order the property sold to him. The defendants are Abraham S. Sind of Chevy Chase, Israel Cohen of Bethesda and A. Sind and Associates, Silver Spring.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin Co. says its plans for 1963 include creation of a new and expanded manufacturing division at its nearby Middle River plant.

William B. Bergen, president of the Martin Co., said the reorganization is "part of a move to separate and strengthen Martin's creative and production activities in this area."

He denied reports that Martin plans to shift its electronic and nuclear divisions to other states.

He reportedly had taken a bus from Washington, D.C., to Jacksonville in search of a job. The academy spokesman said Jillson's case is being investigated and a disposition is expected to be determined soon.

Russians Take Children From Christians

Agency Confirms Peasants' Charge

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Siberian peasants who sought American help to leave the Soviet Union were described by a Soviet news agency here as criminals and people addicted to beating their children.

The Soviet version of the peasants, as carried by the Novosti news agency, was in sharp contrast to the description given by U.S. Embassy officials. The peasants—6 men, 12 women and 24 children—paraded into the embassy last week seeking help but were told nothing could be done for them. U.S. officials described the Siberians as healthy, good-minded people wanting to escape the hard life of Christians in the Soviet Union.

The group made its way 2,100 miles from Chernogorsk to Moscow, arriving last Thursday. After being heard in the embassy, the group was taken by bus to a hotel and later the Soviet government said they were being shipped back to their homes in Siberia.

Some of the peasants shouted as they were being led out of the embassy that they would be shot.

Novosti told of children being hidden in pits as their parents sought to keep them from being taken away by Soviet officials.

In their protest to the American officials during the four hours they were in the compound being fed and questioned, the protesting group said Soviet officials were taking their children away from them.

Children in Soviet schools are taught atheism as a phase of Communist teaching, and the religious sect told the Americans they sought to avoid this.

As the Russians looked upon it, it was different. They accused the religious folk of abusing their children, making mental cases of them. A concerted drive was launched against them in Chernogorsk, the Novosti report said.

Novosti said the group now was being returned to Chernogorsk by train.

The 57-year-old stenographer has supported her brother Arthur, 50, since his discharge from the Army in 1941 and claims he deserves compensation for a service-connected disability. She estimates she owes the government $24,000. (AP Photofax)

17-Yr.-Old Girl Gives Part Of Hip To Sister

Doctor Attempts Bone Graft

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Hill Rosean, 17, a high school junior at nearby Tamalpais Valley, has donated part of her pelvis and hip bones so her little sister can lead a normal life.

Dr. William L. Clark, who said it was the first time in his experience that such a major bone graft had been attempted, removed portions of Jill's bones about the size of teacups Tuesday.

Jill volunteered to give up the bone to replace damage done to the shoulder blade of Leslie Rosean, 7, by a tumor. The girl's parents also had volunteered.

But Dr. Clark said Jill is young enough that the cut bones can grow back again. She was reported resting comfortably after the operation.

If things go as planned, Clark said, Leslie will undergo surgery next week to repair the damage done by a tumor, which left her left arm crippled.

The bone grafts were placed in a special deep freeze until they can be transferred to the sister.

Labor Leaders Back Hospital Drive

Expressing enthusiasm for the success of the drive for the new Sacred Heart Hospital to be erected on Haystack Mountain, a group of labor leaders yesterday volunteered their services as a working committee in the $500,000 campaign which will cover the area's stake in the $6.5 million project.

The new hospital is high on the list of needs of Western Maryland's industrial life, the labor leaders representing seven organizations of the area, told Lewis J. Ort, general chairman of the Sacred Heart campaign.

Pointing out that the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, representing all major unions of the area, went on record last year as backing the hospital project, the labor leaders told Ort that they are aware that the hospital drive is just getting started and that it shows all the right signs of being successful.

Ort accepted the volunteer efforts of the labor leaders, whom he described as representing 90 per cent of the working force of the area, and designated them as the labor committee of the Sacred Heart building program.

"We could never do this job without the cooperation of the unions," he said, "who, along with industrial management, have always provided the leadership for community undertakings."

The union leaders concurred in the view that "our members will be called upon to meet every negative thought with positive action, every rumor with the truth, and every weakness with strength. The new Sacred Heart means new jobs—and the attraction of new industry with more and better jobs. Industrial labor and management are ready to stand up and be counted in this great cause. We hope that every citizen of the area is ready to stand up with us."

The labor men backing the Sacred Heart program include Josiah E. Mullenax, president, Western Maryland Central Labor Council; John G. Thomas, president, Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America; C. E. Stutzman, business agent, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Local 453; James W. Stein, president, United Rubber Workers Local 26; John W. Mangus, president, International Chemical Workers Local 261; Wilbur Johnson, president Luke Local 676, Pulp and Paper Workers and Harold G. Fansler, president, Local 180, Glass and Ceramics Workers International.

William C. Walsh is associate general chairman of the Sacred Heart drive, and U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall is chairman of the mercy and healing committee. The drive kicked off with $57,500 in pre-campaign gifts, and campaign officials report that more gifts are coming in every day. The full campaign organization will be announced within a week, Ort said.

Fire Destroys Residence At Centerville

Five members of a Centerville, Pa., family lost all their possessions as a fire destroyed their home early yesterday.

Thirty-two firemen from Bedford and Bedford Road fire companies were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Mills at 2:45 a. m., but by the time they arrived on the scene the roof of the structure had gone.

Mills had gone to work as a tractor-trailer driver out of a Somerset, Pa., terminal and his wife and three children were in the frame bungalow when neighbors saw the house was on fire.

The neighbors aroused the family, according to Mrs. J. Reese Zembower, mother of Mrs. Mills, and had them outside in safe time.

Firemen were called with Bedford sending 15 men, two pumpers and a rescue truck and Bedford Road dispatching two pumpers, a tank truck and rescue truck and 17 men.

Fire Chief Fred Purnell of the Bedford Road unit said the pumpers hauled water in their tanks from a nearby creek. One pumper was stationed at the creek to fill the other vehicles.

Chief Purnell said by the time his vehicles had traveled the 14 miles to the fire the roof had caved in.

He said, while the cause was not immediately determined, the fire apparently started from an overheated furnace.

Mills was informed of the fire and returned from work. He and his family are staying at the home of Mrs. Mills' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zembower, in Centerville.

Mrs. Zembower said yesterday that the home, modernized four years ago, was insured.

Zorick and Miss Rice are serving sixth consecutive terms.

Named to the executive board were Paul Cotton, of Local 307, Electrical Workers Union; Angelo Samson, Local 244, International Typographical Union; Andrew Lewis, president of the Ceramics and Glassworkers Union; Wilbur Johnson, president of Local 667, United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union; Alva Lewis, of Local 26, Rubber Workers; James McGann, of Local 1874, TWUA; Earl Sills, Brewery Workers Union, and Thomas Smith, of the Communications Workers Union.

C. Raymond Weatherholt, of the Typographical Union, was re-elected to a three-year term as a trustee.

The annual fruit growers meeting will be held Saturday, February 2, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall, according to Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent.

The program for spraying and other work for orchardists and small fruit growers in the area will be outlined by a number of experts in the field.

Talks will be given by Dr. Castillo Graham, Dr. Elroy R. Krestensen, and Dr. Benjamin L. Rogers of the Hancock Fruit Laboratory.

Other speakers will include Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland; Glenn J. Stadelbacher, a pomologist at the university.

The Cumberland Fair Association will provide a luncheon for the fruit growers attending the meeting.

TV Program On Fluoridation

Officials of the Maryland Department of Health will participate in a panel discussion on fluoridation on Potomac Valley Television Company's cable channel 6 Sunday at 1:30 p. m.

Fluoridation which was approved for addition to the city water supply then delayed indefinitely by the Mayor and Council, has assumed major controversy status here and the Citizens' Committee for Better Health has asked health officials to speak to the community about fluoridation in the state.

Participating, will be Dr. Edward Davens, deputy commissioner of health; Thomas McKewen, chief engineer; Dr. Richard Leonard, chief of the dental division; and Dr. Arthur Jones, acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County. Robert Martin, of Station WCUM, will act as moderator.

It takes from three to 12 times more distance to stop on ice and snow than it takes on dry pavement, according to the West Virginia Farm and Home Safety Council.

Student Editor May Get Award

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Sidna Brower, editor of the University of Mississippi campus newspaper, Thursday received a letter notifying her of her nomination for a Pulitzer Prize in journalism.

Miss Brower said the letter was signed by John Hohenberg, secretary of Columbia University, and invited her to submit an exhibit of her work to the committee before Feb. 1.

The 21-year-old editor of "The Mississippian," a native of Memphis, Tenn., became a controversial figure for her editorials on the integration crisis stemming from the admission of Negro James H. Meredith to "Ole Miss."

She later was censured by the student council.

Heart Unit Getting Ready For Annual Fund Drive

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association is completing plans for its annual Heart Month campaign, traditionally conducted during February.

Dr. G. Overton Himmelwright, association president, reports board members have been conducting regular meetings in preparing groundwork for the annual appeal. He noted that this year's campaign will require great effort by all interested persons if the 1962 drive is to be exceeded.

Last year, Dr. Himmelwright pointed out, contributions approximated $20,000, with nearly half of that amount credited to the Heart Sunday effort.

The 1963 Heart Association officers, besides Dr. Himmelwright, includes James W. Webster, vice president; Wesley Schiable, second vice president; Albert A. Helmick, treasurer, and Mrs. William H. Macy, re-elected secretary. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis is executive secretary of the two-county unit.

Newly-elected members of the board, whose terms expire in 1965, are Mrs. Irva Mickey and Mrs. Harry C. Edwards, Garrett County representatives, and Charles E. Bramble, Robert J. Brown, Dr. Robert D. Brodell, Webster and Dr. Himmelwright.

Holdover board members are C. Glenn Watson Jr., William A. Wilson, Dr. L. Michael Glick, Ralph Beachley, Mrs. Jennie Grahame, Beachley and Mrs. Macy, whose terms expire this year, and John Cobun, Clinton Englander, Dr. James H. Feaster Jr., Dr. Earl R. Paul, G. Morgan Smith and Albert A. Helmick, whose terms run through 1964.

In noting the tremendous appeal of the Heart Association's aims, Dr. Himmelwright said memorials were established last year for 41 persons after their families requested that remembrances take the form of contributions to the Heart Fund.

The memorials not only honor the victim of heart disease or disorder, but also help carry on the fight to conquer such deadly ailments, Dr. Himmelwright stressed.

Police Welfare Unit To Meet

The Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will meet Thursday, January 17, at 8 p. m. at the Purple Heart Center.

New officers, headed by John S. Chaney, president, will be installed at the meeting.

Astronaut Candidates Are Asked Many Unusual Questions

HOUSTON (UPI) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration likes its space-probing adventurers, the astronauts, to be down to earth in their home lives.

That's why, when screening applicants, psychiatrists at the Aerospace School of Medicine in San Antonio ask more than 800 questions, many aimed at the candidate's domestic affairs.

There are 556 questions that can be answered yes or no. Some questions are asked more than once — sometimes in different phrasing. Some are double checks against others.

So far, all the astronauts are married men. The psychiatrists also are interested in the space men's wives.

Here are some of the questions picked at random:

—Did you like school?

—What worries you?

—Do you panic if closed up in a small room?

—Do you often feel guilty or inadequate?

—Do you occasionally cry?

—Are you much more orderly, precise and perfectionistic than most other people?

—Does criticism upset you?

—Do you have spells of uncontrollable laughing?

—Do you bruise easily?

—Are you sometimes dissatisfied with your relationship with your wife?

—Do you have frequent financial worries?

—Do you ever seem to confuse your thoughts with someone else's thoughts, as if someone might be putting things into your mind or even saying things to you?

—Are you considered a touchy person?

—Are you troubled with hiccups?

—Have you ever had any supernatural experiences?

Heart Unit Getting Ready For Annual Fund Drive

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association is completing plans for its annual Heart Month campaign, traditionally conducted during February.

Dr. G. Overton Himmelwright, association president, reports board members have been conducting regular meetings in preparing groundwork for the annual appeal. He noted that this year's campaign will require great effort by all interested persons if the 1962 drive is to be exceeded.

Last year, Dr. Himmelwright pointed out, contributions approximated $20,000, with nearly half of that amount credited to the Heart Sunday effort.

The 1963 Heart Association officers, besides Dr. Himmelwright, includes James W. Webster, vice president; Wesley Schiable, second vice president; Albert A. Helmick, treasurer, and Mrs. William H. Macy, re-elected secretary. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis is executive secretary of the two-county unit.

Newly-elected members of the board, whose terms expire in 1965, are Mrs. Irva Mickey and Mrs. Harry C. Edwards, Garrett County representatives, and Charles E. Bramble, Robert J. Brown, Dr. Robert D. Brodell, Webster and Dr. Himmelwright.

Holdover board members are C. Glenn Watson Jr., William A. Wilson, Dr. L. Michael Glick, Ralph Beachley, Mrs. Jennie Grahame, Beachley and Mrs. Macy, whose terms expire this year, and John Cobun, Clinton Englander, Dr. James H. Feaster Jr., Dr. Earl R. Paul, G. Morgan Smith and Albert A. Helmick, whose terms run through 1964.

In noting the tremendous appeal of the Heart Association's aims, Dr. Himmelwright said memorials were established last year for 41 persons after their families requested that remembrances take the form of contributions to the Heart Fund.

The memorials not only honor the victim of heart disease or disorder, but also help carry on the fight to conquer such deadly ailments, Dr. Himmelwright stressed.

Man Given Hearing In Theft Case

Raymond G. Everett, 529 Pine Avenue, is being held in the county lockup pending an investigation of his background after being found guilty yesterday before Magistrate Paul W. Barnet on a charge of attempting to obtain money under false pretenses.

Everett was arrested Tuesday by City Police after he attempted to solicit money from a local minister and also from the Associated Charities.

Police Welfare Unit To Meet

The Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will meet Thursday, January 17, at 8 p. m. at the Purple Heart Center.

New officers, headed by John S. Chaney, president, will be installed at the meeting.

Astronaut Candidates Are Asked Many Unusual Questions

HOUSTON (UPI) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration likes its space-probing adventurers, the astronauts, to be down to earth in their home lives.

That's why, when screening applicants, psychiatrists at the Aerospace School of Medicine in San Antonio ask more than 800 questions, many aimed at the candidate's domestic affairs.

There are 556 questions that can be answered yes or no. Some questions are asked more than once — sometimes in different phrasing. Some are double checks against others.

So far, all the astronauts are married men. The psychiatrists also are interested in the space men's wives.

Here are some of the questions picked at random:

—Did you like school?

—What worries you?

—Do you panic if closed up in a small room?

—Do you often feel guilty or inadequate?

—Do you occasionally cry?

—Are you much more orderly, precise and perfectionistic than most other people?

—Does criticism upset you?

—Do you have spells of uncontrollable laughing?

—Do you bruise easily?

—Are you sometimes dissatisfied with your relationship with your wife?

—Do you have frequent financial worries?

—Do you ever seem to confuse your thoughts with someone else's thoughts, as if someone might be putting things into your mind or even saying things to you?

—Are you considered a touchy person?

—Are you troubled with hiccups?

—Have you ever had any supernatural experiences?

Suit Business Undergoing Change

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—The men's clothing industry is about as mixed up at the moment as an industry can get, with suit styles ranging from pleated and unpleated trousers through three-button, two-button and one-button coats.

But emerging from the confusion is a definite pattern for spring—a trend away from the black mohair (which replaced the old blue serge standby) toward lighter shades and irridescent fabrics made by combining 20 per cent silk with 80 per cent worsted.

The biggest single seller is a silver-grey sharskin in either a two-button or three-button model with trim lines to make a man look slimmer and shoulders with a minimum of padding to flatter him. The trend is toward a long lean "Texan" look, and pleats are slowly going by the board.

The authority for the above is Stanley Goldman, president of Eagle Clothes, Inc., one of the big five of the brand names in the medium price ($85-$110) range. Its business has climbed from zero in 1919 when it was started to $15.1 million last year while some other firms were going downhill.

Goldman says the output of the clothing industry 2 5 years ago, when the male population of the United States was around 61 million, was 20 million suits a year. Last year, with the male population around 88 million, the output was still 20 million suits a year.

Goldman attributes his own firm's success to recognizing the fact that men are becoming more and more fashion conscious and then providing them with what they want. It must be basic and simple and if there is too much fashion a man will rebel.

At the moment, Goldman says, the industry is going from the three - button suit with pleated trousers to three-button with no pleats to two-button with pleats to two-button with no pleats and to one-button with no pleats. This, he says, calls for more cooperation in the industry.

The first 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race was held in 1911.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a 52-year-old, hard-hitting, driven business man. We have a lovely home and a fine family, but he is too busy to notice. When the stock market goes down a quarter of a point, he notices THAT, however.

Three years ago Lew had a serious heart attack. His doctors told him he must lose 40 pounds and quit smoking. He hasn't lost an ounce and he smokes more than ever. He has had diabetes for ten years and is all right when he remembers to take his medicine. When he doesn't remember he goes into shock. This has happened twice in the last six months.

I've begged, pleaded, threatened, cried and even left him, but nothing fazes him. He still eats whatever he wants, smokes, drinks too much and works 14 hours a day. What can I do with a man like this? FRANTIC

DEAR FRANTIC: Nothing. But you can do something for yourself and your family. See that his insurance is in order and check with his lawyer to make certain he has made a will.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 19, and live at home with my parents and two older sisters.

When I graduated from high school two years ago I wanted to leave this small town and go to a designing school in Chicago, but my parents and older sisters wouldn't hear of it. They said they'd miss me and worry about me, and besides, they said, there is too much meanness in the world and they didn't want me to get involved in it.

Maybe I should be grateful for the love and interest of my family, but instead I am resentful. We talked about this again last night and they tell me I'm ungrateful and that I have no right to worry them.

If this is love, I hope I never love my children. Please help me. —CARBONDALE

DEAR CARBONDALE: Love makes no demands. It is willing to take its chances, for all of life is risky. The Indian poet Tagore said, "Let my love, like sunlight, surround you and give you illumined freedom." And this is what love should do. Love that shackles and imprisons is not love at all.

The ultimate goal which parents should wish for their children is independence. So leave the nest, little bird, while you still have the desire and the courage to fly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter Roxanne was 15 last August. She has always acted older than her years and even began dating at 12. We just couldn't hold her.

She met a sailor who is based nearby and has gone completely crazy over him. He is 20 years old, doesn't say much, has tattoos on his hands and arms and a cigarette hangs out of his mouth at all times.

The sailor will be leaving soon for 18 months of overseas duty. Roxanne wants to be "pre-engaged" to him before he ships out. She says this is not a regular engagement, just an understanding that they will wait for each other. They would wear each other's friendship rings.

We are ready to say yes to get some peace and quiet around the house. We are tired of all the fighting. —WORN OUT

DEAR WORN OUT: No 15-year-old girl should tie herself up with a boy friend who is half a world away. Say NO. It's high time you saved this girl from herself by TELLING her what to do. This is what parents are for.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Trials Scheduled In Two Shootings

Two trials involving shooting cases have been scheduled in Circuit Court in the next two weeks.

State's Attorney James S. Getty said that next Tuesday at 10 a. m. Kenney Day, 19, of Rawlings, will be tried in the wounding of James Stafford Van Meter, 32, on January 2 with a .22 calibre rifle.

Lee Barnett has been appointed by the court to defend Day. The trial will be held before Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey.

The shooting occurred outside an apartment home where the Day family resides. VanMeter suffered a wound of the shoulder and was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

A tentative date has also been set for the trial of Clifton Harrison Nixon, 49, of Warrior Mountain, who is accused in the fatal shooting of his nephew, Clifton McBride, 24, on the night of last December 11 at their home.

Nixon allegedly used a rifle in he slaying of McBride while the oung man was asleep in bed.

Harold E. Naughton has been appointed by the court to defend Nixon. A report of a psychiatric examination of Nixon is being awaited by both the state's attorney's office and Naughton. The case will be heard before the court without a jury.

With the exception of a scattered few in the capital of Hamilton, or the town of St. George, there are no street numbers in Bermuda.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A long-distance telephone call from John Saxon with the happy news for him that he gets the second male lead in "The Cardinal" in which Tom Tryon plays the title role.

"Otto Preminger signed me, and Columbia will announce it in a day or two," said John. "But I am so excited I had to call you."

John's been in Europe for seven months, and said he was so glad to be back in the U.S.A. He called from New York where he discussed with Otto Preminger the role in which he falls in love with Carol Lynley, who plays Tom Tryon's sister. John returns to Hollywood in a few weeks to begin preparation on the movie.

I thought I knew almost everything going on in the file of my close friends. But I've just learned that Rosalind Russell has been in the restaurant business for a whole year without me knowing it. She built one of the better restaurants in Fullerton named "The Fatted Calf" which has turned in such plump profits that Roz is planning three more in the Los Angeles area.

I know few women more successful with whatever they undertake than Roz. Every time she makes a movie she's usually in the running for an Academy Award and her newest "Gypsy" will certainly rate her another. Over the years she's had four Oscar nominations and when she did her first Broadway musical, "Wonderful Town," it picked off 12 awards, a record for a Broadway show.

A deserved tribute to a fine man—Dick Powell's name will not go off the TV show he created, but it is being changed from "the Dick Powell Show" to the "Dick Powell Theatre."

The first show lined up by Four Star President Tom McDermott, who planed out to New York today, is "Tissue of Hate" which stars Henry Fonda and Polly Bergen. It is one of the last scripts Dick okayed while he was still able to work and it deals with a plastic surgeon and a seriously scarred woman patient.

I've heard many reasons for rumors about trouble in movie marriages—but the William Holdens come up with the prize of prizes: FAULTY PLUMBING!!??

To hear Bill and Ardis tell it, all the talk that they are separating cropped up when Bill got fed up with the antiquated plumbing in their Swiss chalet and decided to have it remodeled. Swiss plumbers apparently aren't as handy as Swiss watchmakers and the crew of workers all but tore the Holden house down modernizing the bathrooms. This caused Mrs. H. to move to a hotel just about the time Bill was summoned to Hong Kong to check on one of his numerous business projects there.

So this is the way all the gossip started—or so say the Holdens.

Pretty blonde paramount actress Laurel Goodwin received the shock of her life when a doberman pincer belonging to a friend, turned on her and came close to mangling her left arm. So powerful was the grip of the dog's jaws on her arm that he is believed to have pulled tendons.

The arm was badly swollen, but fortunately she was wearing a sweat shirt when she was attacked, and there were only superficial abrasions which her doctors feel will have healed by the time she is ready to make her first trip to New York Jan. 21 to plug "Papa's Delicate Condition."

I hope I'm not telling tales out of school, but Laurel was much more concerned about the prospect of losing her trip than she was about the effects of the dog's attack.

Danny Kaye, just about recovered from his recent emergency appendectomy, will return to Broadway April 10. He is booked at Billy Rose's Ziegfeld Theatre for a four and a half week engagement, and Danny's schedule for the next four months is really something.

Before he plays the Ziegfeld, he'll do a personal appearance on March 13 in Winestead, Conn., for the world premiere of his newest starring picture "Man From the Diners' Club," during which time no one in the city can buy anything for cash. March 18 he starts a week in the Chicago Opera House, and keeps otherwise busy until his opening April 10 in New York.

Varied Bills Are Introduced In Legislature

Reapportionment Measure In Hopper

By DONALD F. FANNIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The customary quiet before the storm descended over the Legislature Thursday as bills — 52 of them — occupied the center of attention during brief sessions in both houses.

The measures — 24 in the Senate and 28 in the House—concern such volatile proposals as reapportionment, tax extension and the budget. They started the base from which the lawmakers will work in hammering out the legislative program over the next two months.

The Senate met for 15 minutes at noontime and the House for 20 minutes at 2 p.m., during which time the bills were introduced and referred to appropriate committees by Senate President Howard Carson, D-Fayette, and House Speaker Julius Singleton, D-Monongalia.

The chambers will convene at 10 a.m. Friday for brief sessions before the weekend recess. The significant action for the present will be the committee work on the bills.

This will come amid an expression by Republican leadership Thursday that its role during the session would be to caution the overwhelming Democratic majority to "look before you leap."

Senate Minority Leader John Carrigan, R-Marshall, voiced the GOP feeling. "We aren't going to oppose the majority just for the sake of opposing," he said. "But we hope to act as a tempering influence in seeing the welfare of all is protected."

He said he thought he spoke for the majority of the GOP members that they are in basic agreement with the state's problems, as outlined by Gov. W. W. Barron in his "state of the state" message to the opening session Wednesday.

But he said there would be differences in practical considerations in enacting the Democratic program. "We want to prevent hasty legislation," he added.

The short Senate meeting was marred by the sudden illness of Sen. O. G. Hedrick, D-Marion, who was stricken by an apparent heart attack during the session and was hospitalized here and described in satisfactory condition.

Two bills dealing with reapportionment were introduced, both in the House. One, by House majority leader W. T. Brotherton, D-Kanawha, would reapportion the House into delegate districts under the Constitution. It would join less populous counties into seven delegate districts and alter representation of some other counties.

The second bill, by Del. Jack R. Nuzum, D-Randolph, would increase the Senate membership from 32 to 50 members.

Barron's proposal to extend for another year current rates on five taxes — including the consumers sales tax — was received in Senate in the form of a five-bill package introduced by Sen. Hans McCourt, D-Webster, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

The $148.3 million 1963-64 budget bill also was introduced in the Senate after being introduced in the House Wednesday.

And Carson and Sen. C. H. McKown, D-Wayne, chairman of the chamber's education committee, introduced a measure to allow the state colleges and universities to increase registration fees for nonresident students. It also would enable the schools use all registration fees for capital improvements and service revenue bonds.

The general atmosphere was markedly more relaxed Thursday after the hustle and anticipation of opening day Wednesday and the governor's address. Galleries in both houses were mostly empty, though visitors and lobbyists lingered in clusters in the Statehouse rotunda area separating the chambers.

Tight Controls Proposed For Young Drivers

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Tight restrictions on drivers under 18 years old were proposed Thursday in a bill introduced in the Maryland Legislature by Sen. James A. Pine, D-Balto County.

The measure calls for a junior operators license which would be issued to any person 16 or 17 years old who is qualified to drive.

It would carry on it printed restrictions against operating a motor vehicle, other than going to and from school, during the hours of darkness unless accompanied by a parent or guardian; upon the public highways for compensation; or in a city having a population of one million or more.

Spring-Like Weather Ends Today

The spring-like weather experienced here the past several days is expected to end today as the Weather Bureau calls for a cold wave to move in over the weekend.

The mercury rose to 58 degrees in Cumberland yesterday, but began to drop as a cloud layer moved in during the late afternoon.

A light rain began to fall about 8:30 last night and rain, possibly changing to snow, is predicted for this area today.

Weather forecasters predict the cold mass of air which carried through the central plains yesterday would reach this section sometime Saturday and drop temperatures below the freezing mark.

More than 20 churches have participated in the previous two song festivals and others are expected to be present Sunday. An invitation has been extended to all groups, churches and choirs to participate in the singing of religious music.

Rev. William C. Harpold, leader of the song festival group, said the festival will not be postponed because of bad weather unless the road to the church is impassable.

Hall Miffed Over Prisons Being Renamed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Edward T. Hall, R-Calvert, miffed because the Board of Public Works changed the name of the two Maryland reformatories, has introduced a bill to prevent such unilateral action in the future.

"I don't think the name of any department or agency established by law should be changed unless the legislature is asked to make the change," Hall said.

"The Board of Public Works changed the name of the Maryland Reformatory for Men to the Maryland Institution for Men," Hall said, and the name of the Maryland Reformatory for Women to the Maryland Institution for Women.

"But the law still reads 'reformatory' and this has resulted in confusion for judges, lawyers, clerks and others."

Hall's bill says only an act of the General Assembly could change the name of designation previously given by the legislature for "any office, agency, place, or institution within a department, board, bureau, commission or other division of the executive department."

November Is Slow Construction Month

November contracts for future construction totaled $52,924,000 in Maryland down 25 per cent compared to November 1961, F. W. Dodge Corporation reported yesterday.

Non-residential at $19,277,000, was down 47 per cent; residential at $22,550,000 down 23 per cent; and engineering construction at $11,097,000, up 133 per cent.

Construction contracts for the first 11 months of 1962 amounted to $939,218,000, a 33 per cent increase compared to the November 1961 level.

County To Receive Cigarette Tax

Allegany County will receive $66,648.92 this week as its share of the cigarette tax revenue for the second quarter of the fiscal year 1963, according to Louis L. Goldstein, state comptroller.

The county share will be a portion of the $2,766,598.79 which will be distributed among the 23 counties in the state and Baltimore City.

Garrett County's share of the tax will be $16,246.51, while Washington County will receive $75,559.43.

Snow Shoveling Hints Are Listed

Because of the great increase of back injuries coming in to chiropractors' offices because of improperly shoveling snow, the research unit of the Maryland Chiropractic Association has issued a warning and a few simple, yet helpful hints as to how to remove snow from driveways and sidewalks without crippling yourself.

Never try to do the entire job in one prolonged effort.

Do not pick up more snow on the shovel than it is designed to hold.

In lifting the shovel bend the knees, lift with the large muscles of the legs and not with the back.

This is the economical Newport 4-door sedan

We price them small. But we build them big.

$2964 is the kind of price most people associate with a smaller car. They seldom expect to find it on a full-size, precision-engineered Chrysler Newport 4-door sedan.

After all, look at all the value a Chrysler offers. Features like torsion-bar suspension; all-welded, one-piece body; carpeting; trip odometer; and the Newport engine that performs like a champ on regular gasoline.

Then, there's the way a Chrysler is put together. Quality all the way. So well made, in fact, that your Chrysler dealer provides you with America's longest and best new car warranty†—5 years or 50,000 miles. You have fewer worries about expensive repair bills. And because the warranty can be passed on to the next owner, you can count on excellent Chrysler resale value.

So, if you cotton to smaller prices, big value and big cars (remember, we don't build any jr. editions) get in touch with your Chrysler dealer.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price of Newport 4-door sedan, exclusive of state and local taxes, if any, and destination charges. White wall tires extra.

†Your authorized Chrysler Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Chrysler Certified Car Care schedules.

Varied Bills Are Introduced In Legislature

Reapportionment Measure In Hopper

By DONALD F. FANNIN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The customary quiet before the storm descended over the Legislature Thursday as bills — 52 of them — occupied the center of attention during brief sessions in both houses.

The measures — 24 in the Senate and 28 in the House—concern such volatile proposals as reapportionment, tax extension and the budget. They started the base from which the lawmakers will work in hammering out the legislative program over the next two months.

The Senate met for 15 minutes at noontime and the House for 20 minutes at 2 p.m., during which time the bills were introduced and referred to appropriate committees by Senate President Howard Carson, D-Fayette, and House Speaker Julius Singleton, D-Monongalia.

The chambers will convene at 10 a.m. Friday for brief sessions before the weekend recess. The significant action for the present will be the committee work on the bills.

This will come amid an expression by Republican leadership Thursday that its role during the session would be to caution the overwhelming Democratic majority to "look before you leap."

Senate Minority Leader John Carrigan, R-Marshall, voiced the GOP feeling. "We aren't going to oppose the majority just for the sake of opposing," he said. "But we hope to act as a tempering influence in seeing the welfare of all is protected."

He said he thought he spoke for the majority of the GOP members that they are in basic agreement with the state's problems, as outlined by Gov. W. W. Barron in his "state of the state" message to the opening session Wednesday.

But he said there would be differences in practical considerations in enacting the Democratic program. "We want to prevent hasty legislation," he added.

The short Senate meeting was marred by the sudden illness of Sen. O. G. Hedrick, D-Marion, who was stricken by an apparent heart attack during the session and was hospitalized here and described in satisfactory condition.

Two bills dealing with reapportionment were introduced, both in the House. One, by House majority leader W. T. Public Authorities Under Fire Again

Government by public authorities is under fire again. This time the critic is a committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, which demands the state constitution be amended to bar the creation of new authorities. It also urges the abolition of existing authorities, with the states and municipalities acquiring their assets and assuming their debts.

The Pennsylvania case against authorities presents familiar charges, the most persuasive being that they tend to develop an independence that is not always in the public interest. Because their credit is not supported by taxing power, their interest rates tend to be higher than those of states and municipalities. Nor are they free of the wasteful practices of ordinary government departments.

But if the indictment of authorities as instruments of government has merit, it does not support such sweeping conclusions as the statement of some critics that there is nothing an authority does that a formally established government could not do better and cheaper.

This claim could not be easily sustained, for example, in the case of the bridges and tunnels between New York and New Jersey, which could not have been built and maintained without the creation of a separate, interstate agency.

Many of the defects attributed to public authorities arise from the failure of governors and other constituted overseers to exercise their statutory supervisory powers.

Restoring Fluidity

The 7,500 employes of the Kaiser Steel Corporation, a big West Coast producer, are scheduled to vote today, January 11, on a union contract that is built around profit-sharing features. Since the proposed agreement has the support of the United Steelworkers of America, it will presumably be accepted. If the contract does go through, labor relations in this country are bound to take a new turn, and in my opinion it will be considerably for the better.

The provisions of the Kaiser contract are complex. But the heart of the program consists of certain easily understood variables. Instead of getting fixed raises in hourly pay, the Kaiser workers will receive approximately thirty-three per cent of a savings fund that is to be built up out of the monetary gains that are likely to come as a reflex of improved methods of steel making. The Kaiser company will fix a standard base rate for the cost of producing an ingot ton of steel. Anything that can be shaved from that cost, either by the installation of new equipment or by increased individual labor-hour efficiency, will be shared with the workers.

Other provisions in the Kaiser contract are designed to reassure the United Steelworkers of America that "automation" won't be introduced at a rate that will lead to layoffs and firings. If a worker does lose his job to an improved machine, he will be assigned a priority number in an employment pool. Anyone cooling his heels for protracted periods in the pool will be guaranteed a year's full pay.

Inasmuch as Kaiser Steel, along with Inland Steel of Chicago, "broke the line" last year by refusing to accept the leadership of United States Steel in the matter of a price rise, the older steel companies are inclined to look askance on anything that Kaiser proposes. The older companies have a long tradition of loyalty to the steel makers' "club," which is one reason why the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice is inclined to question their habit of trying to concert their moves. But the "club," in this case, will have to reckon with Kaiser's move toward profit-sharing simply because it is more sensible economically to accept variable costs than it is to tie oneself up with fixed costs.

In the automobile country, the older concerns regard the American Motors Corporation, producer of the Rambler car, much as the old-line steel companies regard Kaiser. They dislike the Rambler men because the recently resigned president of American Motors, George Romney, "knocked the product" of the industry in general by talking about "gas guzzling dinosaurs." As a reflex of this dislike, the older motor men have had little good to say of the American Motors profit-sharing union contract, which has been running for a year. Yet it cannot be argued that a mandatory hourly pay increase in automobile wages is better for a company's health than a contingent pay increase. Should times turn bad and there are no profits to share, American Motors will be in a better position than those companies which allowed Walter Reuther's automobile workers to impose fixed pay increases on them.

Two hundred years ago the first liberal economist, Adam Smith, warned business men that they could absorb only a certain amount of rigidity. In the easy days after World War II, when the rest of the world was struggling to get back into production, wage rises could be financed out of inflationary price increases. But now that foreign steel—and foreign cars—are moving into the U.S. in increased quantities at relatively low prices, the United States can no longer keep its business system fluid by inflation.

Whole industries have their backs to the wall. The New York newspapers see no way to absorb the demands of the printers. The railroads, fighting off receiverships, are appalled at the idea of negotiating contracts designed to preserve featherbedding conditions. And the new middle class of consumers is tired to death of the annual increase in the cost of living that has been generated by the familiar wage-price spiral of the Forties and the Fifties.

Thus a new way of finding fluidity will inevitably be imposed on management and labor alike. The profit sharing—or "progress" sharing—union contract is the only possible way of satisfying labor and the consumer without saddling industry with fixed costs that in depression periods can kill off marginal companies like flies.

East German Congress Next Stage In Great Row

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

With baited breath the Western students of Sino-Soviet demonology are waiting for the next stage in the great row between Moscow and Peking. The scene is expected to be the East German Communist Party Congress.

Another, even more lurid act in this strange political drama is thought to be insured by the recent resumption of Sino-Soviet name-calling.

All of Communist terminology's equivalents of four-letter words have now been used by the Chinese, to describe the sins of Nikita S. Khrushchev. "You're another," the Russians have replied in effect, in the official Pravda.

In this new outburst of political billingsgate, the Chinese were the aggressors. A furious denunciation of "the modern revisionists" —meaning Khrushchev—was published in Peking on Dec. 15. This was followed by the gigantic, full-dress document stating the whole Chinese Communist case against the Russians, which was Mao Tse-tung's angry welcome to the New Year.

These two articles in the People's Daily were then reinforced on Jan. 6 by a article in the Chinese Communist army paper, Red Flag, which bore all the marks of hysterical fury. And on Jan. 7 Pravda hit back by directly accusing the Peking regime, for the first time by name, as a disseminator of "dogmatic, divisive views."

It is likely that the Chinese decision to return to the attack with increased violence had an important hidden motive. The Chinese Communist armed forces are still almost wholly dependent on the Soviets for their heavier and more complex weapons. But it is now accepted as a fact that the Soviets have put an end to their arms exports to the Chinese.

Hence the sorely strained Chinese economy must be strained still further, in order to manufacture spare parts for existing equipment, and to produce the replacements that will later be needed. In these circumstances, the suspension of arms exports is a grave provocation.

More open provocation of the Chinese at the East German Communist Party Congress is anticipated for two reasons. On the one hand, the Sino-Soviet dispute has now become too burning a topic to be passed over in silence. On the other hand, this party congress culminates a series that began in Bulgaria. And the Chinese have been roundly condemned at all the preceding satellite party congresses in this series.

At the East German congress, the least that can be expected is a sharp denunciation of the Chinese by the odious East German party boss, Walter Ulbricht, Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia and Ulbricht of East Germany are the two surviving Satinist leaders in the East European satellite parties. Even more than Novotny, Ulbricht probably sympathizes with the Chinese; hence Ulbricht may not mean what he says.

Yet at the Czech Congress, Novotny was required to go on record with the sharpest attack on the Chinese position made by any satellite boss up to that time.

What Novotny had to do, Ulbricht will also have to do, one may be pretty sure.

But the East German party congress will be set apart from its predecessors in the series by the august presence of Khrushchev himself, at the head of an unusually hightowered Soviet delegation. At a minimum, therefore, Khrushchev will be on hand, smiling, slapping, and giving formal countenance to the expected attacks on the Chinese.

Quite possibly, Khrushchev will go beyond merely giving countenance. In their handling of the Chinese problem, the preceding satellite party congresses have followed a crescendo pattern. Novotny, for instance, was the first satellite leader to name the Chinese quite openly, instead of denouncing nameless "dogmatists." It would complete the crescendo pattern rather neatly if Khrushchev himself joined the chorus with his own overt condemnation of Mao.

The thing may not stop there, either. The experts now incline to think that it is only a matter of time before the formal, final, Stalin-Tito-style rupture between Peking and Moscow. The East German congress may also produce the call for the world congress of all Communist parties everywhere, which will probably have to be held before an official anathema can be pronounced on the Chinese.

As the East German congress may also be expected to show the present condition of the three-quarters buried Berlin crisis, this meeting on the 16th of this month should be an interesting occasion.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CONTROL OF CONGRESS—Political observers are beginning to believe that President Kennedy has lost control of his party in Congress. This is so, they believe, despite the high personal popularity accorded him in public opinion polls.

Kennedy suffered sharp setbacks in his legislative program at the hands of both Houses of Congress.

The division in the Democratic Party between the northern liberals and the southern conservatives has rendered its majorities ineffective, giving the newly-solidified Republicans the actual balance of power on the controversial issues facing the national legislature. Whenever the Republicans want to, they can throw enough votes against a Kennedy proposal to kill it, for the southern Democrats seem to have deserted him and his program.

Some Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill consider the situation as serious, or more so, than if Congress were under the political control of the Republicans. As things stand, the Republicans can defeat almost any piece of legislation they want to, and answer their critics by saying the Democrats are in the majority and the defeat must be laid at their door.

Two Senators Replacing Bob Kerr On Committees Will Reverse Him

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It's said that there's nothing certain in life except death and taxes. In the current session of Congress, it's also certain that death has played some queer tricks on taxes.

Nothing could make the amiable and potent Bob Kerr more restless in his Oklahoma grave than the idea of Pat McNamara, former head of the Pipe Fitters Union in Detroit, filling his shoes as chairman of the Public Works Committee, and Russell Long, son of the late Huey Long of Louisiana, filling his shoes on the tax-powerful finance committee.

They disagree with him on almost everything, especially taxes. And while they generally agree with each other politically, the two men are just the opposite physically.

McNamara is a six-foot, heavily built Irishman, slow in debate, but deadly when he makes a point.

Russell Long is short, slender, quick-witted and quick-tongued, able to talk almost as long as his filibustering father. He was elected to the Senate when just under the age-wire—30. McNamara was elected to the Senate in his 60's. Both are Democrats.

Both have battled for the underdog, and line up on the same side of the fence except when it comes to oil and the Negro. Long of Louisiana is for the first and against the second. McNamara of Michigan is for the second and against the first.

First Labor Senator

McNamara, now 68, is the first A. F. of L. executive ever elected to the Senate; and at one time two Republican senators on the Rackets Committee—Karl Mundt, N. D., and Barry Goldwater, Ariz. —started a secret probe of his labor activities in Detroit. It backfired.

McNamara, who is a member of the Rackets Committee, wanted to investigate former AFL colleague Jimmy Hoffa, but Mundt and Goldwater hung back against their fellow Republican.

When McNamara was elected in 1954, it was not popular to stand up on the Senate floor and criticize Eisenhower, Ike was at the peak of his popularity. But McNamara was one of only two Senators who dared do it. (Matt Neely, W. Va., was the other.)

McNamara also stood up against the Democratic Senate leader, Lyndon Johnson, for calling so few Democratic caucuses, was one of only six Senators who had the courage to urge the plugging of oil-gas tax loopholes in 1957, demanded the end of secrecy inside the Rackets Committee, pushed for a clean elections bill, for aid to education, and held extensive hearings for aid to the aged.

He also had the courage to get dressed up in white tie and tails for Kennedy's Inauguration, despite the boycott of Sen. Gene McCarthy, D.-Minn. It's about the only chance I'll have to get my money out of that soup-and-fish." McNamara explained.

When McNamara came up for re-election in 1960, a lot of people crossed him off as defeated. He had just undergone a cancer operation. He was running against the grandson of a founder of General Motors, who poured an estimated $600,000 into the campaign. And JFK's friend Sen. George Smathers, D.-Fla., who controlled the Democratic Senate purse strings, allotted McNamara only $7,500 as against $13,000 for Senator Kerr, wealthiest man in the Senate.

But McNamara won. As chairman of the Public Works Committee, he can do what Kerr did—hold up Senators' pet pork-barrel projects unless they vote his way. His way will be for medicare, against oil, for the underdog.

Russell Long's Policies

Sen. Russell Long, who replaces Kerr as No. 2 man on the Finance Committee, will also reverse Kerr's policies. And because of the health and age of Chairman Harry Byrd, Va., Long will have influence.

Like his unpredictable daddy who taxed the big corporations of Louisiana in order to supply free textbooks in the schools and built toll-free bridges across the Mississippi, Russell Long has battled for small business, for public housing, aid to education, liberal labor laws, aid to the aged.

He ranks alongside Senator Kefauver of Tennessee as a trust-buster, has waged a battle against giving government-developed space patents to the big defense contractors, opposed giving the communications satellite to American Tel and Tel, stood up against Richard Nixon and the China Lobby, attacked the big auto companies for hoarding steel when steel was tight, and battled for the small scrap-iron dealers against monopoly.

Unlike his colleague from Louisiana, Allen Ellender, who uses counterpart funds to junket around the world, Long has urged that counterpart funds be used to give free schoolbooks to children and improve housing around the world.

But Russell will make deals with bold-faced brazenness on one issue—oil. His famil, owns part of the win-or-lose oil company with extensive holdings in the Gulf of Mexico tidelands. And on oil, Russell will side with the man he replaces, the late Bob Kerr.

In fact, Russell even sidetracked statehood for Alaska and voted against Hell's Canyon, despite his father's tradition of bucking the big utilities, all because of a deal he made with Republican Senators to vote with him on tidelands oil if he would vote to keep Alaska, then strongly Democratic, out of the Union.

For a long time, the deal of the junior Senator from Louisiana was what delayed Alaskan statehood.

The Used Car business needs a code of ethics. It's in trouble. Nowhere else in American industry is there a faster and looser buck to be made and lost. The honest dealers are undercut and undersold and frozen out of business. There is a guide book which gives the current retail value of every automobile, but no one pays attention to it.

The business is conducted along the lines of an Arab bazaar. It consists of haggling, arguing, walking away, coming back, getting guarantees which are almost meaningless, and driving off in something glittering which may hold together for a few thousand miles. And may not.

Larceny is not confined to the dealer. The American automobile owner is an innocent-looking crook. When he is selling, he likes to misrepresent his car, claiming it is "like new." This makes the dealer wonder why the man wants to sell. In each case, the salesman is allowed but a few minutes of walk-around inspection, and one around-the-block drive before making his offer.

No matter what it is, the owner howls. If the salesman is smart, he allows himself a margin, so that he can appear to surrender to a higher demand, without hurting himself. He knows, before he buys, what he can do to clean up this particular cripple, and how much demand there is for his car, and this model.

Roughly, there are two types of used car business: the open lot, and the new car dealer. On the open lot, the car owner usually wants to sell his four-wheeled headache for a better one. Often, after a month or two, he wishes he had the old one back. Transmissions and rear ends begin to whine; brakes screech as metal rubs against metal, and engines lose compression.

He curses the lot salesman, forgetting that he tried to outwit the man, and lost. I know of a case in Long Branch, N. J., where a salesman named George Cottrell tried to help a schoolkid who had bought a lemon. It had been a nice shiny job, and it had sounded good when the kid bought it, but in seven months it began to come apart.

The kid, who had little money, had to trade toward a slightly better car. Slightly less than $1,000 was paid on the lemon, and the best offer was now $250. Cottrell and his boss, Toby McFaddin, jacked the offer to $350 and trimmed the price of the newer car to accommodate the youngster.

This, however, is rare. The new car dealers are sick of the Used Car business. They sell dozens of cars en masse to the big lot dealers, called the Jerome Avenue Boys, and they sell very low because the J.A.B. will take the sick automobiles as well as the healthy ones. I saw cars listed at $1,100 in the book go for $350.

The new car dealer is caught between two forces: he must make a good offer to the person who wants to buy a new car and in many cases he offers more on the old jaloppy than he can get back. In selling the new car, he uses two sets of figures: retail and wholesale. If he offers a low price on the old car, he quotes a wholesale price on the new one. If he is forced high on the old one, he quotes the retail price on the new one.

It comes out the same. The buyer doesn't always know it, but the basic arithmetic is My-car-and-how-much-money. Within 60 days after a line of new cars comes out, the dealer is caught in the opposite direction. He has sold a lot of new automobiles, but his money is now sitting on his used car lot. His salesmen want commissions, but the dealer is often low on cash until he can dispose of the old cars he accepted in trade.

Each day, his investment in those cars decreases in value. In panic, he switches from pushing new cars, to selling used ones. At this stage, he finds himself in competition with the cut-throat used care dealers down the block. If he needs cash badly, he will sell all he has to the Jerome Avenue Boys. He loses money this way because they examine his lot and give him a fast take-it-or-leave it offer.

The trouble lies in the fact that the dealers have no strong organization which is able to define fair trade and force everyone to abide by it. Book value is meaningless. It's a rubber ruler. Some of the open lot dealers — not all, by any means — have brought disrepute on everyone. The guarantees they offer to the sucker sound like the epitome of generosity, until the chump tries to get them to repair the car.

This abuses the confidence America should have in its automobile industry. It forces everyone to be wary, to be prepared to chisel, all the way from the sucker on up to the wholesale car buyers. No one comes out with clean hands.

It can be corrected. A strong organization, a dealers association stamped advertised and displayed, could bring the Used Car business back up to where it rates respect. . .

Oral Reactions To Allergens Are Common

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Citric and acetic acids may cause canker sores and other mouth lesions. We have seen several individuals over the years who drank large amounts of fruit juices. They developed sores in the mouth and in time discovered accidentally that the lesions could be prevented by eliminating fruit containing these acids.

Tests have demonstrated that allergy is responsible. Americans also are great pill users and the use of drugs often leads to painful ulcers, redness, and bleeding of the mouth. Barbiturates, antibiotics, iodine, sufonamides, salicylates (aspirin), mercury, and bismuth head the list. Some of these products escape detection because they are hidden in simple remedies such as cough sirups or pain killers.

In many instances the sores reappear in the same spot whenever the causative drug is taken. The chemicals are absorbed by the stomach and, for some unknow reason, select the mouth to do their dirty work. This is mentioned because the lesions do not come from local contact with the drug in the mouth.

The oral cavity was built to take abuse. It is lined with a resistant membrane that is covered constantly with large amounts of mucus and saliva. Sores form when these areas are sensitized through allergic, metabolic, or emotional elements.

A poorly fitting denture is an example of injury but in many instances the irritation is aided and abetted by a sensitivity to acrylic materials used in the dentures. Other allergic offenders include toothpaste, mouth washes, denture cleansers, tobacco, medicated lozenges, flavoring in candy or chewing gum, and certain drugs.

The irritation may be confined to the lips or to the corners of the mouth when an allergy exists to certain dyes in lipstick. Redness, painful ulcers, and swelling (hives) on the inside of the mouth also stem from a variety of foods. Dust and serums cause these lesions occasionally.

CHILDHOOD CONVULSIONS

Mrs. D. A. writes: I had just one attack of epilepsy as a child and am now 27. Do you think I will ever have another? I do worry because I drive a car.

REPLY

I doubt if this question can be answered. The long duration of freedom from attacks is in your favor. Possibly the seizure you had as a child was due to an elevated temperature rather than to epilepsy. You might consider having a brain wave test.

INTESTINAL FLU

J. A. B. writes: What can you tell me about viral gastroenteritis?

REPLY

This intestinal infection is caused by a virus and resembles food poisoning. Many of the victims have fever, generalized aching, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and griping pain. Spontaneous recovery is the rule.

TAINTED FOOD

P. D. writes: Could two persons who ate the same contaminated food react differently?

REPLY

Yes, because other factors play a role in the severity of food poisoning. These include the amount eaten and whether vomiting occurred immediately thereafter.

APPENDICITIS AND PREGNANCY

S. A. S. writes: Can a woman become pregnant after having an operation for ruptured appendix?

REPLY

Yes, because the reprodutive organs are rarely involved in perforation of the appendix.

LASH CUTTER

R. S. writes: I'm 21 years old and cut my eyelashes. Will they grow back?

REPLY

Yes, and perhaps this lesson will help you grow up.

WET HAIR

M. F. writes: I wash my hair twice a week and go to bed with it wet. Will this practice cause rheumatism when I get older?

REPLY

No.

CARROT JUICE JAG

T. L. writes: Will drinking a quart of carrot juice daily help a nervous stomach?

REPLY

No, and it might stain the skin yellow (carotenemial). Carrots contain carotene, a yellow pigment, that usually is harmles: unless ingested in excessive amounts..

TOMORROW: Head lice (pediculosis).

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Rivalry between those two fine old Ivy League colleges, Yale and Princeton, now extends far beyond the confines of the football gridiron. Just how far I discovered when I journeyed up to lecture at Yale recently. The very next night Old Eli's debating team was scheduled to meet Princeton head-on. I've never discovered who won. But Yale emerged victorious in two previous debates with the same Princeton team by defending the affirmative in "Resolved: That a College Education Is Wasted on the American Female" and "Resolved: That Harvard Should Confer An Honorary Degree on Brigitte Bardot!"

An author who had submitted a 900-page novel to Editor Hiram Haydn at Atheneum explained, "Often I walked alone late at night to the very end of a Hudson River pier to collect my thoughts."

"Wonderful," nodded Haydn thoughtfully, "but I wonder if you went far enough.

Observes Robert Nathan in his sprightly volume, "The Married Man":

"Whoever — or whatever — was responsible for the extermination of the woolly mammoth, the rose, and the mastodon — (Being dissatisfied and/or derisive) — You can be sure that when Man is finally made to disappear from this earth it will be faster done —And more decisive."

From an essay by a 10-year-old scholar in New Orleans: "I hate Fidel Castro for two reasons: (1). He brought communism to Cuba and (2). He invented Castro Oil."

Public Authorities Under Fire Again

Government by public authorities is under fire again. This time the critic is a committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, which demands the state constitution be amended to bar the creation of new authorities. It also urges the abolition of existing authorities, with the states and municipalities acquiring their assets and assuming their debts.

The Pennsylvania case against authorities presents familiar charges, the most persuasive being that they tend to develop an independence that is not always in the public interest. Because their credit is not supported by taxing power, their interest rates tend to be higher than those of states and municipalities. Nor are they free of the wasteful practices of ordinary government departments.

But if the indictment of authorities as instruments of government has merit, it does not support such sweeping conclusions as the statement of some critics that there is nothing an authority does that a formally established government could not do better and cheaper.

This claim could not be easily sustained, for example, in the case of the bridges and tunnels between New York and New Jersey, which could not have been built and maintained without the creation of a separate, interstate agency.

Many of the defects attributed to public authorities arise from the failure of governors and other constituted overseers to exercise their statutory supervisory powers.

But the East German party congress will be set apart from its predecessors in the series by the august presence of Khrushchev himself, at the head of an unusually hightowered Soviet delegation. At a minimum, therefore, Khrushchev will be on hand, smiling, slapping, and giving formal countenance to the expected attacks on the Chinese.

Quite possibly, Khrushchev will go beyond merely giving countenance. In their handling of the Chinese problem, the preceding satellite party congresses have followed a crescendo pattern. Novotny, for instance, was the first satellite leader to name the Chinese quite openly, instead of denouncing nameless "dogmatists." It would complete the crescendo pattern rather neatly if Khrushchev himself joined the chorus with his own overt condemnation of Mao.

The thing may not stop there, either. The experts now incline to think that it is only a matter of time before the formal, final, Stalin-Tito-style rupture between Peking and Moscow. The East German congress may also produce the call for the world congress of all Communist parties everywhere, which will probably have to be held before an official anathema can be pronounced on the Chinese.

As the East German congress may also be expected to show the present condition of the three-quarters buried Berlin crisis, this meeting on the 16th of this month should be an interesting occasion.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CONTROL OF CONGRESS—Political observers are beginning to believe that President Kennedy has lost control of his party in Congress. This is so, they believe, despite the high personal popularity accorded him in public opinion polls.

Kennedy suffered sharp setbacks in his legislative program at the hands of both Houses of Congress.

The division in the Democratic Party between the northern liberals and the southern conservatives has rendered its majorities ineffective, giving the newly-solidified Republicans the actual balance of power on the controversial issues facing the national legislature. Whenever the Republicans want to, they can throw enough votes against a Kennedy proposal to kill it, for the southern Democrats seem to have deserted him and his program.

Some Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill consider the situation as serious, or more so, than if Congress were under the political control of the Republicans. As things stand, the Republicans can defeat almost any piece of legislation they want to, and answer their critics by saying the Democrats are in the majority and the defeat must be laid at their door.

Two Senators Replacing Bob Kerr On Committees Will Reverse Him

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It's said that there's nothing certain in life except death and taxes. In the current session of Congress, it's also certain that death has played some queer tricks on taxes.

Nothing could make the amiable and potent Bob Kerr more restless in his Oklahoma grave than the idea of Pat McNamara, former head of the Pipe Fitters Union in Detroit, filling his shoes as chairman of the Public Works Committee, and Russell Long, son of the late Huey Long of Louisiana, filling his shoes on the tax-powerful finance committee.

They disagree with him on almost everything, especially taxes. And while they generally agree with each other politically, the two men are just the opposite physically.

McNamara is a six-foot, heavily built Irishman, slow in debate, but deadly when he makes a point.

Russell Long is short, slender, quick-witted and quick-tongued, able to talk almost as long as his filibustering father. He was elected to the Senate when just under the age-wire—30. McNamara was elected to the Senate in his 60's. Both are Democrats.

Both have battled for the underdog, and line up on the same side of the fence except when it comes to oil and the Negro. Long of Louisiana is for the first and against the second. McNamara of Michigan is for the second and against the first.

First Labor Senator

McNamara, now 68, is the first A. F. of L. executive ever elected to the Senate; and at one time two Republican senators on the Rackets Committee—Karl Mundt, N. D., and Barry Goldwater, Ariz. —started a secret probe of his labor activities in Detroit. It backfired.

McNamara, who is a member of the Rackets Committee, wanted to investigate former AFL colleague Jimmy Hoffa, but Mundt and Goldwater hung back against their fellow Republican.

When McNamara was elected in 1954, it was not popular to stand up on the Senate floor and criticize Eisenhower, Ike was at the peak of his popularity. But McNamara was one of only two Senators who dared do it. (Matt Neely, W. Va., was the other.)

McNamara also stood up against the Democratic Senate leader, Lyndon Johnson, for calling so few Democratic caucuses, was one of only six Senators who had the courage to urge the plugging of oil-gas tax loopholes in 1957, demanded the end of secrecy inside the Rackets Committee, pushed for a clean elections bill, for aid to education, and held extensive hearings for aid to the aged.

He also had the courage to get dressed up in white tie and tails for Kennedy's Inauguration, despite the boycott of Sen. Gene McCarthy, D.-Minn. It's about the only chance I'll have to get my money out of that soup-and-fish." McNamara explained.

When McNamara came up for re-election in 1960, a lot of people crossed him off as defeated. He had just undergone a cancer operation. He was running against the grandson of a founder of General Motors, who poured an estimated $600,000 into the campaign. And JFK's friend Sen. George Smathers, D.-Fla., who controlled the Democratic Senate purse strings, allotted McNamara only $7,500 as against $13,000 for Senator Kerr, wealthiest man in the Senate.

But McNamara won. As chairman of the Public Works Committee, he can do what Kerr did—hold up Senators' pet pork-barrel projects unless they vote his way. His way will be for medicare, against oil, for the underdog.

Russell Long's Policies

Sen. Russell Long, who replaces Kerr as No. 2 man on the Finance Committee, will also reverse Kerr's policies. And because of the health and age of Chairman Harry Byrd, Va., Long will have influence.

Like his unpredictable daddy who taxed the big corporations of Louisiana in order to supply free textbooks in the schools and built toll-free bridges across the Mississippi, Russell Long has battled for small business, for public housing, aid to education, liberal labor laws, aid to the aged.

He ranks alongside Senator Kefauver of Tennessee as a trust-buster, has waged a battle against giving government-developed space patents to the big defense contractors, opposed giving the communications satellite to American Tel and Tel, stood up against Richard Nixon and the China Lobby, attacked the big auto companies for hoarding steel when steel was tight, and battled for the small scrap-iron dealers against monopoly.

Unlike his colleague from Louisiana, Allen Ellender, who uses counterpart funds to junket around the world, Long has urged that counterpart funds be used to give free schoolbooks to children and improve housing around the world.

But Russell will make deals with bold-faced brazenness on one issue—oil. His famil, owns part of the win-or-lose oil company with extensive holdings in the Gulf of Mexico tidelands. And on oil, Russell will side with the man he replaces, the late Bob Kerr.

In fact, Russell even sidetracked statehood for Alaska and voted against Hell's Canyon, despite his father's tradition of bucking the big utilities, all because of a deal he made with Republican Senators to vote with him on tidelands oil if he would vote to keep Alaska, then strongly Democratic, out of the Union.

For a long time, the deal of the junior Senator from Louisiana was what delayed Alaskan statehood.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The Used Car business needs a code of ethics. It's in trouble. Nowhere else in American industry is there a faster and looser buck to be made and lost. The honest dealers are undercut and undersold and frozen out of business. There is a guide book which gives the current retail value of every automobile, but no one pays attention to it.

The business is conducted along the lines of an Arab bazaar. It consists of haggling, arguing, walking away, coming back, getting guarantees which are almost meaningless, and driving off in something glittering which may hold together for a few thousand miles. And may not.

Larceny is not confined to the dealer. The American automobile owner is an innocent-looking crook. When he is selling, he likes to misrepresent his car, claiming it is "like new." This makes the dealer wonder why the man wants to sell. In each case, the salesman is allowed but a few minutes of walk-around inspection, and one around-the-block drive before making his offer.

No matter what it is, the owner howls. If the salesman is smart, he allows himself a margin, so that he can appear to surrender to a higher demand, without hurting himself. He knows, before he buys, what he can do to clean up this particular cripple, and how much demand there is for his car, and this model.

Roughly, there are two types of used car business: the open lot, and the new car dealer. On the open lot, the car owner usually wants to sell his four-wheeled headache for a better one. Often, after a month or two, he wishes he had the old one back. Transmissions and rear ends begin to whine; brakes screech as metal rubs against metal, and engines lose compression.

He curses the lot salesman, forgetting that he tried to outwit the man, and lost. I know of a case in Long Branch, N. J., where a salesman named George Cottrell tried to help a schoolkid who had bought a lemon. It had been a nice shiny job, and it had sounded good when the kid bought it, but in seven months it began to come apart.

The kid, who had little money, had to trade toward a slightly better car. Slightly less than $1,000 was paid on the lemon, and the best offer was now $250. Cottrell and his boss, Toby McFaddin, jacked the offer to $350 and trimmed the price of the newer car to accommodate the youngster.

This, however, is rare. The new car dealers are sick of the Used Car business. They sell dozens of cars en masse to the big lot dealers, called the Jerome Avenue Boys, and they sell very low because the J.A.B. will take the sick automobiles as well as the healthy ones. I saw cars listed at $1,100 in the book go for $350.

The new car dealer is caught between two forces: he must make a good offer to the person who wants to buy a new car and in many cases he offers more on the old jaloppy than he can get back. In selling the new car, he uses two sets of figures: retail and wholesale. If he offers a low price on the old car, he quotes a wholesale price on the new one. If he is forced high on the old one, he quotes the retail price on the new one.

It comes out the same. The buyer doesn't always know it, but the basic arithmetic is My-car-and-how-much-money. Within 60 days after a line of new cars comes out, the dealer is caught in the opposite direction. He has sold a lot of new automobiles, but his money is now sitting on his used car lot. His salesmen want commissions, but the dealer is often low on cash until he can dispose of the old cars he accepted in trade.

Each day, his investment in those cars decreases in value. In panic, he switches from pushing new cars, to selling used ones. At this stage, he finds himself in competition with the cut-throat used care dealers down the block. If he needs cash badly, he will sell all he has to the Jerome Avenue Boys. He loses money this way because they examine his lot and give him a fast take-it-or-leave it offer.

The trouble lies in the fact that the dealers have no strong organization which is able to define fair trade and force everyone to abide by it. Book value is meaningless. It's a rubber ruler. Some of the open lot dealers — not all, by any means — have brought disrepute on everyone. The guarantees they offer to the sucker sound like the epitome of generosity, until the chump tries to get them to repair the car.

This abuses the confidence America should have in its automobile industry. It forces everyone to be wary, to be prepared to chisel, all the way from the sucker on up to the wholesale car buyers. No one comes out with clean hands.

It can be corrected. A strong organization, a dealers association stamped advertised and displayed, could bring the Used Car business back up to where it rates respect. . .

Oral Reactions To Allergens Are Common

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Citric and acetic acids may cause canker sores and other mouth lesions. We have seen several individuals over the years who drank large amounts of fruit juices. They developed sores in the mouth and in time discovered accidentally that the lesions could be prevented by eliminating fruit containing these acids.

Tests have demonstrated that allergy is responsible. Americans also are great pill users and the use of drugs often leads to painful ulcers, redness, and bleeding of the mouth. Barbiturates, antibiotics, iodine, sufonamides, salicylates (aspirin), mercury, and bismuth head the list. Some of these products escape detection because they are hidden in simple remedies such as cough sirups or pain killers.

In many instances the sores reappear in the same spot whenever the causative drug is taken. The chemicals are absorbed by the stomach and, for some unknow reason, select the mouth to do their dirty work. This is mentioned because the lesions do not come from local contact with the drug in the mouth.

The oral cavity was built to take abuse. It is lined with a resistant membrane that is covered constantly with large amounts of mucus and saliva. Sores form when these areas are sensitized through allergic, metabolic, or emotional elements.

A poorly fitting denture is an example of injury but in many instances the irritation is aided and abetted by a sensitivity to acrylic materials used in the dentures. Other allergic offenders include toothpaste, mouth washes, denture cleansers, tobacco, medicated lozenges, flavoring in candy or chewing gum, and certain drugs.

The irritation may be confined to the lips or to the corners of the mouth when an allergy exists to certain dyes in lipstick. Redness, painful ulcers, and swelling (hives) on the inside of the mouth also stem from a variety of foods. Dust and serums cause these lesions occasionally.

CHILDHOOD CONVULSIONS

Mrs. D. A. writes: I had just one attack of epilepsy as a child and am now 27. Do you think I will ever have another? I do worry because I drive a car.

REPLY

I doubt if this question can be answered. The long duration of freedom from attacks is in your favor. Possibly the seizure you had as a child was due to an elevated temperature rather than to epilepsy. You might consider having a brain wave test.

INTESTINAL FLU

J. A. B. writes: What can you tell me about viral gastroenteritis?

REPLY

This intestinal infection is caused by a virus and resembles food poisoning. Many of the victims have fever, generalized aching, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and griping pain. Spontaneous recovery is the rule.

TAINTED FOOD

P. D. writes: Could two persons who ate the same contaminated food react differently?

REPLY

Yes, because other factors play a role in the severity of food poisoning. These include the amount eaten and whether vomiting occurred immediately thereafter.

APPENDICITIS AND PREGNANCY

S. A. S. writes: Can a woman become pregnant after having an operation for ruptured appendix?

REPLY

Yes, because the reprodutive organs are rarely involved in perforation of the appendix.

LASH CUTTER

R. S. writes: I'm 21 years old and cut my eyelashes. Will they grow back?

REPLY

Yes, and perhaps this lesson will help you grow up.

WET HAIR

M. F. writes: I wash my hair twice a week and go to bed with it wet. Will this practice cause rheumatism when I get older?

REPLY

No.

CARROT JUICE JAG

T. L. writes: Will drinking a quart of carrot juice daily help a nervous stomach?

REPLY

No, and it might stain the skin yellow (carotenemial). Carrots contain carotene, a yellow pigment, that usually is harmles: unless ingested in excessive amounts..

TOMORROW: Head lice (pediculosis).

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Rivalry between those two fine old Ivy League colleges, Yale and Princeton, now extends far beyond the confines of the football gridiron. Just how far I discovered when I journeyed up to lecture at Yale recently. The very next night Old Eli's debating team was scheduled to meet Princeton head-on. I've never discovered who won. But Yale emerged victorious in two previous debates with the same Princeton team by defending the affirmative in "Resolved: That a College Education Is Wasted on the American Female" and "Resolved: That Harvard Should Confer An Honorary Degree on Brigitte Bardot!"

An author who had submitted a 900-page novel to Editor Hiram Haydn at Atheneum explained, "Often I walked alone late at night to the very end of a Hudson River pier to collect my thoughts."

"Wonderful," nodded Haydn thoughtfully, "but I wonder if you went far enough.

Observes Robert Nathan in his sprightly volume, "The Married Man":

"Whoever — or whatever — was responsible for the extermination of the woolly mammoth, the rose, and the mastodon — (Being dissatisfied and/or derisive) — You can be sure that when Man is finally made to disappear from this earth it will be faster done —And more decisive."

From an essay by a 10-year-old scholar in New Orleans: "I hate Fidel Castro for two reasons: (1). He brought communism to Cuba and (2). He invented Castro Oil."

Three Civil Suits Scheduled At Keyser

KEYSER—Only three civil cases were docketed for trial yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court, but several others were scheduled for continuance and numerous pre-trial conferences which could result in jury trials were set.

Those docketed were as follows:

Tuesday, February 5—Chester Rhodes vs. Charles Weese; WKYR, Inc., vs. J. W. Aldridge.

Wednesday, February 6—Wanda Parrill vs. Clem E. Montgomery, Jr., et al.

The latter case stems from injuries sustained by Miss Parrill in an automobile accident.

Three teenaged boys from the Keyser area who were involved in the theft of an automobile and charged with the theft by both West Virginia and Maryland authorities, appeared before Judge David E. Cuppett Jr., yesterday and were commended for their behavior on post-conviction parole. They were released from custody of the court.

Rev. Owen G. Stultz, former pastor of Sunnyside Church of the Brethren, and his successor, Rev. Gene L. Bucher, and parents of the three boys, were commended also by the judge for their roles in the boys' behavior.

The teenage trio recently fulfilled similar court conditions in Maryland.

School Consolidation Plan Is Under Study In Mineral

KEYSER — Consolidation of two or more secondary schools in Mineral County appears a possibility today in wake of a combined meeting of the county's Board of Education and a curriculum committee.

Following an announcement of its plan to call for a school building bond levy in the near future, the Board of Education has developed several alternate plans which will be explored by a committee of citizens in cooperation with the curriculum committee, the Board of Education and the administrative staff.

Representatives from all areas of the county will be named by the Board of Education in the near future to serve on the study group with school personnel.

The Board of Education met in special session Tuesday with members of the curriculum committee who presented the advantages of a comprehensive curriculum.

V. A. Staggers, committee chairman, and members J. W. Goldsworthy, J. William Marker, M. M. Heiskell and Frank Burgess pointed out that offerings of sequential courses in mathematics, science, foreign languages and vocational courses could not economically be scheduled in senior high schools with an enrollment of less than 500

Realizing that any building program must consider the needs of the entire county giving equal educational opportunities to all, the Board of Education said it envisions a building program which would consolidate the secondary schools to the degree necessary to carry out an effective program of education.

Preliminary studies by the board indicate that one or two high schools serving the entire county would be the most effective plan.

Mineral County currently has five secondary schools — one each in Keyser, Elk Garden, Piedmont, Ridgeley and Fort Ashby.

Henry Elden and Associates, an architectural firm from Charleston, has been commissioned to advise the Board and coordinate preliminary building plans.

Hampshire County Elects Education Head

ROMNEY — Robert L. Summer has been unanimously elected to serve as president of the Hampshire County Board of Education for the next two years. He previously served two years on the board.

Prior to nominations and the election of Summer, Mervin J. Wolford was sworn in as a member of the board. The latter is from Capon District and replaces Russell B. Oates.

The board adopted as a policy to apply to all teachers and students in the Hampshire County school system that any pregnancy existing among the staff or students could not attend school or teach beyond four and one-half months.

A request by the Romney High School band to attend the Cherry Blossom Festival parade in Washington April 6 was approved. Robert J. Row, band director, will be invited to the Board of Education office January 25 to discuss a band camp for the summer, combining the bands of Romney High School and Capon Bridge High School.

Bed Of Stream Owned By State

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The state attorney general's office said Thursday that the beds of navigable streams in West Virginia belong to the state—including "minerals, sand, gravel, coal and derelict property" in them.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Simon Bailey said the opinion referred to that part of the bed between the low water marks on each side of the stream.

Bailey wrote the opinion for J. B. Mason, executive secretary of the public lands corporation of the State Natural Resources Department.

He said state ownership also would extend to any islands created by "accretion." The state acquired title to islands present in navigable rivers at the time the state was formed, if such islands were then owned by the Commonwealth of Virginia, he said.

"Any one claiming ownership of such an island must support his claim by a deed or other document," Bailey said.

He said the "only way to determine what islands are owned by the state is by way of a vast statewide survey of records in county courthouses."

Mrs. Corbin Hosts Keyser Jay-Shes Meet

KEYSER — Mrs. Nancy Corbin, 52 E Street, entertained at the January meeting of the Keyser Jay-Shes.

Two representatives will present records in keeping with the nation's physical fitness program to every school in Mineral County at the principals' meeting January 16 at 7:30 p. m.

The quarterly conference state board meeting will be held at Fairmont, February 9-11.

Members discussed plans to assist the Jaycees with the Boy Scout exhibition February 9 at the National Guard armory. Women will be in charge of the concession stand. Mrs. Patricia Welch, chairman of the ways and means committee, will plan refreshments.

Mrs. Charlotte Athey, North Davis Street, will be hostess for the February meeting, at which time a ceramics program will be held. Mrs. H. H. Brown and Mrs. John Rannells, Romney, will be in charge of the program.

Chaperones Are Named

FROSTBURG — Chaperones at Teen Town during December were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carder, Mr. and Mrs. William Vogtman, Mr. and Mrs. George Buckalew, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morley, Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fresh, Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan and Mesdames Margaret Jones, Marie McClintock, John Buckalew, John F. Bond, William P. Sperry, H. C. Diehl, Bray Thompson, Gwen Eisel and Robert Goldsworthy, Miss Bobby Jean Diehl, Janice Diehl, Darlene Steele, Allan Eisel, Vincent Bollino and Harry Cook.

Members of the adult board served as chaperones for the New Year's Eve dance.

Mrs. Marie Lewis is in charge of scheduling chaperones.

Friendly Group Committees Are Appointed

FROSTBURG — The Friendly Group met a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Mary McLuckie.

Mrs. Ruth Davis was installed as president and Mrs. Alvenia Cole as treasurer by Miss Elizabeth Workman in a candle lighting ceremony.

A program was held with the theme "The Home." A talk, "Our Home" was given by Mrs. Alice Miller, "The Act of Quilting," Miss Elizabeth Workman, and a poem and talk, "A Home," Mrs. Ruth Custer.

The following committees were appointed by Mrs. Davis:

Social life, Mary McLuckie and Margaret Walsh; Program, Alice Miller, Elizabeth Workman, and Althea Yenshaw; Ways and Means, Annie Plummer, Grace Mont, Marie James, Margaret Tranum, and Annie Cathcart.

Chaplains, Ruth Custer and Althea Yenshaw; Sunshine, Maude Chidester, and Margaret Walsh; Investigation, Alice Miller and Elizabeth Workman; Home Missions, Jennie Thomas, Blanche Festerman, Annie Smith and Edith Zarger; Publicity, Elizabeth Workman; Pianist, Marie James.

Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held February 7, at the home of Elizabeth Workman on Maple Street.

Congregation To Meet Today

KEYSER — Members of Keyser Presbyterian Church will hold their annual congregational meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall to elect officers.

Three deacons, two elders and one trustee will be named. Reports of organizations will be presented in mineographed form.

The program will consist of movies and slides on the construction of the new church building, beginning with the groundbreaking in 1961 and concluding with the dedication service in May 1962. Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, who has served as chairman of the building and planning committee since 1954, will present a resume of financial progress.

Mrs. Josephine Shay, who has been a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital, was transferred to University Hospital, Morgantown.

Education Class Will Be Offered

OAKLAND — Education 105, Science in the Elementary School, will be offered by the University of Maryland in Garrett County during the second semester.

Allen Dodd, area director for science education in Montgomery County, will be in the instructor and the class will be offered on alternate Fridays beginning February 14 from 6:30 to 9:10 p.m. and on Saturday mornings from 9 o'clock to noon.

The alternate week schedule is aimed to provide ample study and project time for students of the course.

Registration will be held at the Oakland-Dennett Road Elementary School on February 15. The exact location of the class will be determined at that time.

Three Civil Suits Scheduled At Keyser

KEYSER—Only three civil cases were docketed for trial yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court, but several others were scheduled for continuance and numerous pre-trial conferences which could result in jury trials were set.

Those docketed were as follows:

Tuesday, February 5—Chester Rhodes vs. Charles Weese; WKYR, Inc., vs. J. W. Aldridge.

Wednesday, February 6—Wanda Parrill vs. Clem E. Montgomery, Jr., et al.

The latter case stems from injuries sustained by Miss Parrill in an automobile accident.

Three teenaged boys from the Keyser area who were involved in the theft of an automobile and charged with the theft by both West Virginia and Maryland authorities, appeared before Judge David E. Cuppett Jr., yesterday and were commended for their behavior on post-conviction parole. They were released from custody of the court.

Rev. Owen G. Stultz, former pastor of Sunnyside Church of the Brethren, and his successor, Rev. Gene L. Bucher, and parents of the three boys, were commended also by the judge for their roles in the boys' behavior.

The teenage trio recently fulfilled similar court conditions in Maryland.

School Consolidation Plan Is Under Study In Mineral

KEYSER — Consolidation of two or more secondary schools in Mineral County appears a possibility today in wake of a combined meeting of the county's Board of Education and a curriculum committee.

Following an announcement of its plan to call for a school building bond levy in the near future, the Board of Education has developed several alternate plans which will be explored by a committee of citizens in cooperation with the curriculum committee, the Board of Education and the administrative staff.

Representatives from all areas of the county will be named by the Board of Education in the near future to serve on the study group with school personnel.

The Board of Education met in special session Tuesday with members of the curriculum committee who presented the advantages of a comprehensive curriculum.

V. A. Staggers, committee chairman, and members J. W. Goldsworthy, J. William Marker, M. M. Heiskell and Frank Burgess pointed out that offerings of sequential courses in mathematics, science, foreign languages and vocational courses could not economically be scheduled in senior high schools with an enrollment of less than 500

Realizing that any building program must consider the needs of the entire county giving equal educational opportunities to all, the Board of Education said it envisions a building program which would consolidate the secondary schools to the degree necessary to carry out an effective program of education.

Preliminary studies by the board indicate that one or two high schools serving the entire county would be the most effective plan.

Mineral County currently has five secondary schools — one each in Keyser, Elk Garden, Piedmont, Ridgeley and Fort Ashby.

Henry Elden and Associates, an architectural firm from Charleston, has been commissioned to advise the Board and coordinate preliminary building plans.

Hampshire County Elects Education Head

ROMNEY — Robert L. Summer has been unanimously elected to serve as president of the Hampshire County Board of Education for the next two years. He previously served two years on the board.

Prior to nominations and the election of Summer, Mervin J. Wolford was sworn in as a member of the board. The latter is from Capon District and replaces Russell B. Oates.

The board adopted as a policy to apply to all teachers and students in the Hampshire County school system that any pregnancy existing among the staff or students could not attend school or teach beyond four and one-half months.

A request by the Romney High School band to attend the Cherry Blossom Festival parade in Washington April 6 was approved. Robert J. Row, band director, will be invited to the Board of Education office January 25 to discuss a band camp for the summer, combining the bands of Romney High School and Capon Bridge High School.

Bed Of Stream Owned By State

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The state attorney general's office said Thursday that the beds of navigable streams in West Virginia belong to the state—including "minerals, sand, gravel, coal and derelict property" in them.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Simon Bailey said the opinion referred to that part of the bed between the low water marks on each side of the stream.

Bailey wrote the opinion for J. B. Mason, executive secretary of the public lands corporation of the State Natural Resources Department.

He said state ownership also would extend to any islands created by "accretion." The state acquired title to islands present in navigable rivers at the time the state was formed, if such islands were then owned by the Commonwealth of Virginia, he said.

"Any one claiming ownership of such an island must support his claim by a deed or other document," Bailey said.

He said the "only way to determine what islands are owned by the state is by way of a vast statewide survey of records in county courthouses."

Mrs. Corbin Hosts Keyser Jay-Shes Meet

KEYSER — Mrs. Nancy Corbin, 52 E Street, entertained at the January meeting of the Keyser Jay-Shes.

Two representatives will present records in keeping with the nation's physical fitness program to every school in Mineral County at the principals' meeting January 16 at 7:30 p. m.

The quarterly conference state board meeting will be held at Fairmont, February 9-11.

Members discussed plans to assist the Jaycees with the Boy Scout exhibition February 9 at the National Guard armory. Women will be in charge of the concession stand. Mrs. Patricia Welch, chairman of the ways and means committee, will plan refreshments.

Mrs. Charlotte Athey, North Davis Street, will be hostess for the February meeting, at which time a ceramics program will be held. Mrs. H. H. Brown and Mrs. John Rannells, Romney, will be in charge of the program.

Chaperones Are Named

FROSTBURG — Chaperones at Teen Town during December were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carder, Mr. and Mrs. William Vogtman, Mr. and Mrs. George Buckalew, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morley, Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fresh, Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan and Mesdames Margaret Jones, Marie McClintock, John Buckalew, John F. Bond, William P. Sperry, H. C. Diehl, Bray Thompson, Gwen Eisel and Robert Goldsworthy, Miss Bobby Jean Diehl, Janice Diehl, Darlene Steele, Allan Eisel, Vincent Bollino and Harry Cook.

Members of the adult board served as chaperones for the New Year's Eve dance.

Mrs. Marie Lewis is in charge of scheduling chaperones.

Friendly Group Committees Are Appointed

FROSTBURG — The Friendly Group met a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Mary McLuckie.

Mrs. Ruth Davis was installed as president and Mrs. Alvenia Cole as treasurer by Miss Elizabeth Workman in a candle lighting ceremony.

A program was held with the theme "The Home." A talk, "Our Home" was given by Mrs. Alice Miller, "The Act of Quilting," Miss Elizabeth Workman, and a poem and talk, "A Home," Mrs. Ruth Custer.

The following committees were appointed by Mrs. Davis:

Social life, Mary McLuckie and Margaret Walsh; Program, Alice Miller, Elizabeth Workman, and Althea Yenshaw; Ways and Means, Annie Plummer, Grace Mont, Marie James, Margaret Tranum, and Annie Cathcart.

Chaplains, Ruth Custer and Althea Yenshaw; Sunshine, Maude Chidester, and Margaret Walsh; Investigation, Alice Miller and Elizabeth Workman; Home Missions, Jennie Thomas, Blanche Festerman, Annie Smith and Edith Zarger; Publicity, Elizabeth Workman; Pianist, Marie James.

KEYSER — Members of Keyser Presbyterian Church will hold their annual congregational meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall to elect officers.

Three deacons, two elders and one trustee will be named. Reports of organizations will be presented in mineographed form.

The program will consist of movies and slides on the construction of the new church building, beginning with the groundbreaking in 1961 and concluding with the dedication service in May 1962. Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, who has served as chairman of the building and planning committee since 1954, will present a resume of financial progress.

Mrs. Josephine Shay, who has been a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital, was transferred to University Hospital, Morgantown.

Education Class Will Be Offered

OAKLAND — Education 105, Science in the Elementary School, will be offered by the University of Maryland in Garrett County during the second semester.

Allen Dodd, area director for science education in Montgomery County, will be in the instructor and the class will be offered on alternate Fridays beginning February 14 from 6:30 to 9:10 p.m. and on Saturday mornings from 9 o'clock to noon.

The alternate week schedule is aimed to provide ample study and project time for students of the course.

Registration will be held at the Oakland-Dennett Road Elementary School on February 15. The exact location of the class will be determined at that time.

Engineer Named To Bedford SCS

BEDFORD — Alfred A. Snyder of Pine Grove, Schuylkill County, has been appointed agricultural engineer for Bedford and surrounding counties.

Snyder will work out of the Soil Conservation Service office in the Bedford Professional Building. His job will cover survey and design of conservation practices such as ponds, diversion terraces and tile drains.

Snyder served as agricultural engineer in Wayne County prior to the appointment. He was active in flood control projects as well as farm conservation work. He came to Wayne County in April 1961 after graduating from the Pennsylvania State University in June 1960.

He is a 1950 graduate of Cressona High School, Schuylkill County. Snyder spent three years in the Army, two of them with the Army Security Agency in Germany. Other job experience includes three years with an asphalt paving contractor.

Snyder is married to the former Shirley Miller of Pine Grove. They have two daughters, Virginia, 3, and Barbara, 2.

His assignment to Bedford County raised to three the number of permanent employes in the Soil Conservation Service office. Others are Donald G. Gardner, soil conservationist, and Roy A. Shryock, conservation technician.

Industrial Development Bond Issue Plan Is Urged

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Commerce Department Thursday urged the Legislature to grant cities and counties authority to issue revenue bonds for industrial development.

The request was an elaboration of a proposal in Gov. W. W. Barron's "state of the state" message to the lawmakers Wednesday.

A phamplet by the Commerce Department's industrial development division noted that the Cabell-Wayne Development Commission is the only local body allowed to issue bonds for industrial development purposes. This was granted by the 1960 Legislature.

"The proposed new legislation... would avoid the necessity for additional piecemeal legislation," the report said.

It was noted that 19 states now allow such bond issues, including Kentucky and Tennessee. Ohio, Pennsylvania and North Carolina reportedly will introduce such legislation this year.

This puts West Virginia in an unfavorable position in seeking new industry, the report said.

Under the proposal, counties and communities could issue revenue bonds to aid in financing, construction and location of new industry. Payment of the bonds would be derived solely from revenue from the industry, with "the public body under no obligation" to retire the bonds through taxes.

The plan would "put all communities in West Virginia on an equal basis as to financing new industry," the report said. It said the state recently lost three industries, representing total employment of 1,160 workers, which could have been located in the state under the bond arrangement.

It is estimated that at least 100 firms with potential employment of 15,000 "are showing definite interest in locating in the state" if such local financing is available.

McCoole Pastor Will Resign

McCOOLE — Rev. Thomas E. Henderson, pastor of McCoole Presbyterian Church and pastor of that denomination at Burlington Union Church since June 1959, has tendered his resignation, effective January 31, and plans to accept the pastorate of Loch Willow and Buffalo Gap Presbyterian churches at Churchville, Va., near Staunton.

Rev. and Mrs. Henderson and their three children will reside at Churchville. They have resided in Burlington since being here.

Rev. Henderson, a native of Tennessee, came to this area from a pastorate in North Carolina. He attended Maryville (Tenn.) College and Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va., and was ordained in August 1949.

He has worked in various Presbyterian activities and in the youth program where he has made considerable contributions. For the past three or four months he has ben serving on a supply basis for Kitzmiller Presbyterian Church which is without a pastor.

Mrs. Charles Maine returned from Charleston where she visited her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Maine.

Baylor Will Run For District Seat

HINTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Hinton businessman, Richard P. Baylor, announced Thursday he will be a candidate for the 5th Congressional District seat in 1964.

Baylor thus becomes the first announced candidate for the seat now held by Mrs. Elizabeth Kee, Bluefield, who told party leaders recently she would not seek re-election.

Baylor, a Democrat like Mrs. Kee, was a three-time candidate for the State Senate in the 10th District, losing in last year's primary to incumbent O. Roy Parker by only 90 votes.

Engineer Named To Bedford SCS

BEDFORD — Alfred A. Snyder of Pine Grove, Schuylkill County, has been appointed agricultural engineer for Bedford and surrounding counties.

Snyder will work out of the Soil Conservation Service office in the Bedford Professional Building. His job will cover survey and design of conservation practices such as ponds, diversion terraces and tile drains.

Snyder served as agricultural engineer in Wayne County prior to the appointment. He was active in flood control projects as well as farm conservation work. He came to Wayne County in April 1961 after graduating from the Pennsylvania State University in June 1960.

He is a 1950 graduate of Cressona High School, Schuylkill County. Snyder spent three years in the Army, two of them with the Army Security Agency in Germany. Other job experience includes three years with an asphalt paving contractor.

Snyder is married to the former Shirley Miller of Pine Grove. They have two daughters, Virginia, 3, and Barbara, 2.

His assignment to Bedford County raised to three the number of permanent employes in the Soil Conservation Service office. Others are Donald G. Gardner, soil conservationist, and Roy A. Shryock, conservation technician.

Industrial Development Bond Issue Plan Is Urged

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Commerce Department Thursday urged the Legislature to grant cities and counties authority to issue revenue bonds for industrial development.

The request was an elaboration of a proposal in Gov. W. W. Barron's "state of the state" message to the lawmakers Wednesday.

A phamplet by the Commerce Department's industrial development division noted that the Cabell-Wayne Development Commission is the only local body allowed to issue bonds for industrial development purposes. This was granted by the 1960 Legislature.

"The proposed new legislation... would avoid the necessity for additional piecemeal legislation," the report said.

It was noted that 19 states now allow such bond issues, including Kentucky and Tennessee. Ohio, Pennsylvania and North Carolina reportedly will introduce such legislation this year.

This puts West Virginia in an unfavorable position in seeking new industry, the report said.

Under the proposal, counties and communities could issue revenue bonds to aid in financing, construction and location of new industry. Payment of the bonds would be derived solely from revenue from the industry, with "the public body under no obligation" to retire the bonds through taxes.

The plan would "put all communities in West Virginia on an equal basis as to financing new industry," the report said. It said the state recently lost three industries, representing total employment of 1,160 workers, which could have been located in the state under the bond arrangement.

It is estimated that at least 100 firms with potential employment of 15,000 "are showing definite interest in locating in the state" if such local financing is available.

ONE SWING AWAY — Eddie Mathews, whose 399 home runs puts him in the number eight spot among the major leagues' all-time home run hitters, posed yesterday in front of the Milwaukee County Stadium scoreboard where his next big goal was spelled out. Eddie Mathews Signs 12th Contract With Milwaukee

Brave Slugger Reported To Get About Same Pay

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Balding Eddie Mathews, baseball's best home run hitting third baseman who is destined to become one of the game's long ball greats, signed a 1963 contract Thursday to play his 12th season for the Milwaukee Braves.

The 31-year-old Mathews was reported to have agreed to a salary of about $50,000. This is just about the same as his 1962 pay even though the past year was one of his poorest on the playing field.

"Things are going to be different in 1963," said Mathews, who became the ninth Brave to sign. "I'm going to spring training early for a good start."

Mathews, who was hampered by a shoulder injury the past year, watched his home run production fall off to 29 in 1962, while his batting average slipped to .265. It was the first time since his rookie year in 1952 that he failed to hit 30 or more homers in a season. He leads the league for number of years in a row that he has hit 30 or more homers.

Mathews has been a third base fixture with the Braves since the team moved to Milwaukee in 1953, and is one of only four Braves still remaining from the club that left Boston.

The solidly built infielder has twice led the National League in home runs — in 1953 with 47 and again in 1959 with 46. Mathews also ranks eighth among baseball's all-time home run hitters with a total of 399. He is second only to Stan Musial among active National League players. Musial has 463.

LION ENRAGED — According to reports out of Detroit, Alex Karras, star defensive tackle for the Lions, has threatened to quit pro football if the club management forces him to give up joint ownership of Detroit tavern.

Jockeys Escape Serious Injury

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Three jockeys were thrown from their mounts in spectacular chain-reaction spills in Thursday's first race at Santa Anita, but all three escaped serious injury.

One rider—Dale Long—was taken from the track to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for x-rays after he complained of pain in the lower back. Track hospital attendants said Long apparently was not hurt seriously.

Neither Rudy Campas nor Angel Valenzuela, also involved, required hospitalization.

Willie Shoemaker and Ismael Valenzuela were among riders who managed to stay aboard their horses in the frenzied traffic jam which started when Leaping Start suddenly bore out around the far turn.

DEER, DEER AND DEAR—Many male hunters dream about getting one deer during the season but this Nevada woman, Mrs. Mark Swain of Las Vegas, bagged two of them, on successive days, one in Utah and the other in Nevada. She donated both to David Martin, a Cub Scout official seen with her, for a cookout for his boys.

Infielder Logan Signs With Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Johnny Logan, a veteran utility infielder who was used sparingly last season but batted an even .300, Thursday became the fourth Pittsburgh Pirate signed for the 1963 campaign.

Logan will be starting his third year with the Pirates, having been obtained from the Milwaukee Braves in 1961 in a trade for outfielder Gino Cimoli.

Appearing in 44 games in 1962, Logan went to bat 80 times and collected 24 hits. He was used at various times as a third baseman, shortstop and second baseman.

Earlier in the day, the Pirate front office accounted receipt of a signed contract from right-handed pitcher Don Cardwell who came here in a four-player trade with the St. Louis Cardinals late last year.

Cardwell, 27, pitched for the Chicago Cubs in 1962 and had a 7-16 record. At the end of the season he was traded to the Cardinals and came here in a trade that involved former Pirate shortstop Dick Groat. He has been in the National League since 1957 when he was with the Philadelphia Phillies.

In a separate announcement, the Pirates said they would take 11 minor league players to their main spring training camp which opens next month at Fort Myers, Fla.

Nine of the 11 are pitchers. Among the group will be first baseman Frank (Pancho) Herrera who had a brief fling as a regular with the Phils two seasons ago. He was obtained in a recent swap that sent third baseman Don Hoak to the Phillies.

Small Pox Kills 556

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—An official said Thursday small pox killed 556 in West Java during the epidemic year of 1962.

Montreal Streak Snapped By Detroit

MONTREAL (UPI) — Gordie Howe, shut out in six earlier games against Montreal, scored twice Thursday night to power the Detroit Red Wings to a 3-2 victory over the Canadiens and end Montreal's unbeaten string at 10 games.

Substitute goalie Dennis Riggin, forced into action when Terry Sawchuk was injured in the second period, was outstanding in the Detroit cage as he turned back 11 Canadien shots in the final period. The defeat prevented Montreal from climbing into second place in the National Hockey League and left the Canadiens three points behind the pace-setting Chicago Black Hawks.

Howe registered his second goal at 6:42 of the third period to put Detroit ahead 3-2 and a stout Wing defense and Riggin's goaltending preserved the victory.

The Canadiens, who missed numerous chances to earn a tie in the final period, pulled goalie Jacques Plante with 31 seconds to play. But Riggin made two fine saves on Ralph Backstrom from close in and defenseman Jean Gauthier from the point.

Fanfani To Visit U.S.

St. Patrick's Scores 6th Win In CY League

Irishmen Defeat St. Peter's, 38-31

Coach Dick Boyle's unbeaten St. Patrick's cagers chalked up their sixth consecutive Catholic Youth League win last night by defeating St. Peter's of Westernport, 38-31.

In the other two games of yesterday's tripleheader at the SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium, St. Mary's edged St. Michael's, 34-33, and SS. Peter and Paul trimmed Mt. Savage St. Patrick's, 44-31.

A four-way tie for second place was reduced to a double deadlock. SS. Peter and Paul and St. Mary's now share the runnerup position with 4-2 marks, while St. Michael's and St. Peter's are 3-3.

Ricky Scaletta tossed in 16 points in pacing the Irishmen to their victory. Terry Davis came through with 14 for the Westernport cagers.

Out-goaled 12-9, St. Mary's Gaels hit on 16 of 31 foul tries to St. Michael's 9-18 in copping the one-point decision. The Frostburg crew outscored St. Mary's 15-6 in the final period but couldn't catch up.

Ed Hollen, St. Mary's center, pumped in 17 points and along with John Rowan took care of the board work. Regis Arnold collected 18 for the losers.

Pat McLean and Teddy Malloy accounted for 30 of the Flying Dutchman's points, while Mt. Savage's Barth took game scoring honors with 18.

In the absence of coach Bob Mattingly, who is suffering from a sinus infection, the SS. Peter and Paul cagers were handled by Rev. Father John Lapinsky. It was the first time that Mattingly had missed a game in 12 years.

Dapper Dans Will Present Kegg With Special Achievement Award

Club Will Honor Sports Editor Of Times At Dinner

A man who has contributed greatly to the success of the past 14 Dapper Dan Club sports celebrity dinners will be honored by the organization at its 15th annual affair Sunday at St. Mary's Church Hall.

J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, will receive the club's special achievement award.

Kegg, who succeeded the late Ross Prysock as sports editor of the Times papers in 1947, has done much since then to merit the special achievement citation.

The "Tapper," so called because of his popular column ("Tapping on the Sports Keg"), has been influential in obtaining many nationally known celebrities for Dapper Dan dinners.

Hall of Fame Secretary

He serves as secretary of the Maryland State Hall of Fame selection committee, and directed the Cumberland Soap Box Derby when the city was represented in the national competition.

In 1954, Kegg organized a "Beat the Yankees" club which, although it didn't achieve its end, brought national publicity to the Queen City.

Following World War II, in which Suter served in the Army Air Corps for two years, he became one of the organizers of the selection of the All-State and All-Counties high school football teams.

Played And Managed

He was affiliated with several of the pre-war baseball and softball leagues in the area, and served as an officer in the old Bi-State Baseball League. He has also played and managed in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Kegg got started in the newspaper business as a carrier, became an inserter in the mail room and then moved to the editorial department as a copy boy. He also served time as an apprentice printer before joining the editorial staff in the sports department.

He is recognized by members of the sports writing fraternity for his crisp, authoritative and comprehensive coverage of sports events on both the local and national level.

Tickets for the dinner, which begins Sunday at 6 p.m., are on sale at various agencies throughout the city. All proceeds go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

One Michigan State basketball coach had a perfect record with the Spartans. He was George E. Denham, in 1902-03, when the Spartans won all 11 games played.

New York will get the 1964 All-Star baseball game because of the World's Fair.

TO BE HONORED — J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, will receive a special achievement award from the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club at the organization's 15th annual sports celebrity dinner Sunday at St. Mary's Church Hall. Kegg has been sports editor of the Times papers since 1947, when he succeeded the late Ross Prysock.

Marshall Beaten By Morehead State

MOREHEAD, Ky. (UPI) — Morehead's rampaging Eagles rebounded consistently Thursday night to hand Marshall University an 80-66 defeat.

The Eagles jumped to an early six-point lead, retained it by halftime, and held on for the rest of the game. Late in the second period Morehead led 65-47 for the Eagles' greatest lead of the night.

Marshall coach Jule Rivlin, who is resigning this spring, threw in a total of 15 players in an attempt to halt the Morehead drive.

Eagle guards Roy Ware and Harold Sergeant both had a good night, as Ware piled up 28 points for game honors and Sergeant trailed with 20.

Marshall forward-center Bruce Belcher was high for the West Virginians with 12.

The victory gives Morehead a 5-1 season record while Marshall is 2-8.

Number One Bearcats Win 30th Straight

North Texas State Is Beaten, 75-58

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ron Bonham pumped in 29 points Thursday night to pave the nation's top-ranking Cincinnati Bearcats to their 12th consecutive victory — 75-58 over North Texas State.

It was Cincinnati's second Missouri Valley Conference victory and their 30th victory in a row stretching back into last season.

The Bearcats had a battle on their hands for the first 15 minutes but then Bonham and George Wilson started connecting to put Cincinnati in front 41-31 at halftime and the outcome was never in doubt.

North Texas' chances of spoiling the Bearcasts undefeated record were hurt considerably when Carl Miller fouled out early in the second-half and John Savage went out by the same route with 9:18 left to play. Savage scored 22 points before bowing out and shared high-point honors for the losers at that figure with David Burns.

Wilson and Tom Thacker kept Cincinnati in command of both backboards and they also contributed 16 points apiece to the Cincinnati total.

The losing Eagles actually outscored Cincinnati from the floor with 23 field goals to the Bearcats 22 but Cincinnati made the most of its free throw attempts, sinking 31 out of 34, including a perfect 13 in a row by Bonham.

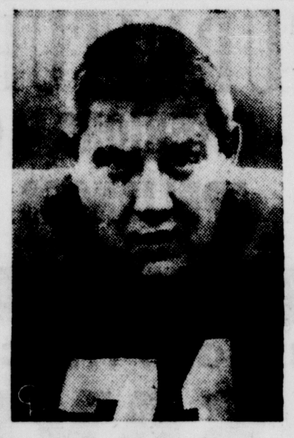
Eddie Mathews Signs 12th Contract With Milwaukee

Brave Slugger Reported To Get About Same Pay



LION ENRAGED — According to reports out of Detroit, Alex Karras, star defensive tackle for the Lions, has threatened to quit pro football if the club management forces him to give up joint ownership of Detroit tavern.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Balding Eddie Mathews, baseball's best home run hitting third baseman who is destined to become one of the game's long ball greats, signed a 1963 contract Thursday to play his 12th season for the Milwaukee Braves.

The 31-year-old Mathews was reported to have agreed to a salary of about $50,000. This is just about the same as his 1962 pay even though the past year was one of his poorest on the playing field.

"Things are going to be different in 1963," said Mathews, who became the ninth Brave to sign. "I'm going to spring training early for a good start."

Mathews, who was hampered by a shoulder injury the past year, watched his home run production fall off to 29 in 1962, while his batting average slipped to .265. It was the first time since his rookie year in 1952 that he failed to hit 30 or more homers in a season. He leads the league for number of years in a row that he has hit 30 or more homers.

Mathews has been a third base fixture with the Braves since the team moved to Milwaukee in 1953, and is one of only four Braves still remaining from the club that left Boston.

The solidly built infielder has twice led the National League in home runs — in 1953 with 47 and again in 1959 with 46. Mathews also ranks eighth among baseball's all-time home run hitters with a total of 399. He is second only to Stan Musial among active National League players. Musial has 463.

Jockeys Escape Serious Injury

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Three jockeys were thrown from their mounts in spectacular chain-reaction spills in Thursday's first race at Santa Anita, but all three escaped serious injury.

One rider—Dale Long—was taken from the track to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for x-rays after he complained of pain in the lower back. Track hospital attendants said Long apparently was not hurt seriously.

Neither Rudy Campas nor Angel Valenzuela, also involved, required hospitalization.

Willie Shoemaker and Ismael Valenzuela were among riders who managed to stay aboard their horses in the frenzied traffic jam which started when Leaping Start suddenly bore out around the far turn.

Montreal Streak Snapped By Detroit

MONTREAL (UPI) — Gordie Howe, shut out in six earlier games against Montreal, scored twice Thursday night to power the Detroit Red Wings to a 3-2 victory over the Canadiens and end Montreal's unbeaten string at 10 games.

Substitute goalie Dennis Riggin, forced into action when Terry Sawchuk was injured in the second period, was outstanding in the Detroit cage as he turned back 11 Canadien shots in the final period. The defeat prevented Montreal from climbing into second place in the National Hockey League and left the Canadiens three points behind the pacesetting Chicago Black Hawks.

Howe registered his second goal at 6:42 of the third period to put Detroit ahead 3-2 and a stout Wing defense and Riggin's goaltending preserved the victory.

The Canadiens, who missed numerous chances to earn a tie in the final period, pulled goalie Jacques Plante with 31 seconds to play. But Riggin made two fine saves on Ralph Backstrom from close in and defenseman Jean Gauthier from the point.

Fanfani To Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has invited Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy to visit Washington Jan. 16-17, the White House announced Thursday.

DEER, DEER AND DEAR—Many male hunters dream about getting one deer during the season but this Nevada woman, Mrs. Mark Swain of Las Vegas, bagged two of them, on successive days, one in Utah and the other in Nevada. She donated both to David Martin, a Cub Scout official seen with her, for a cookout for his boys.

Infielder Logan Signs With Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Johnny Logan, a veteran utility infielder who was used sparingly last season but batted an even .300, Thursday became the fourth Pittsburgh Pirate signed for the 1963 campaign.

Logan will be starting his third year with the Pirates, having been obtained from the Milwaukee Braves in 1961 in a trade for outfielder Gino Cimoli.

Appearing in 44 games in 1962, Logan went to bat 80 times and collected 24 hits. He was used at various times as a third baseman, shortstop and second baseman.

Earlier in the day, the Pirate front office accounted receipt of a signed contract from right-handed pitcher Don Cardwell who came here in a four-player trade with the St. Louis Cardinals late last year.

Cardwell, 27, pitched for the Chicago Cubs in 1962 and had a 7-16 record. At the end of the season he was traded to the Cardinals and came here in a trade that involved former Pirate shortstop Dick Groat. He has been in the National League since 1957 when he was with the Philadelphia Phillies.

In a separate announcement, the Pirates said they would take 11 minor league players to their main spring training camp which opens next month at Fort Myers, Fla.

Nine of the 11 are pitchers. Among the group will be first baseman Frank (Pancho) Herrera who had a brief fling as a regular with the Phils two seasons ago. He was obtained in a recent swap that sent third baseman Don Hoak to the Phillies.

St. Patrick's Scores 6th Win In CY League

Irishmen Defeat St. Peter's, 38-31

Coach Dick Boyle's unbeaten St. Patrick's cagers chalked up their sixth consecutive Catholic Youth League win last night by defeating St. Peter's of Westernport, 38-31.

In the other two games of yesterday's tripleheader at the SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium, St. Mary's edged St. Michael's, 34-33, and SS. Peter and Paul trimmed Mt. Savage St. Patrick's, 44-31.

A four-way tie for second place was reduced to a double deadlock. SS. Peter and Paul and St. Mary's now share the runnerup position with 4-2 marks, while St. Michael's and St. Peter's are 3-3.

Ricky Scaletta tossed in 16 points in pacing the Irishmen to their victory. Terry Davis came through with 14 for the Westernport cagers.

Out-goaled 12-9, St. Mary's Gaels hit on 16 of 31 foul tries to St. Michael's 9-18 in copping the one-point decision. The Frostburg crew outscored St. Mary's 15-6 in the final period but couldn't catch up.

Ed Hollen, St. Mary's center, pumped in 17 points and along with John Rowan took care of the board work. Regis Arnold collected 18 for the losers.

Pat McLean and Teddy Malloy accounted for 30 of the Flying Dutchman's points, while Mt. Savage's Barth took game scoring honors with 18.

In the absence of coach Bob Mattingly, who is suffering from a sinus infection, the SS. Peter and Paul cagers were handled by Rev. Father John Lapinsky. It was the first time that Mattingly had missed a game in 12 years.

Dapper Dans Will Present Kegg With Special Achievement Award

Club Will Honor Sports Editor Of Times At Dinner

A man who has contributed greatly to the success of the past 14 Dapper Dan Club sports celebrity dinners will be honored by the organization at its 15th annual affair Sunday at St. Mary's Church Hall.

J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, will receive the club's special achievement award.

Kegg, who succeeded the late Ross Prysock as sports editor of the Times papers in 1947, has done much since then to merit the special achievement citation.

The "Tapper," so called because of his popular column ("Tapping on the Sports Keg"), has been influential in obtaining many nationally known celebrities for Dapper Dan dinners.

Hall of Fame Secretary

He serves as secretary of the Maryland State Hall of Fame selection committee, and directed the Cumberland Soap Box Derby when the city was represented in the national competition.

In 1954, Kegg organized a "Beat the Yankees" club which, although it didn't achieve its end, brought national publicity to the Queen City.

Following World War II, in which Suter served in the Army Air Corps for two years, he became one of the organizers of the selection of the All-State and All-Counties high school football teams.

Played And Managed

He was affiliated with several of the pre-war baseball and softball leagues in the area, and served as an officer in the old Bi-State Baseball League. He has also played and managed in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Kegg got started in the newspaper business as a carrier, became an inserter in the mail room and then moved to the editorial department as a copy boy. He also served time as an apprentice printer before joining the editorial staff in the sports department.

He is recognized by members of the sports writing fraternity for his crisp, authoritative and comprehensive coverage of sports events on both the local and national level.

Tickets for the dinner, which begins Sunday at 6 p.m., are on sale at various agencies throughout the city. All proceeds go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

One Michigan State basketball coach had a perfect record with the Spartans. He was George E. Denham, in 1902-03, when the Spartans won all 11 games played.

New York will get the 1964 All-Star baseball game because of the World's Fair.

TO BE HONORED — J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, will receive a special achievement award from the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club at the organization's 15th annual sports celebrity dinner Sunday at St. Mary's Church Hall. Kegg has been sports editor of the Times papers since 1947, when he succeeded the late Ross Prysock.

Marshall coach Jule Rivlin, who is resigning this spring, threw in a total of 15 players in an attempt to halt the Morehead drive.

Eagle guards Roy Ware and Harold Sergeant both had a good night, as Ware piled up 28 points for game honors and Sergeant trailed with 20.

Marshall forward-center Bruce Belcher was high for the West Virginians with 12.

The victory gives Morehead a 5-1 season record while Marshall is 2-8.

North Texas State Is Beaten, 75-58

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ron Bonham pumped in 29 points Thursday night to pave the nation's top-ranking Cincinnati Bearcats to their 12th consecutive victory — 75-58 over North Texas State.

It was Cincinnati's second Missouri Valley Conference victory and their 30th victory in a row stretching back into last season.

The Bearcats had a battle on their hands for the first 15 minutes but then Bonham and George Wilson started connecting to put Cincinnati in front 41-31 at halftime and the outcome was never in doubt.

Plans For Heavyweight Title Rematch In Miami Temporarily Halted

Liston Demands Fight Be Staged In Baltimore

Patterson May Turn Matter Over To His Attorneys

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston called off his Maimi Beach return title fight with Floyd Patterson Thursday and demanded that it be staged at Baltimore in May.

President Tom Bolan of Championship Sports, Inc. (CSI) immediately announced that plans for the Miami Beach fight on April 4 were being halted—"temporarily at least."

Patterson announced at his training camp in Highland Mills, N.Y.: "I have no intention of fighting in Baltimore. Unless Liston can show some valid reason for breaking his return-bout contract and refusing to fight at Miami Beach, I'll be forced to turn the matter over to my attorneys."

Could Cost Liston

Attorney Julius November, who is Patterson's advisor, said:

"If Liston fails to fight Patterson at Miami Beach on April 4, without a valid reason, we can pick up his forfeit of $207,000. And if Liston attempts to fight any one else before he defends against Patterson—this year or any time, it could cost him a million dollars in penalties."

Under terms of the return-bout contract signed before the first Sonny-Floyd fight at Chicago's Comiskey Park on Sept. 25, Patterson has the right to pick the site, date and promoter of the return title bout.

Liston, discussing the situation in a Chicago restaurant, said:

"Nobody ever told me anything about the fight. I don't like that. But anyway, Championship Sports broke my return-bout contract because they didn't pay me any of my money within 24 hours after the fight—like the contract says. And now, although the contract is busted, they're still holding $207,000 of my money. And I definitely will not fight for Championship Sports."

Government Has Money

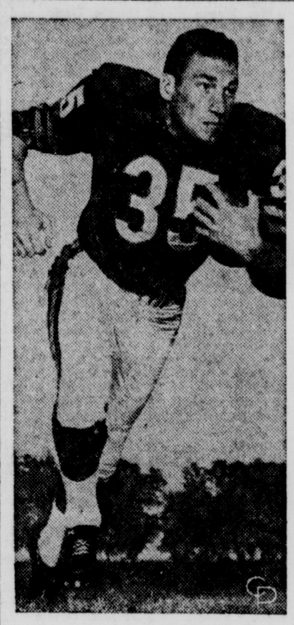
Sonny said the government is actually holding his $207,000 because of the Internal Revenue Service tax suit against Championship Sports but the government now is ready to release the money to Sonny. However, Championship Sports will not permit the release.

"That's right," admitted President Bolan of CSI, "We are letting the government hold that $207,000—in safe escrow — until Sonny fulfills his return-bout contract or loses his forfeit."

2 OF 221 POINTS—Barney Cable (21) of the St. Louis Hawks scores despite efforts of the Detroit Pistons' Darrall Imhoff in Madison Square Garden. Hawks outscored the Pistons 121-100.

Unbeaten Frostburg State Hosts D.C. Quint Tonight

Bobcats After 8th Win Of Season, 12th Straight At Home



TOOK LIE TESTS—Rick Casares, 31-year-old fullback of the Chicago Bears, revealed in Chicago he had taken and passed two lie tests at the request of coach George Halas and Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL in an investigation of possible point-shaving. Casares admitted, investigators said, that he had not obeyed an order from the late commissioner, Bert Bell, to stop seeing a Chicago gambler known as "Zaza." Halas said that he was convinced that not a single one of the Bears has ever tried to shave points or otherwise fix a football game.

District of Columbia Teachers College visits Frostburg tonight and will be attempting to break two victory strings credited to Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's Frostburg State Bobcats who are 7-0 this season and have racked up 11 consecutive triumphs on the home court over two seasons.

The Bobcats have knocked off Baltimore U., Potomac State twice, Bowie State, Shenandoah, Southeastern U., and Coppin State this season. Three of the wins were scored at home.

Frostburg's eight straight collegiate victims at home last season were Hagerstown J. C., Shenandoah, Altoona Campus, D. C. Teachers, Coppin State, Salem, Potomac State and Bowie State.

Tonight's game will be the last at home until January 19 when the Bobcats do battle with Wheeling College.

Royals Defeat Boston Celtics

'Big O' Tallies 41 To Pace Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Oscar Robertson scored 41 points Thursday night to lead the Cincinnati Royals to their first home court victory over the Boston Celtics in two years 130-121 in a National Basketball Association game.

The last time the Royals beat Boston here was Jan. 30, 1961.

Cincinnati jumped to an 11-point lead in the first quarter, 34-23, with Robertson, Jack Twyman and Bob Boozer scoring all but six of the Royals' points.

Boston tied the score three times in a third quarter comeback and pulled ahead 100-98 on the first bucket of the final period.

Dick Tiger Begins Training For Bout With Gene Fullmer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Middleweight champion Dick Tiger arrived Thursday to begin training for his title rematch with Gene Fullmer after a 10-week vacation in his native Nigeria.

Tiger declined to predict a knockout of Fullmer when they meet on Feb. 23 in Las Vegas, Nev.

"I'll train for 15 rounds," Tiger said. "If I'm lucky to knock him out, that will be all to the good. I'm in good shape. I've been doing some road work and skipping rope in Nigeria."

He said he plans to fight the same way he did when he dethroned Fullmer in a bloody, 15-round bout on Oct. 23.

Asked if he thought Fullmer was as good a fighter after the "lumping" he took at the hands of Tiger, the Nigerian boxer smiled and said "I took a beating too."

Rogers Hornsby Is Laid To Rest

Baseball Great Buried In Texas

HORNSBY BEND, Tex. (UPI) — Roger Hornsby, baseball's "Rajah" and its greatest right-handed hitter, was buried Thursday in this tiny ghost town amid a clump of oak and cedar trees in a ceremony that drew some of baseball's top names.

The final resting place of the 66-year-old outspoken baseball immortal who managed five major league teams was a cemetery near a monument that marked the site of an Indian raid in 1833, a year after the community was settled by his ancestor, Ruben Hornsby.

A large group of former baseball associates attended the services. They included Milwaukee's Manager Bobby Bragan and St. Louis Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane.

Funeral services were conducted in Austin, nine miles north of Hornsby Bend on the winding Colorado River.

Hornsby, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, died last Saturday in Chicago of complications arising from a heart condition.

Hornsby led the National League in hitting for six seasons. He posted a lifetime batting average of .359 and his .424 batting average in 1924 stands as the highest in modern major league baseball history.

In its long history of football, the University of Arkansas has had only one undefeated season, that of 1909, when Hugo Bezdek was the coach.

There were only four deaths in boxing, two in professional and two in amateur, in 1962, but 32 died from football injuries and 43 in racing.

Arizona Hopes To Spawn A Fine Eating Game Fish

By MURRAY SINCLAIR
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A tropical fish sometimes seen in amateur collectors' aquariums is going to be used to spawn a new game fish in Arizona.

If the hybrid offspring provides sportsmen with as much fun as expected, it could spread to other parts of the southwest where summer waters are warm.

The plan won't help anglers in the north and east. This tropical fish, and their offspring, will die in waters below 50 degrees.

Import Wild Tilapia

W. J. McConnell of the Wildlife Research Unit of the University of Arizona believes he has received the only wild Tilapia of Zanzibar to come to the United States.

Fifty of the Zanzibar species, native to the Indian Ocean, were shipped to McConnell by jet by Dr. Gerald Prowse, director of the Tropical Fish Reserve Station in Malacca, Maylaya.

The idea is to mate the Zanzibar Tilapia with the domestic strain of Mozambique Tilapia. These are already established in Oklahoma and Alabama.

The resulting offspring offer some fascinating possibilities for fisherman.

All are males. That's good because they grow bigger and faster.

They won't rise to a fly, but they aren't particular what kind of bait is offered. Dough or corn will do if worms aren't available.

When hooked, they put up a satisfactory fight. Not as good as bass, perhaps, but acceptable.

And when it comes to eating, they are better than bluegill and a lot of other American fish. What's more, they are lots easier to clean.

NEW GAME FISH: Famale Tilapia mossabica, African tropical fish, will be used to produce a hybrid Tilapia which may be stocked in Arizona ponds next spring. Famales produce some 500 eegs each.

American fish are strictly carnivorous. It is extremely difficult to provide them with a food supply, particularly in small ponds.

The Tilapia is a vegetarian.

Domestic strains of Tilapia are now being produced in fisheries throughout the Orient and Africa as a food for native inhabitants. The United Nations' Food and Agricultural Organization is promoting their producting, especially in areas where protein diets are deficient.

Growth Is Fast

The Tilapia remains relatively small in cramped captive quarters. But in a natural pond it can grow to six or seven inches in three months. It takes a green sunfish or bluegill three years.

McConnell says the cross being tested grows faster because of hybrid vigor. In a six-month growing period it will reach an average of a half to three quarters of a pound in Arizona lakes.

In the Tucson vicinity the Tilapia hybrid would be stocked in early April and would die in December.

McConnell plans to stock five private ponds in the Tucson region next spring. With approval of the Arizona Game and Fish Department, he will also stock public ponds at lower elevations.

Paul Brown Claims He's VP In Charge Of Nothing

Ousted Cleveland Coach Ends Silence, Expresses Shock

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm on the shelf now . . . a vice preisdent in charge of I-don't-know-what."

So said Paul Brown Thursday, ending his silence after the startling announcement that he had been removed as head coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns.

Arthur B. Modell, 39-year-old club president who knocked the 54-year-old leader of the Browns out of the coaching picture for the first time since 1930, said he hoped Brown would continue to serve the Cleveland club.

Modell said Wednesday that Brown would remain with the club he founded in 1946 as a vice president and would take on other duties, not specified. Brown had agreed to serve out the six years remaining on his contract at the same pay, believed to be in excess of $50,000 a year, and would retain his small stock share in the club, Modell said.

Fans Speculate

As fans continued to talk about the sudden removal and speculate about a successor to the "master," proud Paul Brown told interviewers:

"I know this happens to other people, but I never thought of it in my own regard. It's all part of the game, though. . .Art Modell had a legal right to do what he did. It did come as a shock and surprise to me, however."

Brown said he had no plans now other than to fulfill his contractual obligations to the club.

"I'm under contract for six more years," Brown said. "I can' take another job without breaching the contract. . .My life is coaching—this has been my life, next to my family."

Brown Explains Split

Asked about reports of friction between him and Modell, Brown did not mention any specific incidents, but said the split came because the president wanted to "take a more active part in the actual team aspects formerly assigned to me as part of my contract."

Brown said Modell told him of the decision Monday afternoon. The two then met with lawyers Wednesday morning to work out details.

Modell, who bought the club for $4 million in March, 1961, and immediately began moving into the areas Brown once ruled with an iron hand, said he expected to name a successor in 10 days. The owner indicated the jobs of coach and general manager would be handled by two men.

Plans For Heavyweight Title Rematch In Miami Temporarily Halted

Liston Demands Fight Be Staged In Baltimore

Patterson May Turn Matter Over To His Attorneys

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston called off his Maimi Beach return title fight with Floyd Patterson Thursday and demanded that it be staged at Baltimore in May.

President Tom Bolan of Championship Sports, Inc. (CSI) immediately announced that plans for the Miami Beach fight on April 4 were being halted—"temporarily at least."

Patterson announced at his training camp in Highland Mills, N.Y.: "I have no intention of fighting in Baltimore. Unless Liston can show some valid reason for breaking his return-bout contract and refusing to fight at Miami Beach, I'll be forced to turn the matter over to my attorneys."

Could Cost Liston

Attorney Julius November, who is Patterson's advisor, said:

"If Liston fails to fight Patterson at Miami Beach on April 4, without a valid reason, we can pick up his forfeit of $207,000. And if Liston attempts to fight any one else before he defends against Patterson—this year or any time, it could cost him a million dollars in penalties."

Under terms of the return-bout contract signed before the first Sonny-Floyd fight at Chicago's Comiskey Park on Sept. 25, Patterson has the right to pick the site, date and promoter of the return title bout.

Liston, discussing the situation in a Chicago restaurant, said:

"Nobody ever told me anything about the fight. I don't like that. But anyway, Championship Sports broke my return-bout contract because they didn't pay me any of my money within 24 hours after the fight—like the contract says. And now, although the contract is busted, they're still holding $207,000 of my money. And I definitely will not fight for Championship Sports."

Government Has Money

Sonny said the government is actually holding his $207,000 because of the Internal Revenue Service tax suit against Championship Sports but the government now is ready to release the money to Sonny. However, Championship Sports will not permit the release.

"That's right," admitted President Bolan of CSI, "We are letting the government hold that $207,000—in safe escrow — until Sonny fulfills his return-bout contract or loses his forfeit."

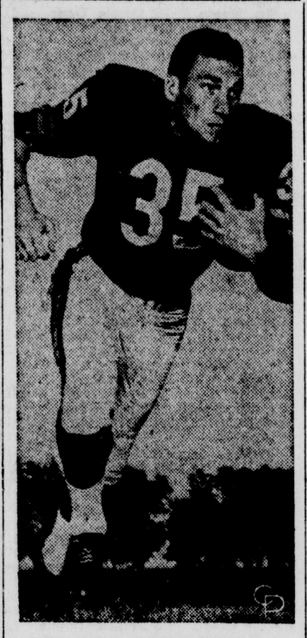
Bobcats After 8th Win Of Season, 12th Straight At Home



TOOK LIE TESTS—Rick Casares, 31-year-old fullback of the Chicago Bears, revealed in Chicago he had taken and passed two lie tests at the request of coach George Halas and Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL in an investigation of possible point-shaving. Casares admitted, investigators said, that he had not obeyed an order from the late commissioner, Bert Bell, to stop seeing a Chicago gambler known as "Zaza." Halas said that he was convinced that not a single one of the Bears has ever tried to shave points or otherwise fix a football game.

District of Columbia Teachers College visits Frostburg tonight and will be attempting to break two victory strings credited to Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's Frostburg State Bobcats who are 7-0 this season and have racked up 11 consecutive triumphs on the home court over two seasons.

The Bobcats have knocked off Baltimore U., Potomac State twice, Bowie State, Shenandoah, Southeastern U., and Coppin State this season. Three of the wins were scored at home.

Frostburg's eight straight collegiate victims at home last season were Hagerstown J. C., Shenandoah, Altoona Campus, D. C. Teachers, Coppin State, Salem, Potomac State and Bowie State.

Tonight's game will be the last at home until January 19 when the Bobcats do battle with Wheeling College.

Potomac State's Catamounts (4-2) open a two-day road trip tonight at Takoma Park, Md., where Montgomery Junior College will be met. Saturday night Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's quint plays at Catonsville Junior College. Both are Tri-State Junior College Conference contests.

The idea is to mate the Zanzibar Tilapia with the domestic strain of Mozambique Tilapia. These are already established in Oklahoma and Alabama.

The resulting offspring offer some fascinating possibilities for fisherman.

All are males. That's good because they grow bigger and faster.

They won't rise to a fly, but they aren't particular what kind of bait is offered. Dough or corn will do if worms aren't available.

When hooked, they put up a satisfactory fight. Not as good as bass, perhaps, but acceptable.

And when it comes to eating, they are better than bluegill and a lot of other American fish. What's more, they are lots easier to clean.

American fish are strictly carnivorous. It is extremely difficult to provide them with a food supply, particularly in small ponds.

The Tilapia is a vegetarian.

Domestic strains of Tilapia are now being produced in fisheries throughout the Orient and Africa as a food for native inhabitants. The United Nations' Food and Agricultural Organization is promoting their producting, especially in areas where protein diets are deficient.

Growth Is Fast

The Tilapia remains relatively small in cramped captive quarters. But in a natural pond it can grow to six or seven inches in three months. It takes a green sunfish or bluegill three years.

McConnell says the cross being tested grows faster because of hybrid vigor. In a six-month growing period it will reach an average of a half to three quarters of a pound in Arizona lakes.

In the Tucson vicinity the Tilapia hybrid would be stocked in early April and would die in December.

McConnell plans to stock five private ponds in the Tucson region next spring. With approval of the Arizona Game and Fish Department, he will also stock public ponds at lower elevations.

NEW GAME FISH: Famale Tilapia mossabica, African tropical fish, will be used to produce a hybrid Tilapia which may be stocked in Arizona ponds next spring. Famales produce some 500 eegs each.

Paul Brown Claims He's VP In Charge Of Nothing

Ousted Cleveland Coach Ends Silence, Expresses Shock

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm on the shelf now . . . a vice preisdent in charge of I-don't-know-what."

So said Paul Brown Thursday, ending his silence after the startling announcement that he had been removed as head coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns.

Arthur B. Modell, 39-year-old club president who knocked the 54-year-old leader of the Browns out of the coaching picture for the first time since 1930, said he hoped Brown would continue to serve the Cleveland club.

Modell said Wednesday that Brown would remain with the club he founded in 1946 as a vice president and would take on other duties, not specified. Brown had agreed to serve out the six years remaining on his contract at the same pay, believed to be in excess of $50,000 a year, and would retain his small stock share in the club, Modell said.

Fans Speculate

As fans continued to talk about the sudden removal and speculate about a successor to the "master," proud Paul Brown told interviewers:

"I know this happens to other people, but I never thought of it in my own regard. It's all part of the game, though. . .Art Modell had a legal right to do what he did. It did come as a shock and surprise to me, however."

Brown said he had no plans now other than to fulfill his contractual obligations to the club.

"I'm under contract for six more years," Brown said. "I can' take another job without breaching the contract. . .My life is coaching—this has been my life, next to my family."

Brown Explains Split

Asked about reports of friction between him and Modell, Brown did not mention any specific incidents, but said the split came because the president wanted to "take a more active part in the actual team aspects formerly assigned to me as part of my contract."

Brown said Modell told him of the decision Monday afternoon. The two then met with lawyers Wednesday morning to work out details.

Modell, who bought the club for $4 million in March, 1961, and immediately began moving into the areas Brown once ruled with an iron hand, said he expected to name a successor in 10 days. The owner indicated the jobs of coach and general manager would be handled by two men.

Texans Could Have Drafted Name Player But They Went For Size

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Texans, champions of the American Football League, surprised everybody by making their No. 1 draft choice a fellow you never heard much about.

When scout Don Klosterman saw 317-pound Ernie Ladd at San Diego he decided he wasn't going to be caught unawares in the future. Pro football clubs were coming up with unknowns of mastodon proportions.

So Klosterman started what he terms his "monster list." He sought every player in the country who weighed 275 pounds or more, just to be on the safe side.

The guy didn't have to be a big star—just big.

The first fellow he ran across was Junious Buchanan, a tackle at Grambling College in Louisiana. Buchanan weighed 277 pounds and was 6-foot-7.

It so happened that Buchanan also was a track man and in his own bailiwick was considered quite a football prospect. Here was a fellow who ran 100 yards in 10.4, 220 yards in 22.5, 440 yards in 49.2 and 40-yards in less than five seconds.

Buchanan had been some shakes in high school at Birmingham, Ala. But it was in basketball at first. He averaged close to 20 points playing the post. He was a junior before he thought about playing football.

Even then it was because he had a friend on the football team who wanted company. "This guy was just a little on the chicken side when it came to getting dark," relates Buchanan. "The football team always practiced until after dark and he didn't like to walk home by himself. So he finally talked me into playing football so he'd have somebody to walk home with."

Another thing: Junious thought that playing football might help him stay in condition for basketball.

And although Junious insisted that he played football mostly just to keep in trim for basketball, he gained all-state recognition in both sports.

Grambling and Alabama State were after the boy who now weighed 210 and was 6-fet-5.

"Alabama State wanted me awful bad," relates Buchanan, "but Grambling had a bigger name and besides they really had the best offer."

By the time he had gotten in some football at Grambling he had soared up to 285. He said it wasn't a body-building program or anything like that. "The only program I had was at the table," he says.

A typical breakfast consists of five eggs, a pound of bacon, half a loaf of toast, a quart of milk and a load of fruit juices.

But he watches his calories. "I don't like to get up there too close to 300," he says. "It cuts down on my speed. I like to play at about 270 to 275. I just feel better.

Dallas managed to sack up Buchanan by getting the No. 1 draft choice of last place Oakland via a trade.

As soon as Dallas took Buchanan in the draft the Texans signed him to a contract. The National Football League didn't hold its draft until two days later so the Texans had clear sailing.

Life Can Be Pitiful As Well As Beautiful For Pro Golfers

Three Tourists Had 11 On Single Hole; Ace Is Washed Out

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Life can be pitiful — as well as beautiful—for pro golfers who follow the sun on the annual PGA tour.

In 1962, Arnold Palmer set an all-time money record of $81,448.33, thirty-two players won $20,000 or more and 56 bagged more than $10,000. But the annual report of the PGA's traveling historian, Doc Giffen, notes these things also happened:

Three pro tourists posted a hacker's nightmare — 11 strokes on a single hole. Hot shot Bill Collins got his 11 at the ninth hole of the Los Angeles Open last year, veteran Jimmy Demaret had one on the third hole in the Doral Open and Bill Dunk went the distance on the 17th in the Texas Open at San Antonio.

Eric Brown of Scotland had a 90 in the second round of the Bing Crosby National.

Art Wall missed an 18-inch putt on the final hole of the Insurance City Open, forcing him into a tie playoff. He lost in extra holes.

Bayer Misses Putt

George Bayer missed a three-footer on the final green in the Denver Open and also missed a tie for first.

Britain's Guy Wolstenholme travelled halfway around the world to play the 1962 U.S. winter tour, then fell and cracked his elbow at Pebble Beach after playing only two rounds of his first tour tournament.

John Ruedi had a first round 65 and a hole in one washed out in the Sahara Invitational although it didn't rain a drop on the course he was playing. A cloudburst hit the other course being used for the championship and officials decided to cancel all first round scores.

George Bayer and Jerry Steelsmith couldn't win the Indianapolis "500" Festival with their 265's but Doug Ford and Joe Campbell tied for first at 286 in the Crosby Tournament, Ford winning the playoff.

Fifteen players who tied for first after 72 holes wound up either second or third after losing playoffs.

Hit With Penalty

Dan Massengale was clipped with a two-stroke penalty in the second round of the Denver Open when a caddy failed to pull a flagstick on a chip in shot. Yep, Don finished exactly two shots out of a first place tie.

On the brighter side:

Dick Mayer collected $50,000 for a hole in one at Palm Springs; Stan Leonard, Jerry Barber and Butch Baird won new cars for aces elsewhere.

Paul Bondeson hit a 324-yard tee shot in the Cajun Classic driving contest, longest measured blast of the year.

Buster Cupit required only 20 putts in the final round of the Waco Turner Open, one over the PGA record.

Arnold Palmer won at Phoenix by 12 shots, largest margin since 1948 when Bobby Locke won by 16 at Chicago.

John Barnum became the oldest winner of a PGA-sponsored tournament. He was 51 years, one month and five days old when he pocketed the prize in the Cajun Classic.

Youngest winner on the tour? That was the slugging rookie of the year—Jack Nicklaus—who won the U.S. Open at the tender age of 22 years, four months and 27 days.

Casper Leads San Diego Open

Posts 64 Score In First Round

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Billy Casper Jr., rapped in seven birdies for a 7-under-par 64 Thursday to lead the way through rain and cold in the first round of the $25,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

Playing almost flawless golf before a brave but small band of his hometown admirers, the 31-year-old Casper toured the Stardust Country Club's 6,800-yard, par 35-36—71 course in brilliant 33-31 fashion and said later:

"I dam' near birdied every hole."

They were PGA champion Gary Player from South Africa with 32-33, veteran Stan Leonard of Canada, 30-35, and Tony Lema of California, the hottest player on the fall tour, with 31-34.

Tied at 66 were veterans Fred Hawkins and Julius Boros and younger Jacky Cupit.

Gene Littler, another of San San Diego's former National Open champions, who has been playing erratically this winter, had a 36-93—75, and the winner of the 1962 San Diego Open, Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif., was in worse shape with 37-39—76.

Shula Formally Signs Colt Pact

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Don Shula, the Baltimore Colts' new head coach, formally signed a two-year contract at an undisclosed salary Thursday.

Hired from the Detroit Lions defensive coaching staff, Shula, who once played with the Colts, replaces nine-year veteran Weeb Ewbank. The 55-year-old Ewbank was fired Tuesday in a move which, according to club owner Carroll Rosenbloom, "will help us win."

Schula, 33, said Thursday "I'm going to try to win as many as possible," refusing comment on the Colts' 7-7 record in the National Football League last season.

Shepherd Whips Davis And Elkins

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Three Shepherd players hit for 71 points to pace the Rams to a 113-91 win over Davis & Elkins here Wednesday night.

Bill Thompson and Roscoe Dean each had 25 points and Gary Phalen hit for 21. Dave Kirk led D&E with 19 markers while Frank Holsclaw had 18 and Jim Cook 16.

Shepherd took the lead for good at 14-12 and held a 51-42 halftime advantage.

Shenandoah Downs Opens Meet Today

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (UPI) Shenandoah Downs is scheduled to open its first winter racing meet Friday.

Winter racing has been held at Charles Town Track, across the highway from Shenandoah Downs, for 30 years.

The Downs' $4 million plant opened four years ago and until now has conducted only night racing, all in the spring, summer or fall.

Horses that have been racing in the winter meet at the older track will only have to be moved across the road for the 20-day meeting ending Feb. 2 at Shenandoah.

2nd Ranked Loyola Raps W. Michigan

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Second-ranked Loyola of Chicago exploded in the second half on Thursday night and rolled to an easy 107-69 basketball triumph over Western Michigan.

The taller Ramblers outscored the Broncos 57-27 in the final 20 minutes to gain their 15th straight victory and mark the eighth time in which they scored more than 100 points this season.

Forward Jerry Harkness, who recently established a new three-season Loyola scoring record, dumped in 26 points to lead the Ramblers in scoring. Ron Miller scored 18 and Les Hunter and Johnny Egan each contributed 16 for the victors.

Manny Newsome, scored 20 points to pace the Broncos.

A request for six tickets to the All-Star baseball in Cleveland next July already has been received by the Indians. And this one came from Nampa High in Idaho, 2,300 miles away.

Parker Signs New Contract With Steelers

Buddy Will Shoot For Title In '63

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Buddy Parker, the likeable but unpredictable Texan, agreed to a new contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers Thursday and said he'll be shooting for a National Football League championship next season.

Parker, who at one time during 1962 hinted that he wouldn't return in 1963, came to terms after an informal discussion with Steelers owner Art Rooney.

Length of the new pact was not announced. Parker had been on the final year of a five-year contract last season when he guided the Steelers into second place in the Eastern Conference with a 9-5 record, the best in the team's 29-year history.

Parker's return thus ends speculation that another NFL team would undergo a coaching upheaval. Earlier this week, the Baltimore Colts replaced Weeb Ewbank with neophyte Don Shula and the Cleveland Browns fired Paul Brown.

Parker came to the Steelers prior to the opening of the 1957 campaign after abruptly quitting the Detroit Lions during pre-season training. The coaching genius, who had masterminded Detroit's three divisional titles and two NFL championships in the 1950s, quickly promised to bring Pittsburgh its long sought-title. But that goal has yet to be fulfilled.

Texans Could Have Drafted Name Player But They Went For Size

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Texans, champions of the American Football League, surprised everybody by making their No. 1 draft choice a fellow you never heard much about.

When scout Don Klosterman saw 317-pound Ernie Ladd at San Diego he decided he wasn't going to be caught unawares in the future. Pro football clubs were coming up with unknowns of mastodon proportions.

So Klosterman started what he terms his "monster list." He sought every player in the country who weighed 275 pounds or more, just to be on the safe side.

The guy didn't have to be a big star—just big.

The first fellow he ran across was Junious Buchanan, a tackle at Grambling College in Louisiana. Buchanan weighed 277 pounds and was 6-foot-7.

It so happened that Buchanan also was a track man and in his own bailiwick was considered quite a football prospect. Here was a fellow who ran 100 yards in 10.4, 220 yards in 22.5, 440 yards in 49.2 and 40-yards in less than five seconds.

Buchanan had been some shakes in high school at Birmingham, Ala. But it was in basketball at first. He averaged close to 20 points playing the post. He was a junior before he thought about playing football.

Even then it was because he had a friend on the football team who wanted company. "This guy was just a little on the chicken side when it came to getting dark," relates Buchanan. "The football team always practiced until after dark and he didn't like to walk home by himself. So he finally talked me into playing football so he'd have somebody to walk home with."

Another thing: Junious thought that playing football might help him stay in condition for basketball.

And although Junious insisted that he played football mostly just to keep in trim for basketball, he gained all-state recognition in both sports.

Grambling and Alabama State were after the boy who now weighed 210 and was 6-fet-5.

"Alabama State wanted me awful bad," relates Buchanan, "but Grambling had a bigger name and besides they really had the best offer."

By the time he had gotten in some football at Grambling he had soared up to 285. He said it wasn't a body-building program or anything like that. "The only program I had was at the table," he says.

A typical breakfast consists of five eggs, a pound of bacon, half a loaf of toast, a quart of milk and a load of fruit juices.

But he watches his calories. "I don't like to get up there too close to 300," he says. "It cuts down on my speed. I like to play at about 270 to 275. I just feel better.

Dallas managed to sack up Buchanan by getting the No. 1 draft choice of last place Oakland via a trade.

As soon as Dallas took Buchanan in the draft the Texans signed him to a contract. The National Football League didn't hold its draft until two days later so the Texans had clear sailing.

Life Can Be Pitiful As Well As Beautiful For Pro Golfers

Three Tourists Had 11 On Single Hole; Ace Is Washed Out

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Life can be pitiful — as well as beautiful—for pro golfers who follow the sun on the annual PGA tour.

In 1962, Arnold Palmer set an all-time money record of $81,448.33, thirty-two players won $20,000 or more and 56 bagged more than $10,000. But the annual report of the PGA's traveling historian, Doc Giffen, notes these things also happened:

Three pro tourists posted a hacker's nightmare — 11 strokes on a single hole. Hot shot Bill Collins got his 11 at the ninth hole of the Los Angeles Open last year, veteran Jimmy Demaret had one on the third hole in the Doral Open and Bill Dunk went the distance on the 17th in the Texas Open at San Antonio.

Eric Brown of Scotland had a 90 in the second round of the Bing Crosby National.

Art Wall missed an 18-inch putt on the final hole of the Insurance City Open, forcing him into a title playoff. He lost in extra holes.

Bayer Misses Putt

George Bayer missed a three-footer on the final green in the Denver Open and also missed a tie for first.

Britain's Guy Wolstenholme travelled halfway around the world to play the 1962 U.S. winter tour, then fell and cracked his elbow at Pebble Beach after playing only two rounds of his first tour tournament.

John Ruedi had a first round 65 and a hole in one washed out in the Sahara Invitational although it didn't rain a drop on the course he was playing. A cloudburst hit the other course being used for the championship and officials decided to cancel all first round scores.

George Bayer and Jerry Steelsmith couldn't win the Indianapolis "500" Festival with their 265's but Doug Ford and Joe Campbell tied for first at 286 in the Crosby Tournament, Ford winning the playoff.

Fifteen players who tied for first after 72 holes wound up either second or third after losing playoffs.

Hit With Penalty

Dan Massengale was clipped with a two-stroke penalty in the second round of the Denver Open when a caddy failed to pull a flagstick on a chip in shot. Yep, Don finished exactly two shots out of a first place tie.

On the brighter side:

Dick Mayer collected $50,000 for a hole in one at Palm Springs; Stan Leonard, Jerry Barber and Butch Baird won new cars for aces elsewhere.

Paul Bondeson hit a 324-yard tee shot in the Cajun Classic driving contest, longest measured blast of the year.

Buster Cupit required only 20 putts in the final round of the Waco Turner Open, one over the PGA record.

Arnold Palmer won at Phoenix by 12 shots, largest margin since 1948 when Bobby Locke won by 16 at Chicago.

John Barnum became the oldest winner of a PGA-sponsored tournament. He was 51 years, one month and five days old when he pocketed the prize in the Cajun Classic.

Youngest winner on the tour? That was the slugging rookie of the year—Jack Nicklaus—who won the U.S. Open at the tender age of 22 years, four months and 27 days.

Casper Leads San Diego Open

Posts 64 Score In First Round

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Billy Casper Jr., rapped in seven birdies for a 7-under-par 64 Thursday to lead the way through rain and cold in the first round of the $25,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

Playing almost flawless golf before a brave but small band of his hometown admirers, the 31-year-old Casper toured the Stardust Country Club's 6,800-yard, par 35-36—71 course in brilliant 33-31 fashion and said later:

"I dam' near birdied every hole."

When the firing was over in this raw, cloudy day, Casper, the 1959 U.S. Open champion, was one stroke in front of three formidable threats.

They were PGA champion Gary Player from South Africa with 32-33, veteran Stan Leonard of Canada, 30-35, and Tony Lema of California, the hottest player on the fall tour, with 31-34.

Tied at 66 were veterans Fred Hawkins and Julius Boros and younger Jacky Cupit.

Gene Littler, another of San Diego's former National Open champions, who has been playing erratically this winter, had a 36-93—75, and the winner of the 1962 San Diego Open, Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif., was in worse shape with 37-39—76.

Shula Formally Signs Colt Pact

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Don Shula, the Baltimore Colts' new head coach, formally signed a two-year contract at an undisclosed salary Thursday.

Hired from the Detroit Lions defensive coaching staff, Shula, who once played with the Colts, replaces nine-year veteran Weeb Ewbank. The 55-year-old Ewbank was fired Tuesday in a move which, according to club owner Carroll Rosenbloom, "will help us win."

Schula, 33, said Thursday "I'm going to try to win as many as possible," refusing comment on the Colts' 7-7 record in the National Football League last season.

Shepherd Whips Davis And Elkins

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Three Shepherd players hit for 71 points to pace the Rams to a 113-91 win over Davis & Elkins here Wednesday night.

Bill Thompson and Roscoe Dean each had 25 points and Gary Phalen hit for 21. Dave Kirk led D&E with 19 markers while Frank Holsclaw had 18 and Jim Cook 16.

Shepherd took the lead for good at 14-12 and held a 51-42 halftime advantage.

Shenandoah Downs Opens Meet Today

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (UPI) Shenandoah Downs is scheduled to open its first winter racing meet Friday.

Winter racing has been held at Charles Town Track, across the highway from Shenandoah Downs, for 30 years.

The Downs' $4 million plant opened four years ago and until now has conducted only night racing, all in the spring, summer or fall.

Horses that have been racing in the winter meet at the older track will only have to be moved across the road for the 20-day meeting ending Feb. 2 at Shenandoah.

2nd Ranked Loyola Raps W. Michigan

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Second-ranked Loyola of Chicago exploded in the second half on Thursday night and rolled to an easy 107-69 basketball triumph over Western Michigan.

The taller Ramblers outscored the Broncos 57-27 in the final 20 minutes to gain their 15th straight victory and mark the eighth time in which they scored more than 100 points this season.

Forward Jerry Harkness, who recently established a new three-season Loyola scoring record, dumped in 26 points to lead the Ramblers in scoring. Ron Miller scored 18 and Les Hunter and Johnny Egan each contributed 16 for the victors.

Manny Newsome, scored 20 points to pace the Broncos.

A request for six tickets to the All-Star baseball in Cleveland next July already has been received by the Indians. And this one came from Nampa High in Idaho, 2,300 miles away.

Parker Signs New Contract With Steelers

Buddy Will Shoot For Title In '63

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Buddy Parker, the likeable but unpredictable Texan, agreed to a new contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers Thursday and said he'll be shooting for a National Football League championship next season.

Parker, who at one time during 1962 hinted that he wouldn't return in 1963, came to terms after an informal discussion with Steelers owner Art Rooney.

Length of the new pact was not announced. Parker had been on the final year of a five-year contract last season when he guided the Steelers into second place in the Eastern Conference with a 9-5 record, the best in the team's 29-year history.

Parker's return thus ends speculation that another NFL team would undergo a coaching upheaval. Earlier this week, the Baltimore Colts replaced Weeb Ewbank with neophyte Don Shula and the Cleveland Browns fired Paul Brown.

Parker came to the Steelers prior to the opening of the 1957 campaign after abruptly quitting the Detroit Lions during pre-season training. The coaching genius, who had masterminded Detroit's three divisional titles and two NFL championships in the 1950s, quickly promised to bring Pittsburgh its long sought-title. But that goal has yet to be fulfilled.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK
The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 227 John O'Brien of Greensburg, Pa., was a full-fledged operator for U.S. Military Telegraph when only 13.

John had picked up telegraphy at 11 from his older brother, Richard, a Pennsylvania R.R. station agent. Dick joined the Army in 1861, when the U. S. instituted the world's first military telegraph system, and John was given Dick's job with the railroad at Greensburg. He wanted to follow Dick into the Army, too, applied for service without revealing his age, and in 1862 received a call to Fortress Monroe.

John was enrolled despite his youth after demonstrating his competence. He came to high official notice almost immediately. John was gaily whistling "Dixie" when confronted in the telegraph room at Maj. Gen. John E. Wool's headquarters by officers escorting a tall, bearded man in a high hat. One of the group indicated his shock at the boy's favoring a Rebel air.

The tall man spoke up. "Don't worry, sonny. It's all right, 'Dixie' is one of my favorite tunes," said President Lincoln, who was making a secret visit to the fortress that was almost surrounded by Rebel territory.

Johnny was to dot-and-dash many messages between the telegraph and code room at Fortress Monroe and the president at Washington.

Accounts of John O'Brien and other young telegraphers who served under fire in the Civil War are chronicled by Alvin F. Harlow in an interesting new book, "Brass Pounders" (pub. by Sage Books, Denver). Thos. A. Edison's revolutionary association began at 16, during the war, as railroad telegrapher.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 227 John O'Brien of Greensburg, Pa., was a full-fledged operator for U.S. Military Telegraph when only 13.

John had picked up telegraphy at 11 from his older brother, Richard, a Pennsylvania R.R. station agent. Dick joined the Army in 1861, when the U. S. instituted the world's first military telegraph system, and John was given Dick's job with the railroad at Greensburg. He wanted to follow Dick into the Army, too, applied for service without revealing his age, and in 1862 received a call to Fortress Monroe.

John was enrolled despite his youth after demonstrating his competence. He came to high official notice almost immediately. John was gaily whistling "Dixie" when confronted in the telegraph room at Maj. Gen. John E. Wool's headquarters by officers escorting a tall, bearded man in a high hat. One of the group indicated his shock at the boy's favoring a Rebel air.

The tall man spoke up. "Don't worry, sonny. It's all right, 'Dixie' is one of my favorite tunes," said President Lincoln, who was making a secret visit to the fortress that was almost surrounded by Rebel territory.

Johnny was to dot-and-dash many messages between the telegraph and code room at Fortress Monroe and the president at Washington.

Accounts of John O'Brien and other young telegraphers who served under fire in the Civil War are chronicled by Alvin F. Harlow in an interesting new book, "Brass Pounders" (pub. by Sage Books, Denver). Thos. A. Edison's revolutionary association began at 16, during the war, as railroad telegrapher.

Tawes To Issue Statement On Unit Vote Plan

Demos Delete Names Of GOP Sponsors

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Only the word of Democratic Gov. Tawes appeared to be needed Thursday for the Maryland Legislature to repeal the state's unique unit vote system of nominating major candidates.

"I do not have any comment at this time," the governor said. "I want to make it in a prepared statement so my position will be clear.

He said he may issue the statement in the next day or so.

His three top leaders in the house, the speaker, floor leader and chairman of the Ways & Means Committee, were among sponsors of the bill introduced Thursday afternoon to choose party candidates by popular vote.

House Republicans were denied an opportunity to label it a bipartisan gesture. Their names were on the bill originally, but the Democratic leadership deleted them. The score of Republican delegates voted earlier this week in caucus to seek elimination of the unit vote system.

The house Republicans did succeed in beating the administration to the punch on another major issue, equal public accommodations.

Gov. Tawes said he also will have a bill introduced as he has promised, probably late next week. It will be the same as the one which failed at a special session last year.

The GOP version is stronger in one respect that it calls for imprisonment up to six months and a fine up to $2,000 for refusal to serve anyone in a hotel or restaurant.

The administration bill would subject violators to punishment for contempt of a court order which is not as severe.

Baltimore City and Montgomery County are the only two Maryland subdivisions where there are laws prohibiting racial discrimination in public places.

Pigeon Racing Club Awards Trophies

The Allegany Racing Pigeon Club last night awarded trophies to various members of the club who won races during the past year. Seated, left to right, are J. H. Sweitzer and C. A. Smith, president of the club. Standing in the same order are Joseph Hercsuth, secretary; Galen Beeman and William Orndorff, junior member. Mrs. Smith made the ashtray-type trophies.

Examinations Set For State Scholarships

Deadline Jan. 16 To Register

The multiple Maryland scholarship examinations will be administered Saturday, February 2, at 9 a.m. at Allegany High School, according to Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mr. Rizer said students interested in taking the examinations should contact their high school guidance teachers to register for the exams. Students must register prior to Wednesday, January 16, if they plan to take the test, Mr. Rizer stressed.

The examinations will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 12:30 p.m.

Three Categories

Examinations will be given for three categories of scholarships.

The first category will be for the general state tuition scholarship of which there are seven available, one for each of the county legislators. These scholarships are for $2,000 each for four years with a maximum of $500 each year.

These scholarships may be used in all degree-granting colleges of higher education which have been approved by the State Board of Education. These schools include Allegany Community College and Frostburg State Teachers College.

In order to be eligible for these scholarships, each recipient must show a need for financial help, must be recommended by his or her high school principal and hold no other state scholarship.

The second type of examination will be for teacher education scholarships. There also are seven of these available, but these scholarships must be used in private institutions for teacher education.

$2,000 Awards

These scholarships also are for $2,000 for four years with a maximum of $500 each year. Persons who accept these must give a bond that they will teach in the public schools of Maryland for two years following graduation.

The third examination will be given for the state senatorial scholarship which carries the same financial benefits. However, at the present time it is not known what scholarships are available at the various eligible institutions.

Schools where this scholarship may be applied are Hood College, Maryland Institute of Art, Morgan State College, Peabody Institute, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College and St. Mary's Seminary Junior College.

'Y' To Begin Bus Service For Children

New Program Starts Jan. 20

Central YMCA has announced a new bus program will begin on January 20 to help youngsters from out of town take part in the YMCA's activities.

The bus also will transport youths who live in the city, but reside a long distance from the YMCA.

YMCA officials said boys and girls will be picked up at the end of a school day and taken to the "Y" where they will take part in various activities, including swimming. The youths then will be returned home or anywhere designated by the parents.

The program will consist of two 15-week periods, beginning January 20 and continuing through the first week of May. The other period will begin next fall and continue until a week before Christmas.

Boys and girls are brought to the YMCA on different days and transportation is provided one day each week under this program. However, the youths also may attend the various other functions and activities at the YMCA.

Youths must be at least nine years old and not beyond the sixth grade. They also must obtain a membership for one year.

Only 55 children will be enrolled in the program and cost for transportation for a 30-week period will be $7 per child. Parents interested in the program should contact the YMCA.

The following schedule will begin January 20:

Monday — Boys from Cresaptown, Mt. Royal and West Side schools.

Tuesday—Boys from John Humbird, Virginia Avenue, Pennsylvania Avenue and Johnson Heights schools.

Wednesday — Girls from John Humbird, Virginia Avenue, Pennsylvania Avenue and Johnson Heights schools.

Thursday—Girls from Parkside, LaVale, Ellerslie and Corriganville schools.

Friday — Boys from Parkside, LaVale, Ellerslie and Corriganville schools.

Baltimore Co. Branch Urged For University

Legislation Is Proposed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature was asked Thursday to establish a branch of the University of Maryland, both graduate and undergraduate, in Baltimore County.

It was the first of several moves which are expected at this session to have university branches established in various areas of the state.

Identical bills were introduced in the senate and house by Sen. James A. Pine and Del. Roy N. Staten, Baltimore County Democrats.

They noted that of the university's 16,886 undergraduate enrollment at College Park, approximately one-third comes from the Baltimore area. Most of these, they said, are from Baltimore County.

Observing that the university's College Park enrollment is expected to increase to 25,000 by the fall of 1967, Pine said:

"It will take at least five years to plan, finance and construct new facilities in the Baltimore metropolitan area and to delay will mean further overcrowding at the College Park campus and perhaps mean a denial of a college education to some qualified Maryland students.

"If a branch. . .were established in Baltimore County, it would not only provide the relief so necessary for the ever-increasing number of qualified students but also it would serve as a nucleus for scientific research and developmennt in this area.

"Baltimore County is blessed with a number of science-based industries which are currently engaged in highly specialized research and development work and a graduate branch of the university would undoubtedly be of great assistance to these industries and would attract new industry into the metropolitan region."

The bills were referred to the finance committees and probably will be considered along with the administration-backed plan to convert teachers colleges to four-year institutions and coordinate their educational efforts with those of the university and junior colleges.

Keyser Firm Now Division Of Emerson Electric Co.

Spokesmen for the Emerson-Pryne Company of Keyser have announced that effective January 1 the firm became a division of the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Company of St. Louis and henceforth will be known officially as the Emerson-Pryne Division.

E. L. Mouland has been named head of the division as general manager. He and his family live in Claremont, Calif.

The Keyser plant is under the direction of George Petras, plant manager, and William Vuicich, administrative supervisor. The Keyser operation operates entirely under the supervision of R. V. Burns, of the Pomona, Calif., head office.

Emerson-Pryne employs approximately 275 people and manufactures a complete line of exhaust fans, range hoods, recessed lights, bathroom heaters, and luminous ceilings which are sold nationally. The division also operates the Emerson Electric Builders Product Western Order Service and Shipping Center in Los Angeles.

Announcement of Emerson-Pryne as a division marks the second major change in this local firm since it was formed in Keyser in 1953. At that time it was known as Pryne and Company and was headed by its founder, Ralph Pryne. The firm was acquired by Emerson Electric in 1957. Ralph Pryne continued as chairman of the board and Phillip Pryne and E. F. Kelly have served as presidents.

Mr. Petras stated the changing from a subsidiary company to a division would have no effect on community relations and he felt over the long range the reorganization offered considerable growth potential. While pledging the firm's continued support of community programs, Mr. Petras commended Keyser's outstanding growth and progress, and credited the city officials, business leaders, and citizens of Keyser.

County Soil Unit Lists 1963 Goals

The Allegany County Soil Conservation Service has set its goals for maintaining conservation practices in the county during 1963.

Using a master plan of operation as a guide a schedule has been setup for the 1750 productive hours of the SCS staff workers.

Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist for the local SCS, said conservation practice goals for the year will include 20 basic conservation plans; 35 revisions on basic plans for farmers who have changed enterprises or land uses and for those farmers who want basic plans updated.

Other goals will be 100 acres of contour stripping which SCS encourages for hilly lands; installations of 10,000 feet of tile drainage and construction of four or five farm ponds.

The local staff also has set a goal to see at least 183 cooperators in the year's time.

Specialists such as engineers and agronomists will be brought in from time to time during the year to assist in specific conservation projects.

Labor To Seek More Benefits For Unemployed

Minimum Wage Law Is Asked

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Organized labor's pressure on the Maryland Legislature for more benefits for the unemployed will be renewed this year.

The AFL-CIO unveiled Thursday a comprehensive program ranging from better conditions for the workingman to support for a graduated state income tax, reapportionment, and racial integration.

The unions last year lost an effort on the ballot to block tightening of the qualifications for jobless benefits. The legislature at the same time increased the maximum weekly benefit from $35 to $38.

The AFL-CIO is proposing that the benefit be equal to two-thirds of the worker's last weekly wage. It also would extend the maximum duration of payments from 26 to 39 weeks.

The labor group recommends that the increased cost of the program be financed by taxing all employers 2.7 per cent on wages up to $4,800.

The tax now varies up to a maximum of 2.7 per cent and on wages up to $3,000.

Other parts of the AFL-CIO program are an hourly minimum wage of $1.25, 40-hour week, fixed wages on state construction projects, and abolition of prison labor.

The election committee will be in charge of the balloting at the union hall and at four polling places which will be set up at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

One additional candidate, Edward Crowe, for Executive Board, was nominated at a union meeting yesterday.

Four candidates have been nominated for the post of president of the 2,350 member union.

Turn Right On Red Sign Installed At Intersection

The Police Department yesterday placed a sign at the intersection of Laing and Virginia avenues designed to speed passenger car movements during B&O shift changes.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said the sign reads "Cars only turn right on red with care."

He said the plan will allow cars to enter Virginia Avenue but that trucks will not be allowed to turn on red, since they would stop other traffic when they started to swing to make the turn.

Mr. Keegan said the plan should help move traffic better at the intersection at all times but will prove especially valuable at shift changes.

Real Estate Investment Bills Aired

By GORDON BEARD

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Two bills, which supporters say will make it easier for the average wage earner to invest in real estate, were explained Thursday to members of the general assembly.

The House Judiciary Committee was urged to back condominium, or the "horizontal property" concept. Under the practice, a building can be subdivided into office space or apartments which can be owned by different people.

Owners would be able to sell, mortgage and convey such property the same as a home or any other building.

Another bill, designed to encourage the formation of real estate investment trusts in Maryland, was given backing at a hearing of the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee.

Such trusts can be formed under current Maryland law, but proponents of the bill said legislation was needed to clarify the legal framework and to protect both the state and the investor.

No one spoke in opposition to either measure, which were recommended by the Legislative Council.

Albert W. Ward, director of the State Department of Assessments and Taxation, testified on behalf of the real estate investment trusts.

The bill provides that ownership of the trust must be held by 100 or more persons, with no less than six persons controlling more than 50 per cent of the shares. At least 90 per cent of the annual taxable income must be distributed as dividends.

John W. Avirett II, a member of the Baltimore law firm which helped prepare the legislation, said shares of out-of-state trusts are being sold to Maryland investors, stimulating construction and the real estate market outside the state.

Avirett saidt he trusts would enable the small investor to participate in the ownership of income-producing properties.

A similar bill died in committee last year. It has since been amended, including a provision that the trust cannot hold and use land for farming, agricultural, horticultural or similar purposes.

Redistricting Bill Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Compulsory standards for congressional redistricting would be set up under a bill proposed by Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Md.

State legislatures would be given the right to create new congressional districts so long as the districts conform to general principles of contiguity, equal population and compactness. Otherwise, the Census Bureau would do the redistricting, subject to judicial review.

Sickles ran at large last year after a new 8th District in Maryland was drawn up by the State Legislature but was successfully challenged by the Maryland League of Women Voters in a petition campaign which brought it to a popular vote and eventual defeat.

Tawes To Issue Statement On Unit Vote Plan

Demos Delete Names Of GOP Sponsors

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Only the word of Democratic Gov. Tawes appeared to be needed Thursday for the Maryland Legislature to repeal the state's unique unit vote system of nominating major candidates.

"I do not have any comment at this time," the governor said. "I want to make it in a prepared statement so my position will be clear.

He said he may issue the statement in the next day or so.

His three top leaders in the house, the speaker, floor leader and chairman of the Ways & Means Committee, were among sponsors of the bill introduced Thursday afternoon to choose party candidates by popular vote.

House Republicans were denied an opportunity to label it a bipartisan gesture. Their names were on the bill originally, but the Democratic leadership deleted them. The score of Republican delegates voted earlier this week in caucus to seek elimination of the unit vote system.

The house Republicans did succeed in beating the administration to the punch on another major issue, equal public accommodations.

Gov. Tawes said he also will have a bill introduced as he has promised, probably late next week. It will be the same as the one which failed at a special session last year.

The GOP version is stronger in one respect that it calls for imprisonment up to six months and a fine up to $2,000 for refusal to serve anyone in a hotel or restaurant.

The administration bill would subject violators to punishment for contempt of a court order which is not as severe.

Baltimore City and Montgomery County are the only two Maryland subdivisions where there are laws prohibiting racial discrimination in public places.

The election committee will be in charge of the balloting at the union hall and at four polling places which will be set up at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

One additional candidate, Edward Crowe, for Executive Board, was nominated at a union meeting yesterday.

Four candidates have been nominated for the post of president of the 2,350 member union.

They are William Atkinson, Textile Engineering Department committeeman; James Filsinger, incumbent vice president; Earl L. Snyder, former president, and John G. Thomas, incumbent president.

Baltimore Co. Branch Urged For University

Legislation Is Proposed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature was asked Thursday to establish a branch of the University of Maryland, both graduate and undergraduate, in Baltimore County.

It was the first of several moves which are expected at this session to have university branches established in various areas of the state.

Identical bills were introduced in the senate and house by Sen. James A. Pine and Del. Roy N. Staten, Baltimore County Democrats.

They noted that of the university's 16,886 undergraduate enrollment at College Park, approximately one-third comes from the Baltimore area. Most of these, they said, are from Baltimore County.

Observing that the university's College Park enrollment is expected to increase to 25,000 by the fall of 1967, Pine said:

"It will take at least five years to plan, finance and construct new facilities in the Baltimore metropolitan area and to delay will mean further overcrowding at the College Park campus and perhaps mean a denial of a college education to some qualified Maryland students.

"If a branch. . .were established in Baltimore County, it would not only provide the relief so necessary for the ever-increasing number of qualified students but also it would serve as a nucleus for scientific research and developmennt in this area.

"Baltimore County is blessed with a number of science-based industries which are currently engaged in highly specialized research and development work and a graduate branch of the university would undoubtedly be of great assistance to these industries and would attract new industry into the metropolitan region."

The bills were referred to the finance committees and probably will be considered along with the administration-backed plan to convert teachers colleges to four-year institutions and coordinate their educational efforts with those of the university and junior colleges.

Keyser Firm Now Division Of Emerson Electric Co.

Spokesmen for the Emerson-Pryne Company of Keyser have announced that effective January 1 the firm became a division of the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Company of St. Louis and henceforth will be known officially as the Emerson-Pryne Division.

E. L. Mouland has been named head of the division as general manager. He and his family live in Claremont, Calif.

Manufacturing operations are headed by Richard V. Burns, as works manager, and George Eschbacher, formerly chief accountant of the company, has been promoted to comptroller.

Harold Ford, Claremont, is the chief engineer and is responsible for the designing and engineering of all Pryne products. Phillip D. Pryne, formerly president of the Emerson-Pryne subsidiary, has been appointed president of the Builders Products Division of Emerson Electric in St. Louis.

The Keyser plant is under the direction of George Petras, plant manager, and William Vuicich, administrative supervisor. The Keyser operation operates entirely under the supervision of R. V. Burns, of the Pomona, Calif., head office.

Emerson-Pryne employs approximately 275 people and manufactures a complete line of exhaust fans, range hoods, recessed lights, bathroom heaters, and luminous ceilings which are sold nationally. The division also operates the Emerson Electric Builders Product Western Order Service and Shipping Center in Los Angeles.

Announcement of Emerson-Pryne as a division marks the second major change in this local firm since it was formed in Keyser in 1953. At that time it was known as Pryne and Company and was headed by its founder, Ralph Pryne. The firm was acquired by Emerson Electric in 1957. Ralph Pryne continued as chairman of the board and Phillip Pryne and E. F. Kelly have served as presidents.

Mr. Petras stated the changing from a subsidiary company to a division would have no effect on community relations and he felt over the long range the reorganization offered considerable growth potential. While pledging the firm's continued support of community programs, Mr. Petras commended Keyser's outstanding growth and progress, and credited the city officials, business leaders, and citizens of Keyser.

County Soil Unit Lists 1963 Goals

The Allegany County Soil Conservation Service has set its goals for maintaining conservation practices in the county during 1963.

Using a master plan of operation as a guide a schedule has been setup for the 1750 productive hours of the SCS staff workers.

Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist for the local SCS, said conservation practice goals for the year will include 20 basic conservation plans; 35 revisions on basic plans for farmers who have changed enterprises or land uses and for those farmers who want basic plans updated.

Other goals will be 100 acres of contour stripping which SCS encourages for hilly lands; installations of 10,000 feet of tile drainage and construction of four or five farm ponds.

The local staff also has set a goal to see at least 183 cooperators in the year's time.

Specialists such as engineers and agronomists will be brought in from time to time during the year to assist in specific conservation projects.

Boy To Be Quizzed In Theft Of Sled

A 15-year-old local boy will be questioned by city police this morning in connection with the theft of a sled which was taken from the home of Mrs. James Layman, 40 Moran Avenue on January 2.

The sled was recovered Wednesday night by Det. Kenneth Morrissey and Lt. Thomas J. See.

Police said the lad who took the sled painted the top of the sled but neglected to paint out lettering on the underneath.

Labor To Seek More Benefits For Unemployed

Minimum Wage Law Is Asked

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Organized labor's pressure on the Maryland Legislature for more benefits for the unemployed will be renewed this year.

The AFL-CIO unveiled Thursday a comprehensive program ranging from better conditions for the workingman to support for a graduated state income tax, reapportionment, and racial integration.

The unions last year lost an effort on the ballot to block tightening of the qualifications for jobless benefits. The legislature at the same time increased the maximum weekly benefit from $35 to $38.

The AFL-CIO is proposing that the benefit be equal to two-thirds of the worker's last weekly wage. It also would extend the maximum duration of payments from 26 to 39 weeks.

The labor group recommends that the increased cost of the program be financed by taxing all employers 2.7 per cent on wages up to $4,800.

The tax now varies up to a maximum of 2.7 per cent and on wages up to $3,000.

Other parts of the AFL-CIO program are an hourly minimum wage of $1.25, 40-hour week, fixed wages on state construction projects, and abolition of prison labor.

Examinations will be given for three categories of scholarships.

The first category will be for the general state tuition scholarship of which there are seven available, one for each of the county legislators. These scholarships are for $2,000 each for four years with a maximum of $500 each year.

These scholarships may be used in all degree-granting colleges of higher education which have been approved by the State Board of Education. These schools include Allegany Community College and Frostburg State Teachers College.

The second type of examination will be for teacher education scholarships. There also are seven of these available, but these scholarships must be used in private institutions for teacher education.

$2,000 Awards

These scholarships also are for $2,000 for four years with a maximum of $500 each year. Persons who accept these must give a bond that they will teach in the public schools of Maryland for two years following graduation.

The third examination will be given for the state senatorial scholarship which carries the same financial benefits. However, at the present time it is not known what scholarships are available at the various eligible institutions.

Schools where this scholarship may be applied are Hood College, Maryland Institute of Art, Morgan State College, Peabody Institute, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College and St. Mary's Seminary Junior College.

The Police Department yesterday placed a sign at the intersection of Laing and Virginia avenues designed to speed passenger car movements during B&O shift changes.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said the sign reads "Cars only turn right on red with care."

He said the plan will allow cars to enter Virginia Avenue but that trucks will not be allowed to turn on red, since they would stop other traffic when they started to swing to make the turn.

Mr. Keegan said the plan should help move traffic better at the intersection at all times but will prove especially valuable at shift changes.
